teachers, enrichment programs for students, and future modernization of the building. Friends of Ross Elementary, both in the neighborhood and nationwide, have helped to raise more than $40,000 for the school in the past two years.

"Ross Elementary continues to be an incredible asset to the neighborhood and Ward," said Evans. "I hope everyone will support our local school and school children at this important fundraising event."

Ross Elementary is a public elementary school for 150 preschool through fifth grade children, located in the heart of Dupont Circle.

Dupont Circle Village Announces Spring Events

Dupont Circle Village, a non-profit neighborhood organization that connects aging residents to services and activities, is holding two spring events open to the public.

On Saturday, April 30, the Village will hold its Sizzling Sidewalk Sale from 9:30am-3:30pm on S Street, NW between Connecticut Avenue and 20th Street (across from Ruth's Chris Steakhouse). A rain date for the event has been set for Sunday, May 1.

"I encourage everyone to come out and support the great work of Dupont Village," Evans said. "What they do is essential to helping our aging population stay in our neighborhoods where they can continue to contribute to the community."

Proceeds from the sale will support the Village mission of connecting neighbors and meeting the challenges of older neighborhood residents.

Donations and volunteers are both needed for the event. Those interested in volunteering or donating goods for the sale should contact Abigail Wiebenson.

The Village is also co-sponsoring a book party for author Jane Gross at the Mansion on O Street on Thursday, May 5. The event is free and open to non-members.

Jane Gross, the New York Times reporter who wrote the 2007 front-page story that put the Village movement on the map will address the three local Villages - Dupont Circle Village, Palisades Village, and Northwest Neighbors Village.

Her latest book, A Bittersweet Season: Caring for Our Aging Parents-And Ourselves, published by Knopf Books, is an intimate story of how Ms. Gross cared for her aged and ailing mother and offers practical, essential advice on virtually every aspect of elder care.

Ms. Gross will answer questions following her presentation and will sign copies of her book, which will be available at the meeting.

More information on the work of Dupont Circle Village can be found here.

School Beautification Day in Shaw Slated for Saturday

Looking for an opportunity to enjoy the spring weather with your friends and neighbors? Want to help to beautiful a neighborhood school? You'll have your chance on Saturday, April 30 at KIPP DC's Shaw campus (421 P Street, NW).

From 8:00am-1:00pm, Shaw neighbors and church congregations will help to beautiful the KIPP DC campus by planting low growing, drought hardy plants in the tree boxes surrounding the school. Additional contributions from neighbors and area businesses are also appreciated.

"Saturday will offer a great chance for neighbors to come together for the benefit of one of our many great neighborhood schools," said Evans. "I hope everyone will consider pitching in a few hours to help beautify this corner of Shaw."

The event is being sponsored by the Convention Center Community Association (CCCA). Individuals or businesses interested in participating should contact CCCA President Martin Moulton.

Evans Addresses Convention Center Community Association

Councilmember Evans joined Mayor Vincent Gray, At-Large Councilmember Phil Mendelson, MPD Chief Cathy Lanier, and US Attorney Ron Machen at the April meeting of the Convention Center Community Association (CCCA).

The meeting largely focused on the issue of crime in the Shaw neighborhood. Evans gave an historical perspective of how far the Shaw neighborhood has come over the years, while acknowledging the challenges which still exist for many residents in the area.

"Shaw is a different place than it was ten years ago," said Evans. "While we have come a long way, we still have work to do in ensuring a safe neighborhood for everyone who lives, works, and visits here."

Evans went on to discuss neighborhood improvements such as the Kennedy Recreation Center, the Washington Convention Center, the soon to be opened O Street Market and Kelsey Gardens development, and the new Watha T. Daniel Library.

"Given all of these important neighborhood accomplishments, we are still experiencing shootings, which is unacceptable," said Evans.

The US Attorney encouraged the community to stand up and to "say something if you see something," and help law enforcement put away known criminals. Chief Lanier explained that while overall crime across the city is decreasing, including violent crimes, the department is struggling with robberies and burglaries. At Councilmember Evans' request, MPD has also diverted additional resources from across the District to the Shaw neighborhood.

The meeting was also attended by Deputy Mayor for Public Safety Paul Quander and DC Fire Chief Kenneth Ellerbe.

Logan Circle "Treasure Hunt" on Saturday

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED WMATA-INV 012057

The Logan Circle Community Association (LCCA) is sponsoring a very 20th-century neighborhood rummage sale on the 1300 block of Vermont Avenue, NW on Saturday, April 30 from 9:00am-1:00pm.

The public is invited to participate, either as shoppers or as sellers. Sellers need to supply their own tables and chairs and there is a $10 fee to help defray the cost of publicity.

There's no need to make reservations and no alternative rain date. Just show up rain or shine and enjoy a fun neighborhood event with your Logan Circle neighbors.

For more information, please contact Frank Mobilio.

Department of Public Works Announces New Policy

The Department of Public Works (DPW) recently announced that effective Monday, April 25 it will begin charging residents $45 each for new 32-gallon trash cart and 32-gallon recycling cart. Previously, new homeowners and those who had their cans stolen were provided new carts at no charge. If you had already requested a trash and/or recycling cart from DPW prior to April 25, you will not be charged.

"While we are not pleased with this new fee, we are passing along this information so that our residents have it. We also encourage residents to mark their carts with an address for identification," Evans said. "I have asked DPW to see if there is a way to remove this fee as they work through their FY 2012 budget."

Remember that putting out your trash without using a can is not an option, and you could be fined. If you don't have a city issued trash can, you can use one that you've purchased from an area hardware store.

Sherri Kimbel is Evans' DPW liaison.

Where's Jack?

Councilmember Evans is pleased to announce that he will be speaking to several civic organizations and attending several

Evans will attend the following meetings and events in May:

Roz,

Please see the GM's 11/22/10 at 9:52 AM email (copy below) to Peter Benjamin stating that the 12/16/10 Twinbrook item would go to the public session rather than executive session. The BAR was updated today: http://p590a3.wmata.com:7778/pls/bar/p_bar_public. Unfortunately, you were not cc'd on that email or on the follow-on 11/22/10 at 10:05 AM email.

When I conveyed this public session decision to you a moment ago, you said that the presentation would need to be revised to delete information that would not be suitable for a public session.

Before you change either the BAIS or the presentation, please show Nat (cc: me) the changes you propose to make.

The mailout is next Friday, 12/10/10.

Thanks.

Mark—

FYI, Peter's response to your explanation, via Sarles. He simply requests that the explanation you provided be included in the Tie Breaker presentation.

I do need to say that – assuming we don't get the $180,000 delinquent payment – it's a little awkward that we're likely to pull this item after this amount of back and forth involving the GM and Board Chair.

I suppose I can say that this is the kind of brinksmanship our "partners" play with us, and that we may have to push them back to conform with our prebrief schedules. But I'm slightly uncomfortable. Any suggestions for further explanations if we are asked whether we knew about the risk of the item being pulled during the prebrief process?

Peter,
Twinbrook will go to open session of JD&RE.

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED WMATA-INV 012065

Staff provided the following explanation on lease terms:
Regarding the tie-breaker station property, when we initially were negotiating a lease for the air rights at Shaw-Howard U station north entrance with Broadcast Center Partners (a very similar project), BCP ran into considerable resistance from its lender with certain lease issues such as default, termination, subordination, partial completion, restoring property, timing of events, etc. The problem was that 99% of BCP's building was going to be built on its property, not WMATA's, and their lender could not accept the uncertainty and risk associated with a lease. We have an almost identical situation here with only a very small portion of the developer's building being built in WMATA's air space. Having spent considerable time negotiating a lease with BCP which their lender could not accept, we opted for the easement here.

Nat:

1. Why don't we bring Twinbrook to the open session of JD&RE? It seems that we have had enough discussion of the terms so that it is unlikely that we will venture into sensitive territory at open session. If we do, we can stop the discussion.

2. Did we consider lease terms vs. sale for the tie breaker air rights item?

Mark,

Thank you for the email with your thoughts on the basic WMATA Financial Terms. Below are our comments:

Capitalized Lease Payments
If we agree to all of the other terms, we could agree to pay the value of the capitalized lease payment of $1.98M that your appraiser put together.

Please explain why you indicated that the value of the land was absent any subsidies other than 4% tax credits. Based on our knowledge of projects that include 20% affordable housing, and as discussed with you all on several occasions, the value of the land would be zero if we had to do 20% affordable housing and then we would still need some subsidies to cover the gap. We can't think of one project in the District that includes 20% affordable housing that is paying anywhere close to what we would pay WMATA AND these projects would still need subsidies.

We would not be willing to pay WMATA any portion of any subsidies that we obtain for the project, let alone paying 80% of anything that we get. We've mentioned this many times before as we believe that no project could move forward with 20% affordable housing and pay $1.98M at closing for the land, without some public subsidies to help close the gap because of the inclusion of the affordable housing units.

Pre-Closing Payments
Okay with amounts but payments would be made quarterly.

Additional Density
This is confusing. The portion of the alley that will be closed is 1,025 SF. About ½ will be deeded to WMATA and ½ will be deeded to us as the purchasers of the adjacent parcels that are next to the alley. Since we are building a 5 story building, this would mean 512 SF x 5 stories = 2,560 SF would be attributable to WMATA land. Based on your calculations of the value of the land, this would mean that we would pay about $16 per SF or $42,000 in additional capitalized rent at Lease execution. We could agree to this increase over the $1.98M.

Annual Operating Income Participation
We would agree to 1.5% of Effective Gross Income but would not run our Debt Service Coverage at 1.25. We've never run our DSC at 1.25 as our project couldn't be financed at this rate. We are using a 1.11 DSC because HUD allows this.

Capital Event Participation
Any equity or member loans to receive a 20% return prior to WMATA receiving its 10% of net proceeds. Member loans or equity are indistinguishable. We could agree that equity or member loans not to exceed 40% of the development costs.

Term
Initial term is 60 years with an option for the Developer to extend for another 39 years. Any annual escalation after the initial term to be at 1%, not 3%.

After yesterday's meeting, we thought that we were much closer to resolving the financial issues with you all. However, based on the terms that you sent us this afternoon, it appears that you all want to continue to raise new issues and change old ones. We cannot send over a summary of open issues until we know where we are with the ones above.

We welcome meeting with you again on Friday to try to come to some agreement on these terms.

Comments/suggestions on this response to Jim Graham? Apparently we don't need to go back to the Board to reopen the process, unless you think we should (Section 7.38 grants me explicit authority to proceed). The only reason to go back would be due to how controversial the Banneker proposal became. The 2002 guidelines make no mention whatsoever of a time period in which Metro must process the responses, so the "reasonable" period of time discussion is moot. Please advise

Steve

Jim

The Florida Avenue RFP was issued on 8/24/07, prior to the 11/20/08 adoption of the current Joint Development Policies and Guidelines. Under the 2002 Guidelines, in the event Metro cannot come to agreement with the selected respondent, it may keep the solicitation open to negotiate with the other respondents. Accordingly, my staff will be contacting the two other respondents to commence negotiations for the site.

Subject: RE: Graham meeting

We're meeting with Banneker this afternoon to try to finalize price.

We are scheduled to meet with Mr. Graham in his office tomorrow to discuss details of the project with him. We can elaborate on all of the information below in greater depth tomorrow if needed.

After trying for months to arrange a long-term lease, we shifted to a sale approach because the project design requires a building to cross property lines, and Counsel told us we could not lease property where we could not get our land back in the event of our partner's default.

A sale is much quicker than a lease from an agreement point of view – the parties just have to agree on price. That's what we're meeting about this afternoon.

Mr. Albert is adamant that this item be included on the October agenda. We're ok with that as long as our appraiser can comfortably sign off on the value. The Banneker team is contesting aspects of our appraiser's work, and we are meeting this afternoon to hear their concerns. If we and our appraiser agree with their points, the final price will reflect that. If we and the appraiser do not agree with their points, we will not agree to a sale below our appraiser's estimated value.

We gave the Banneker team two choices as to how to approach the sale value – one approach was to do a straight appraisal of the value of the land reflecting 8% mandatory inclusion affordable housing guidelines for the property. We told Banneker that we thought a sale value at that amount would not encounter delays from Maryland and Virginia Board members because it would be a straight sale based on appraised value -- a normal transaction. The other approach was to deduct from the value of the land the cost of providing affordable housing on the property at the levels called for in the Duke Plan. We told Banneker that this was a much less certain approach, because it would reduce the value of the land by 50% of more, and Maryland and Virginia Board members could easily balk at that. Banneker chose straight sale based on appraised value – the normal approach. We're now negotiating price.

Mr. Graham and Mr. Catoe should be aware of a few things:

1) The value we're looking at now is much less than was proposed initially by the Banneker team – the original present value offered was about $14 million. It is about one quarter of that now. We can explain why – part is that the $14 million number did not include deductions in value resulting from building over our tunnel, which would be a deduction deducted from ANY proposer's value; part is that the $14 million number did not include deductions for including affordable housing (the reason being we wanted to compare offers on the basis of 0% affordable housing so there was a level playing field between proposals); and partly there's been a drastic reduction in development values due to the recession.

2) If the Board for any reason does not approve the sale to Banneker, or if staff are unable to reach agreement on price, the property would be available to be sold as excess property. This is a much simpler disposition process than joint development, and could be concluded by a sale to the highest bidder whose bid met or exceeded appraised value.

3) If we were to move in the direction of an excess property sale, we'd want to consider timing – this is not an optimal market to sell in. We might want to delay. However, if there are other considerations, the property could be disposed of immediately.

4) Sale of excess property would generate funds to WMATA's capital budget as opposed to the jurisdictions' TIIF fund.

There may be some other points, but these are the key ones.

Thanks,

Nat

Shiva, Emeka, and Carol –

Assuming we reach agreement with Banneker on terms today, which I'm anticipating we will, there's a good chance Neil will want an item on the October calendar to approve the terms sheet.

I'd like to have a chance to brief you on the project so you know what the issues are, and I'd like to schedule some time with Mr. Graham to bring him up to speed and advise him as to what we think next steps could be.

I think we can do this in 30 minutes. Shiva, can you let me know if this is ok, and can Cassandra set up a meeting early next week for the group of us, please?

We can discuss attendance for a meeting with Graham, but I'd suggest me, Mark Meister, Steve Goldin, Art Lawson, and Carol or a designee if she believes that is warranted.

Thanks very much,

Nat

All--

Got a call this morning from Mr. Graham. He wanted to know if we would have a chance to meet with him before next week's Executive Session to hear additional information he has gathered about the merits of the proposal that we recommended the Board approve.

I said that we'd be meeting internally on Thursday to review the information we've prepared, and that I thought we'd be able to meet with him before the Executive session next week. I also mentioned it would be best to meet with him and also a representative of the Administration at the same time.

Mr. Graham agreed that a joint meeting with Emeka or other representative before the Exec Session would be best - he opined that if we did not have this opportunity before the Executive Session that the Exec Session "would not be pretty."

Carol and we are meeting on Thursday to review the materials that have been requested and prepared - I'd like to add to our agenda for that day an item regarding presentation of materials to Mr. Graham and a mayoral representative prior to the Executive Session.

Thanks very much,

Nat

Subject: Comments to Appraisal of 700 and 800 blocks of Florida Avenue NW
Importance: High

Nat, Mark, Malcolm and Roz,

Below please find our thoughts on the appraisal by Harps & Harps for the WMATA-owned parcels on the 700 and 800 blocks of Florida Avenue, NW dated September 17, 2009. Based on our analysis, we would be prepared to pay WMATA a total of $2,545,000 to purchase the parcels. Our rationale is as follows:

1. WMATA parcels actually total 28,357 SF (as oppose to 28,892 SF that was listed in the appraisal and mistakenly in our pro forma sent to WMATA). Our surveyor recently completed a field survey of the sites, which resulted in the following information:

	RECORD	SURVEY
Lot 31, Square 416	15,956 sq. ft.	15,944.97 sq.ft.
Lot 44, Square 393	3,799 sq. ft.	3,784.45 sq.ft.
Lot 45, Square 45	8,621 sq. ft.	8,627.48 sq.ft.
Total sq. ft.	28,376 sq. ft.	28,356.90 sq. ft.

RECORD means information shown in the District of Columbia Surveyor's Office and SURVEY means information actually gathered by the surveyor during field surveys. Also, our surveyor performed research in the D.C. Surveyor's Office and found that Lot 0018 is no longer a valid lot. WMATA performed a subdivision on lots 0012 - 0018 to create lot 0031. The subdivision was completed on December 26, 1996.

2. Total developable FAR SF of WMATA parcels should be as follows:

15,945 SF x 3.35 FAR (developable FAR according to Eric Colbert, AIA, the appraiser's consultant) = 53,415.75 SF
8,621 SF x 3.83 FAR = 33,018.43 SF
3,799 SF x 4.11 FAR = 15,613.89 SF
Total developable SF = 102,048.08 SF

Thus, no premium should be added to this 102,048 SF because the Developer is unsure if it will be able to achieve its desired density on the adjacent parcels because the buildings that are part of the development may contribute to the 9th Street Historic District, and therefore, all, or part of the buildings may need to be kept, and therefore the Developer may not be able to demolish these buildings and as a result by not be able to build out to its desired FAR for the entire project. Moreover, if the buildings are not able to be fully demolished, the Developer will have to expend significant costs to maintain all or a portion of these structures. Thus, it is inappropriate to view the entirety of the development density generated by the WMATA sites and our sites as oppose to WMATA's stand alone sites, unless WMATA is willing to discount the price that the Developer is paying for the adjacent parcels as the price has a negative economic impact on the entire project.

3. Upon review of the comps in the appraisal, and discussion with an appraiser that we often work with for projects in this area, comps should only be used that are less than 12 months old. However, since there has been a lack of sales activity in this market, the appraiser indicated that it might use comps in the last 18 months (comps 3-6), but certainly not comps in 2006 and 2007. Thus, if comp 1 (which is almost 3 years old), comp 2 (which is 24 months old) and comp 3 (which is 20 months old) were removed from the comp chart, the average sales price is $46 per FAR before any adjustments and before taking into account that the contract on the parcel at 1912 8th Street may not go for the price that its under contract for. If we use the appraiser's adjustment of 15% per year on each parcel (0.0125% deduct per month) the comp sales would indicate an adjusted price range of $41.88 (comp 4), $36.55 (comp 5) and $38.25 (comp 6 assuming property closed w/n 12 months of contract) or average of $38.89 per FAR. Thus, none of the last three comps sold for more than $41.88 per FAR and therefore, we believe a comparable sales value would be no more than $41.88 per FAR. If you added a location bump, we could accept a price of $45 per FAR assuming we purchased the property within 12 months of approval of a purchase agreement.

4. Thus, the Unencumbered Value of the WMATA parcels would be $45 per FAR x 102,048 or $4,592,160.

5. Adjustment to Value b/c of Inclusionary Zoning. A deduct to the overall value b/c of inclusion of the IZ should be calculated by taking into account the difference b/t what market rate units would generate and what IZ units would generate. Assuming that we have 8,163 SF attributed to the IZ units (8% of total buildable SF of project), and assuming that the market units would generate $2.5 SF and the IZ units would generate $1.5 SF, this would be a delta of $1 per SF. Multiplying 8,163 x $1 per SF x 12 months per year would generate a loss of $97,956 (approx $100,000) per year in loss revenue. Capping this at a 6.5% would generate a $1.538M loss.

6. Adjustment to Value b/c of Extraordinary Costs (WMATA Easements and Tunnels): $2,300,000 (according to WMATA)

Final Value of Property Subject to IZ and WMATA Tunnels and Easements

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED

Value unencumbered: $4,592,160
Adjustments for IZ: $1,538,000
Adjustments for Extraordinary Costs: $2,300,000

Final Encumbered Value of Property: $754,160

However, the Developer would be willing to pay the following to purchase the parcels:

$1,980,000 (amount that we agreed to pay in a capitalized lease)
$350,000 (value that the EGI payments is worth)
$100,000 (Option Fee)
$115,000 (Pre-Closing payments)

TOTAL PAYMENTS TO WMATA $2,545,000.00

This offer assumes that WMATA will be willing to have our Term Sheet go to the Board in October, the Purchase Agreement go to the Board at the November meeting, and agree to a critical path schedule with all of WMATA's reviews.

We hope that we can meet tomorrow to wrap up the final terms of the Revised Term Sheet.

Thanks.

Omar,

We have reviewed your points below as well as the "blue line" you sent us and have the following to relate:

We will accept your comments on items 1, 2 and 4. On item 1, you are correct, in your e-mail about increasing your offer to $5.2 million indicated that you were including the value of Effective Gross Income (EGI) participation. On item 2, we have no problem with keying the deadline to lease closing. On item 4, which you newly raise, we can agree as we will value the land as if vacant in year 50 (per draft lease language) and have a 3% annual escalation per the term sheet. Just to be clear on item 4, we are talking about a total 75-year lease: a 50 year initial term and 25 year extension.

With respect to item 3, we hold to the language that we sent you and reiterate the reasoning that Josh gave you . The capital event exclusions that you had-- transfers among existing members and to wholly owned entities and transfer of interests in publicly traded entities-- could all be profitable events in which WMATA should participate. Hence, we cannot agree to excluding them. And, in a refinancing we are talking about getting only 2% of proceeds after original senior project mortgage debt, which debt according to your pro forma represents 70% of project cost. So given that we are getting no EGI, we do not think it reasonable to further water down the 2% refinancing proceeds that we participate in and cannot agree to do so.

We are available to discuss further if need be.

Josh,

Attached please find our comments to the Term Sheet. All comments are consistent with our recent emails and meeting a few weeks ago. Three points of note:

1. Getting our investors to increase the capitalized lease from $2.8M to $5.2M required us to remove the EGI participation in order to made the deal work;
2. Getting to grade will be based on a certain number of days from Closing as oppose to execution of the JDA;
3. The terms that we previously negotiated on what triggers Capital Event participation (transfers, etc.) must remain the same; and
4. Since we decreased the lease from 99 years to 75 years, our investors require one option period of 25 years as oppose to several which the term sheet was unclear about.

Can we meet this week to finalize the document? We are available tomorrow after 10, Thursday after 12 and Friday except 1-2:30.

Thanks.

Omar and Tiwana,

The updated draft of the Term Sheet is attached hereto.

We have incorporated the lease execution and foundation completion dates in the second schedule that Tiwanna sent us (this shows 21, instead of 20 months as in the Nov term sheet, to get to lease closing and 7 months after that to get to foundation completion, the latter not having been addressed in the Nov term sheet).

We have eliminated exclusions from the capital events definition that seem to us to be the equivalent of profit making events in which WMATA should share, namely transfers among existing members and to wholly-owned entities and transfers of interests in publicly traded entities—all of which allow buyouts by partners, which are capital events. Given Metro's modest 2% stake in capital events, we cannot see that this is at issue.

We have clarified net capital event proceeds to exclude any payouts below the retirement of original senior mortgage debt. This again is to eliminate carve outs that further reduce Metro's limited 2% participation.

Please do not hesitate to contact me with any questions.

Roz,

When do you need responses for these items? As you know, bc of the birth of my child, I will be out for a few days and we will need to coordinate with the GC, our legal counsel and investor re 2, 3, 8 and 9. The balance of the responses are below:

1. The location of the spaces haven't been finalized yet as we are considering either having (a) 1 level of parking under each of the larger bldgs which we proposed in our initial submittal, or (b) use a mechanical system at level G1 of one bldg which would accommodate the 41 spaces. Based on the 153,000 sf, zoning would require 55 spaces. However, we met with OP and they expressed their interest in having us build less parking spaces for the project, even less than what zoning requires. This could be accomplished either through the BZA or Zoning Commission through a PUD, which they fully support.

4. 70 yrs is fine.

5. Yes. However, as previously discussed, bc Graham wanted us to do a lease vs a sale, he and I, and then Catoe and the staff, agreed that we would replace BACDC in the future as they were comfortable with a sale but not a lease.

6. Graham agreed to the adjustment and Catoe was fine with it. We will review what we sent you re the adjustment amount.

7. Ok. Our GC will provide a bond from an insurer of at least AA similar to what you've seen on other wmata projects.

Good afternoon, Omar. Per our staff review this morning, we have the following comments/requests:

1. Parking feasibility- where will the 41 spaces go, precisely, and how will you be able to justify only 41 spaces for 153,000 gsf of residential and retail vis a vis zoning regulations and market?
2. What type of foundation system are you using to support the light gauge steel construction? The question, of course, relates to how you will span our tunnels.

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED WMATA-INV 012096

3. We think that with a 20% IRR to the developer, the return on adjusted gross income from capital event refinancing proceeds should be 10% of adjusted gross proceeds. Also, exclusions from capital events should be limited to estate transfers and to inclusion of equity/debt partners where no profit to participants is involved. They should definitely not include transfers among partners.
4. From discussions with other developers and comments from time to time from our board members, we believe that a 70 year lease would be sufficient and are requesting a reduction from 99 years.
5. Please reaffirm that BACDC is still in the deal as a development/financial partner.
6. On the cost credit for your consideration of a sale vs. lease this past Sept/Oct, please provide certification that Mr. Catoe or Mr. Graham offered that adjustment. Secondly, please be aware that from what you sent us previously, we can validate at best $30,000 if you still want to include this item in a term sheet.
7. We still need a development guaranty from a third party rated at least AA.
8. Please attach an updated schedule. We will include language in our agreement, per Board request, that if a foundation to street level is not provided by a date x , the project will revert to WMATA.
9. I want to reiterate the need for the pro formas and elevations/plans and, also, itemized sources of funds for development which I did not ask for yesterday.

Items 8 and 9 are important to get ASAP because the project has changed.

On a happy note, congratulations on your new son. Great news!

I look forward to your response.

Subject: RE: Florida Avenue - Term Sheet

Omar,

We have reviewed your points below as well as the "blue line" you sent us and have the following to relate:

We will accept your comments on items 1, 2 and 4. On item 1, you are correct, in your e-mail about increasing your offer to $5.2 million indicated that you were including the value of Effective Gross Income (EGI) participation. On item 2, we have no problem with keying the deadline to lease closing. On item 4, which you newly raise, we can agree as we will value the land as if vacant in year 50 (per draft lease language) and have a 3% annual escalation per the term sheet. Just to be clear on item 4, we are talking about a total 75-year lease: a 50 year initial term and 25 year extension.

With respect to item 3, we hold to the language that we sent you and reiterate the reasoning that Josh gave you . The capital event exclusions that you had-- transfers among existing members and to wholly owned entities and transfer of interests in publicly traded entities-- could all be profitable events in which WMATA should participate. Hence, we cannot agree to excluding them. And, in a refinancing we are talking about getting only 2% of proceeds after original senior project mortgage debt, which debt according to your pro forma represents 70% of project cost. So given that we are getting no EGI, we do not think it reasonable to further water down the 2% refinancing proceeds that we participate in and cannot agree to do so.

We are available to discuss further if need be.

Roz

Josh,

Attached please find our comments to the Term Sheet. All comments are consistent with our recent emails and meeting a few weeks ago. Three points of note:

1. Getting our investors to increase the capitalized lease from $2.8M to $5.2M required us to remove the EGI participation in order to made the deal work;
2. Getting to grade will be based on a certain number of days from Closing as oppose to execution of the JDA;
3. The terms that we previously negotiated on what triggers Capital Event participation (transfers, etc.) must remain the same; and
4. Since we decreased the lease from 99 years to 75 years, our investors require one option period of 25 years as oppose to several which the term sheet was unclear about.

Can we meet this week to finalize the document? We are available tomorrow after 10, Thursday after 12 and Friday except 1-2:30.

Thanks.

Omar and Tiwana,

The updated draft of the Term Sheet is attached hereto.

We have incorporated the lease execution and foundation completion dates in the second schedule that Tiwanna sent us (this shows 21, instead of 20 months as in the Nov term sheet, to get to lease closing and 7 months after that to get to foundation completion, the latter not having been addressed in the Nov term sheet).

We have eliminated exclusions from the capital events definition that seem to us to be the equivalent of profit making events in which WMATA should share, namely transfers among existing members and to wholly-owned entities and transfers of interests in publicly traded entities—all of which allow buyouts by partners, which are capital events. Given Metro's modest 2% stake in capital events, we cannot see that this is at issue.

We have clarified net capital event proceeds to exclude any payouts below the retirement of original senior mortgage debt. This again is to eliminate carve outs that further reduce Metro's limited 2% participation.

Omar, thanks very much for the response and for the effort that has gone in to improve the offer. I would like to ask you to send as supplemental information a new site plan and elevations showing the configuration and building heights by parcel that you are anticipating. We will need this as soon as possible as we will be reviewing this project with principals of the agency on Monday. Similarly, we will need revised development and operating pro formas as we will most certainly be questioned about whether we have reviewed the numbers and think that they are feasible. Some time has now gone by since receipt of the last set, and the construction method has changed. Both the plans/elevations and pro formas will be needed in order to make the best possible case for the revised offer.

Thanks in advance for your cooperation. Please call me if you need further detail or want to discuss.

Subject: Follow-up re Jazz @ Florida Avenue
Importance: High

Roz,

Per our call this morning, Banneker, our develop partner and investors for The Jazz @ Florida Avenue project (collectively, the "Developer") are prepared to increase our offer to WMATA as follows:

1. Make a capitalized lease payment of $5.2M at Closing. This is a 130% increase in value over WMATA's appraised value of $2.2M, and a 70% increase in value over our previous base offer of $3.03M, which includes the NPV of the capitalized lease plus the NPV of the EGI payments. This base offer is inclusive of the projected $2.8M loss in land value (as calculated by WMATA's appraiser Richard Harps) due to the 8% IZ requirement and the additional hard and soft costs incurred by the Project as a result of building over the WMATA tunnel.

2. Because of some of the concerns raised by WMATA staff, we would are prepared to move forward with developing the Project solely on the WMATA parcels (28,347 SF). We will forgo our purchase of the adjacent 9th Street parcels, thereby relieving any potential complications that would arise with the necessity of a Co-Tenancy Agreement, also allowing us to free up capital that would have been used toward purchasing those parcels, and instead use these funds to pay WMATA more funds at Closing. We will also not pursue an alley closing.

3. We will build the project at 4.5 FAR (as of right if not for the mandatory IZ rules that went into effect after our selection) plus the 20% bonus (0.9 FAR) that we would get because of the IZ units, bringing the total FAR to 5.4 FAR. The Project will consist of 153,000 GSF, with 137 residential units (with 12 IZ units), 14,000 SF and 41 parking spaces. Developer would pay WMATA an agreed upon rate of $ per FAR for any SF that it builds above the 153,000 SF.

4. The initial term of the lease will be for 50 years, with a 49 year option and resets to market value every 10 years after the initial 50 year term.

5. All other terms will remain consistent (i.e., participation in Capital Events, etc.).

A $5.2M upfront, non-contingent payment to WMATA is significantly higher than the recent appraisal completed by WMATA and close to our initial offer to WMATA in 2007, excluding the imposition of the IZ units and market conditions. Based on our analysis of our initial offer, the NPV of the offer, using reasonable interest rate assumptions, would have been about $11M, which is no where close to the $14M that WMATA staff informed us that this is what they calculated our offer to be. If this is the case, assuming that the market conditions brought the value down by 20% (which is conservative), this would bring the offer from $11M to $8.8M. Because we have to build IZ units, which force us to go from a stick build construction type to a light gauge steel product, and at the same time loose money on all of the IZ units as they do not support themselves without a subsidy, which the District does not provide for IZ units, this causes the value of the offer to go from $8.8M to the $5.2M that we are now offering, excluding WMATA's other participation rights in the Project.

As we have discussed previously, to date, the Developer has incurred over $1M since being selected by WMATA. We continue to remain hopeful that the exhaustive amount of money and time spent by Developer and WMATA in bringing this Project will produce a TOD project that all parties can be proud of. We look forward to seeing you on Friday at 2:30 and finalizing this last term of the deal so that we can get the JDA and Lease complete and presented to the Board at the next possible Board meeting. Should you have any questions prior to Friday, please feel free to contact us.

Warmest regards, I remain

Sincerely,

Omar

Josh,

Thanks for the term sheet. Can you forward this as a redline to the last version. Would make it much easier for us to go to the changes made versus having our counsel comb through the entire agreement line by line.

Thanks in advance.

Omar and Tiwana,

The updated draft of the Term Sheet is attached hereto.

We have incorporated the lease execution and foundation completion dates in the second schedule that Tiwanna sent us (this shows 21, instead of 20 months as in the Nov term sheet, to get to lease closing and 7 months after that to get to foundation completion, the latter not having been addressed in the Nov term sheet).

We have eliminated exclusions from the capital events definition that seem to us to be the equivalent of profit making events in which WMATA should share, namely transfers among existing members and to wholly-owned entities and transfers of interests in publicly traded entities—all of which allow buyouts by partners, which are capital events. Given Metro's modest 2% stake in capital events, we cannot see that this is at issue.

We have clarified net capital event proceeds to exclude any payouts below the retirement of original senior mortgage debt. This again is to eliminate carve outs that further reduce Metro's limited 2% participation.

Please do not hesitate to contact me with any questions.

Sincerely,

Josh Montague

Omar,

We have reviewed your points below as well as the "blue line" you sent us and have the following to relate:

We will accept your comments on items 1, 2 and 4. On item 1, you are correct, in your e-mail about increasing your offer to $5.2 million indicated that you were including the value of Effective Gross Income (EGI) participation. On item 2, we have no problem with keying the deadline to lease closing. On item 4, which you newly raise, we can agree as we will value the land as if vacant in year 50 (per draft lease language) and have a 3% annual escalation per the term sheet. Just to be clear on item 4, we are talking about a total 75-year lease: a 50 year initial term and 25 year extension.

With respect to item 3, we hold to the language that we sent you and reiterate the reasoning that Josh gave you . The capital event exclusions that you had-- transfers among existing members and to wholly owned entities and transfer of interests in publicly traded entities-- could all be profitable events in which WMATA should participate. Hence, we cannot agree to excluding them. And, in a refinancing we are talking about getting only 2% of proceeds after original senior project mortgage debt, which debt according to your pro forma represents 70% of project cost. So given that we are getting no EGI, we do not think it reasonable to further water down the 2% refinancing proceeds that we participate in and cannot agree to do so.

We are available to discuss further if need be.

Josh,

Attached please find our comments to the Term Sheet. All comments are consistent with our recent emails and meeting a few weeks ago. Three points of note:

1. Getting our investors to increase the capitalized lease from $2.8M to $5.2M required us to remove the EGI participation in order to made the deal work;
2. Getting to grade will be based on a certain number of days from Closing as oppose to execution of the JDA;
3. The terms that we previously negotiated on what triggers Capital Event participation (transfers, etc.) must remain the same; and
4. Since we decreased the lease from 99 years to 75 years, our investors require one option period of 25 years as oppose to several which the term sheet was unclear about.

Can we meet this week to finalize the document? We are available tomorrow after 10, Thursday after 12 and Friday except 1-2:30.

Thanks.

Subject: RE: Florida Avenue - Term Sheet

Regarding Omar's 4 POINTS below:

1. Omar did say in his e-mail of 2/23 in which he offered $5.2 million at closing that he was incorporating the npv of Effective Gross Income (Eric calculated its worth $843,000 npv). WE WILL RELUCTANTLY ACCEPT OMAR'S POINT ON THIS ONE.
2. No problem with this change; it is another way of saying the same thing. WE WILL ACCEPT OMAR'S POINT ON THIS ONE.
3. We should stick to our definitions in the capital events section especially since we no longer have a participation in Effective Gross Income and our 2% interests should not be diluted as Josh wrote when he sent Omar the revised term sheet last week . WE WILL NOT ACCEPT OMAR's POINT ON THIS ONE.
4. To the best of my knowledge this is an entirely NEW POINT. I do not mind conceding as 1) it is quite possible that as one nears the end of a lease term, the value will not increase and 2) we have a 3%/year escalator on the rent for the following 25 years after a reset in year 50. WE WILL ACCEPT OMAR'S POINT ON THIS ONE.

   Per Steve's request, we will clarify with Omar that he is talking about a total lease term of 75 years.

(The blue line that Omar sent back today contains a few changes from what he supposedly "agreed to" in November. In other words, when it comes to Metro wanting changes, there can be none. When it come to Banneker wanting changes, that's ok. Also, let's be very clear that when Omar says "my investors" he has given us no information about "my investors." Therefore, one has to assume that he is referring to his own desires.)

I will shortly e-mail Omar, regarding our conclusions on the 4 points.

I do not believe we have agreed on these terms.

#2 – The point of the time limit to get to grade is to ensure that this project does not linger. By tying it to closing, the developer can let the project linger by just pushing back closing. Additionally, WMATA does not get paid until closing. So, this time limit also ensures that the developer closes in a timely fashion and WMATA gets its money.

#3 – There were Capital Events in the previous version of the Term Sheet that went to the WMATA Board in November. Some of these Capital Event terms could allow the Developer to easily skirt around WMATA's participation (e.g., sales to other members or sales to wholly owned entities or sales to publicly traded companies).

Omar and Tiwana,

The updated draft of the Term Sheet is attached hereto.

We have incorporated the lease execution and foundation completion dates in the second schedule that Tiwanna sent us (this shows 21, instead of 20 months as in the Nov term sheet, to get to lease closing and 7 months after that to get to foundation completion, the latter not having been addressed in the Nov term sheet).

We have eliminated exclusions from the capital events definition that seem to us to be the equivalent of profit making events in which WMATA should share, namely transfers among existing members and to wholly-owned entities and transfers of interests in publicly traded entities—all of which allow buyouts by partners, which are capital events. Given Metro's modest 2% stake in capital events, we cannot see that this is at issue.

We have clarified net capital event proceeds to exclude any payouts below the retirement of original senior mortgage debt. This again is to eliminate carve outs that further reduce Metro's limited 2% participation.

Please do not hesitate to contact me with any questions.

Sincerely,

Josh,

Attached please find our comments to the Term Sheet. All comments are consistent with our recent emails and meeting a few weeks ago. Three points of note:

1. Getting our investors to increase the capitalized lease from $2.8M to $5.2M required us to remove the EGI participation in order to made the deal work;
2. Getting to grade will be based on a certain number of days from Closing as oppose to execution of the JDA;
3. The terms that we previously negotiated on what triggers Capital Event participation (transfers, etc.) must remain the same; and
4. Since we decreased the lease from 99 years to 75 years, our investors require one option period of 25 years as oppose to several which the term sheet was unclear about.

Can we meet this week to finalize the document? We are available tomorrow after 10, Thursday after 12 and Friday except 1-2:30.

Thanks.

Subject: Updated Project Schedule

Ms. Doggett,

Attached please find the updated project schedule reflecting approximately 630 days from JDA Execution to Closing (see line 11). Based on the 2 year delay that the parties have incurred from the initial approval of the Term Sheet by WMATA, we feel this is a very reasonable yet aggressive schedule. Also below please find Clark Builder's Group cost assessment of the Site security scenarios we discussed at our meeting on March 2nd.

"For this exercise I have assumed that all 3 parcels are at the same point in construction, although in actuality there will be a slight stagger in construction sequencing between each building.

Scenario 1 assumes excavation and sheeting & shoring operations are 100% complete. Concrete work has not started. The cost to refill the excavated holes, clean up and regrade the site, and stabilize the site would be approximately $325,000.
Scenario 2 assumes excavation and sheeting & shoring operations are 100% complete. Concrete slab on grade and foundation walls are complete, but the columns and elevated slab have not started. The cost to clean up and regrade the site, install the elevated slab, stairs, temporary waterproofing over the slab, doors and electric would be approximately $956,000.
Scenario 3 assumes the garage levels are 100% complete, including being dried in and secured. Concrete work is completed to the slab over the retail level. The cost to clean up the site, install temporary skin at the ground level, temporary waterproofing over the slab, doors and electric would be approximately $422,000."

Please let us know if you have any further questions. Thanks in advance.

Roz,

When do you need responses for these items? As you know, bc of the birth of my child, I will be out for a few days and we will need to coordinate with the GC, our legal counsel and investor re 2, 3, 8 and 9. The balance of the responses are below:

1. The location of the spaces haven't been finalized yet as we are considering either having (a) 1 level of parking under each of the larger bldgs which we proposed in our initial submittal, or (b) use a mechanical system at level G1 of one bldg which would accommodate the 41 spaces. Based on the 153,000 sf, zoning would require 55 spaces. However, we met with OP and they expressed their interest in having us build less parking spaces for the project, even less than what zoning requires. This could be accomplished either through the BZA or Zoning Commission through a PUD, which they fully support.

4. 70 yrs is fine.

5. Yes. However, as previously discussed, bc Graham wanted us to do a lease vs a sale, he and I, and then Catoe and the staff, agreed that we would replace BACDC in the future as they were comfortable with a sale but not a lease.

6. Graham agreed to the adjustment and Catoe was fine with it. We will review what we sent you re the adjustment amount.

7. Ok. Our GC will provide a bond from an insurer of at least AA similar to what you've seen on other wmata projects.

Good afternoon, Omar. Per our staff review this morning, we have the following comments/requests:

1. Parking feasibility- where will the 41 spaces go, precisely, and how will you be able to justify only 41 spaces for 153,000 gsf of residential and retail vis a vis zoning regulations and market?

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED WMATA-INV 012128

2. What type of foundation system are you using to support the light gauge steel construction? The question, of course, relates to how you will span our tunnels.
3. We think that with a 20% IRR to the developer, the return on adjusted gross income from capital event refinancing proceeds should be 10% of adjusted gross proceeds. Also, exclusions from capital events should be limited to estate transfers and to inclusion of equity/debt partners where no profit to participants is involved. They should definitely not include transfers among partners.
4. From discussions with other developers and comments from time to time from our board members, we believe that a 70 year lease would be sufficient and are requesting a reduction from 99 years.
5. Please reaffirm that BACDC is still in the deal as a development/financial partner.
6. On the cost credit for your consideration of a sale vs. lease this past Sept/Oct, please provide certification that Mr. Catoe or Mr. Graham offered that adjustment. Secondly, please be aware that from what you sent us previously, we can validate at best $30,000 if you still want to include this item in a term sheet.
7. We still need a development guaranty from a third party rated at least AA.
8. Please attach an updated schedule. We will include language in our agreement, per Board request, that if a foundation to street level is not provided by a date x , the project will revert to WMATA.
9. I want to reiterate the need for the pro formas and elevations/plans and, also, itemized sources of funds for development which I did not ask for yesterday.

Items 8 and 9 are important to get ASAP because the project has changed.

On a happy note, congratulations on your new son. Great news!

I look forward to your response.

Subject: FW: Jazz @ Florida Avenue - $100K credit

These are the same documents that we reviewed in November 2009.

The highest Additional Costs Credit that we could reasonably ascertain was $29,622.

That number is based on the following:

1. 9/18 to 10/21: The sale was initially offered at a meeting on 9/18. On the morning of 10/22, we received word that this project was back to a lease.

2. John Hagner's invoices: All of John's invoices were redacted to protect attorney-client privilege. But, assuming that all work done between 9/18 and 10/21 was solely addressing the lease-sale issue, John Hagner spent 25.0 hours working on this issue. At $531 per hour plus a $14 reimbursement for a taxi ride, this amounts to $13,289.

3. Banneker salaries: The developer claims that 50% of the salaries for three employees during the relevant time period should be included in the credit. Assuming this claim is true, then over September and October, this amount equals $29,166. When prorated for the 9/18 to 10/21 period, this amounts to $16,333.

4. Holland and Knight: This invoice was not included because there is no indication of relevant time or work. As we understand it, Holland and Knight is the developer's zoning attorney. It is not clear what additional work the zoning attorney would have to do because of the proposed switch to a sale.

5. Torti Gallas: This invoice was not included because there is no indication of relevant time or work. Torti Gallas is the providing architectural services. It is not clear what additional work the architects would have to do because of the proposed switch to a sale.

Roz,

Below please find the email that we sent to Nat and Steve on November 4, 2009 detailing the expenses that we incurred as a result of the change from a lease to a sale and now back to a lease. The total expenses are $115,308.76. As agreed with Messrs. Graham and Catoe, we will reduce the amount owed to WMATA by the $100k. For ease of the transaction, we will reduce the security deposit due at execution of the JDA (originally $250k) by this amount.

Subject: FW: FINAL Term Sheet b/t WMATA and Developer - Shaw/Howard-FloridaAvenue Sites
Per our meeting today, this is a reminder that we should inform the developer of the following:

1. There will be no more negotiating of the terms after the board approves the Term Sheet; and

2. The Developer must work off of the Florida Ave Lease draft that was sent to them by WMATA on 7/24/09. We cannot work off of the Rhode Island Ave Lease for reasons previously provided to John Hagner and Omar Karim.

Have a good weekend,

Josh

Nat,

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED WMATA-INV 012133

Thanks for your thoughts. We appreciate them. For purposes of tomorrow, we accept the Term Sheet as sent to us this evening.

Following approval of the Term Sheet, we will give more thought to this particular issue to help come up with a way to meet your goals. Should we be able to come up with an agreeable solution prior to finalizing the JDA and Lease, we could include the solution in these docs. Alternatively, there is probably even more time bt approval of these docs and execution of the Lease prior to Closing to come up with solutions. In either case, we promise to provide you and your team with some solutions to address the concerns of all parties.

Thanks for working so hard on this. Finalizing the JDA and Lease should now be a piece of cake.

John--

I heard a problem and I didn't hear a solution. Also, for the reasons laid out below, I don't understand at all your concept that we're making an above market imposition on the Developer.

Here are our premises:

It's our land.

Long-term real estate values in the DC region have grown faster than 3%. A location on U Street in between U Street and Shaw/Howard stations has growth potential and value stability unlike the vast majority of property in the region, and its long-term appreciation value is significant.

Agreeing to a lease that is based on an escalation rate less than the the property's probable long-term appreciation rate is selling ourselves short. Marking to market each decade and then holding constant for each 10-year period while property values and lease-rates available to building owners appreciate is leaving significant value on the table each year in a decade.

Without going to a spreadsheet, if we were simply to mark to market each decade, in year one of any given decade we'd get 4% less than the rental income available to a building owner on average. The next year we'd get 8% less than full value, the next year 12% less than full value, each year the same until the last year of the decade, when we'd be getting 42% below full value. That's a lot of value to leave on the table by marking to market each decade and holding constant for 10 years. Having a 3% escalation rate each year through the decade is intended to keep the rent to us, the land-owner, comparable but slightly below the long-term average increase in value until the next reset. The language we've provided is intended to keep us at rent levels close to market value for each year of the remaining 39 years of the lease without giving away the game, as your proposals would appear to have us do.

Other premises:

At Twinbrook, we negotiated a lease with JBG with precisely the terms we proposed.

Long-term leases are finance-able at terms less than 99 years.

If you have a concern about lender certainty and project finance-ability, as you suggest you do, we are open to proposals that do not systematically erode Metro's ability to realize the value of its land over the period 60-99. We're open to a capitalization of future rent at year 60 for the period 60-99, and we're open to rent levels re-set every decade to be constant for the decade, but if rent levels are reset to be constant for a decade for the purpose of certainty, then they should be set above market for the first five years of the decade with the expectation that they'd be below market the second half. Maybe you have other thoughts.

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED

Until we hear a counter that protects our value in a market-rate setting from years 60-99, the proposal we've made is our final proposal.

Respectfully,

Nat

Carol and Josh: Let me share my response to the final change mandated by WMATA. The effects of this change are as follows:

1. WMATA will charge more than the Fair Rental Value of the Lease Property after the 61st lease year. If the Monthly Lease Payments are based on Fair Rental Value, then the 3% escalation either has to be considered in setting the Monthly Lease Payments or the escalation is an above-market imposition on the DEVELOPER. When the Fair Rental Value is determined by the three appraisers, their determination is for a period of years. WMATA is not recognizing that fact and holding the Monthly Lease Payments to the Fair Rental Value during the time period determined by the three appraisers.

2. Resetting the Monthly Lease Payments to Fair Rental Value every ten years makes the Lease un-financeable after the 60th lease year. No institutional lender will make a loan longer than ten years under these circumstances, which eliminates all the Federal and GSE (Government Sponsored Entities, i.e., Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac) as lenders. To be precise, the lender will only make a loan that self-amortizes in ten years because no institutional lender will take the risk of an unlimited base rent increase while their loan is still unpaid. I'm sharing this from actual experience of litigating an almost identical issue for almost five years in the District of Columbia where the tenant under a long-term ground lease which had periodic repricing to full market rent could not refinance the leasehold estate on a permanent loan basis. This meant the tenant could not refinance the leasehold estate to pay for the needed renovation of the building and the substantial tenant improvements and lease brokerage fees to prepare for a full-building tenant. As you would expect, the tenant sued the landlord to modify the ground lease. I can't share anymore because the litigation settled under a strict confidentiality agreement. However, the "lesson learned" from this experience is that ground leases with short-term periodic repricing of the ground rent can't be refinanced on the long-term basis needed for major renovations and improvements.

I respectfully believe the last change vitiates the benefit of a lease over 60 years.

We have spoken with Mr. Karim who seems to have accepted it, but this is an impossible way to do a deal. I know that you are not causing it.

Josh,

In preparation of tomorrow's Board meeting, attached are the following:

1. Amended and Restated Term Sheet revised in accordance with the discussions since Monday, which finalizes our understanding; and
2. "Redline...#157; of the Amended and Restated Term Sheet against the version that we provided to WMATA on November 2, 2009 at 6:20p.

The revised language on Capital Events was taken from the term sheet for Rhode Island Ave., and the concept of adjusting the base rent for additional density stops after the first 60 years because the re-appraisal will be based on the Leased Property as if vacant, thereby assuming the maximum density has been constructed on the land.

Please contact me with any questions or comments.

These are the same documents that we reviewed in November. Below is the email that was sent out after we reviewed:

RE: Additional Costs Credit

The highest Additional Costs Credit that we could reasonably ascertain is $29,622.

That number is based on the following:

1. 9/18 to 10/21: The sale was initially offered at a meeting on 9/18. On the morning of 10/22, we received word that this project was back to a lease.

2. John Hagner's invoices: All of John's invoices were redacted to protect attorney-client privilege. But, assuming that all work done between 9/18 and 10/21 was solely addressing the lease-sale issue, John Hagner spent 25.0 hours working on this issue. At $531 per hour plus a $14 reimbursement for a taxi ride, this amounts to $13,289.

3. Banneker salaries: The developer claims that 50% of the salaries for three employees during the relevant time period should be included in the credit. Assuming this claim is true, then over September and October, this amount equals $29,166. When prorated for the 9/18 to 10/21 period, this amounts to $16,333.

4. Holland and Knight: This invoice was not included because there is no indication of relevant time or work. As we understand it, Holland and Knight is the developer's zoning attorney. It is not clear what additional work the zoning attorney would have to do because of the proposed switch to a sale.

5. Torti Gallas: This invoice was not included because there is no indication of relevant time or work. Torti Gallas is the providing architectural services. It is not clear what additional work the architects would have to do because of the proposed switch to a sale.

Josh, this may be what we looked over in November and reduced to $30,000 on the basis that the invoices covered costs not related to the sale or were outside the dates of the period in which we all were considering a sale. Please check. Also I do not think that we should allow him to reduce his performance security. None of our other projects go ahead on such a thin margin, and it is chump change for a decently capitalized developer.

I will be out of email range starting now.

When do you need responses for these items? As you know, bc of the birth of my child, I will be out for a few days and we will need to coordinate with the GC, our legal counsel and investor re 2, 3, 8 and 9. The balance of the responses are below:

1. The location of the spaces haven't been finalized yet as we are considering either having (a) 1 level of parking under each of the larger bldgs which we proposed in our initial submittal, or (b) use a mechanical system at level G1 of one bldg which would accommodate the 41 spaces. Based on the 153,000 sf, zoning would require 55 spaces. However, we met with OP and they expressed their interest in having us build less parking spaces for the project, even less than what zoning requires. This could be accomplished either through the BZA or Zoning Commission through a PUD, which they fully support.

4. 70 yrs is fine.

5. Yes. However, as previously discussed, bc Graham wanted us to do a lease vs a sale, he and I, and then Catoe and the staff, agreed that we would replace BACDC in the future as they were comfortable with a sale but not a lease.

6. Graham agreed to the adjustment and Catoe was fine with it. We will review what we sent you re the adjustment amount.

7. Ok. Our GC will provide a bond from an insurer of at least AA similar to what you've seen on other wmata projects.

Good afternoon, Omar. Per our staff review this morning, we have the following comments/requests:

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED

1. Parking feasibility- where will the 41 spaces go, precisely, and how will you be able to justify only 41 spaces for 153,000 gsf of residential and retail vis a vis zoning regulations and market?
2. What type of foundation system are you using to support the light gauge steel construction? The question, of course, relates to how you will span our tunnels.
3. We think that with a 20% IRR to the developer, the return on adjusted gross income from capital event refinancing proceeds should be 10% of adjusted gross proceeds. Also, exclusions from capital events should be limited to estate transfers and to inclusion of equity/debt partners where no profit to participants is involved. They should definitely not include transfers among partners.
4. From discussions with other developers and comments from time to time from our board members, we believe that a 70 year lease would be sufficient and are requesting a reduction from 99 years.
5. Please reaffirm that BACDC is still in the deal as a development/financial partner.
6. On the cost credit for your consideration of a sale vs. lease this past Sept/Oct, please provide certification that Mr. Catoe or Mr. Graham offered that adjustment. Secondly, please be aware that from what you sent us previously, we can validate at best $30,000 if you still want to include this item in a term sheet.
7. We still need a development guaranty from a third party rated at least AA.
8. Please attach an updated schedule. We will include language in our agreement, per Board request, that if a foundation to street level is not provided by a date x , the project will revert to WMATA.
9. I want to reiterate the need for the pro formas and elevations/plans and, also, itemized sources of funds for development which I did not ask for yesterday.

Items 8 and 9 are important to get ASAP because the project has changed.

On a happy note, congratulations on your new son. Great news!

I look forward to your response.

Roz and Steve,

Thanks for the congratulations on the birth of my son earlier today. Means a lot to me. I understand that Steve will be on the Hill tomorrow and therefore won't be able to meet. As such, we were thinking that it might be more productive to reschedule the mtg for a time when he would be present. Would Mon, Tues or Wed work? If so, we will make ourselves available anytime, except 12-1 on Tues. Please let us know if this works. Thanks.

In response to your first question, by the middle of next week, let's say midday Wednesday. In fact, I have just been informed that the meeting I referred to in yesterday's e-mail was moved forward to the week of March 8. But assuming that there will be some back and forth questions, I think that it would be best to get your material midweek next week. Let me know if that presents any problems.

Thanks for the excerpt.

Banneker doesn't have $1 million. I would think we want a guarantee that covers the development period including any payments to Metro. After that, we can foreclose and the lender will step in. We would have to rely on a new development partner for Banneker.

Below is the redline language from the last term sheet.

The redline language is from the developer.

The comment is from WMATA.

Guaranty: At the Closing, ~~BACDC~~Banneker or another guarantor reasonably acceptable to WMATA will execute an unconditional guaranty ("Guaranty") to WMATA with the total liability thereunder limited to One Million Dollars ($1,000,000) plus the cost of enforcing the Guaranty against the guarantor. The Guaranty will be released by WMATA upon the Completion of the Total Project. The Definitive Agreement will include a minimum financial test to be met by ~~BACDC~~the guarantor which will be ~~100% of the estimated costs of the construction costs of the Total Project~~$1,000,000. The adequacy of security and need for this Guaranty to be further discussed in the Definitive Agreement. The Guaranty ~~agreement~~ will guarantee to WMATA, subject to the above, the following:

a) the completion of construction of the DEVELOPER Improvements;
b) the completion of infrastructure required by either the District or WMATA that is not included in the Site Work;
c) the completion of any demolition and removal of DEVELOPER Improvements as and when required under the terms of the Definitive Agreement;
d) the remediation of all hazardous materials as required by the Definitive Agreement or by applicable laws, courts or governmental authorities;
e) the required parties maintain the insurance required by WMATA under the Definitive Agreement; and in the event such insurance is not maintained and no insurer pays a claim that would have been paid if such WMATA required insurance had been maintained, the Guarantor shall indemnify WMATA up to the relevant insurance limit amounts;
f) the restoration of the Lease Property to the condition it was in on the date of Closing should work cease on the excavation portion of the project above the Lease Property longer than 30 days; and
g) the timely payment all DEVELOPER obligations under the Definitive Agreement, including full payment of any increase in the Capitalized Lease Payment for any Additional Density which increases the Capitalized Lease Payment after the Closing.

Roz and Steve,

Thanks for the congratulations on the birth of my son earlier today. Means a lot to me. I understand that Steve will be on the Hill tomorrow and therefore won't be able to meet. As such, we were thinking that it might be more productive to reschedule the mtg for a time when he would be present. Would Mon, Tues or Wed work? If so, we will make ourselves available anytime, except 12-1 on Tues. Please let us know if this works. Thanks.

In response to your first question, by the middle of next week, let's say midday Wednesday. In fact, I have just been informed that the meeting I referred to in yesterday's e-mail was moved forward to the week of March 8. But assuming that there will be some back and forth questions, I think that it would be best to get your material midweek next week. Let me know if that presents any problems.

Roz,

When do you need responses for these items? As you know, bc of the birth of my child, I will be out for a few days and we will need to coordinate with the GC, our legal counsel and investor re 2, 3, 8 and 9. The balance of the responses are below:

1. The location of the spaces haven't been finalized yet as we are considering either having (a) 1 level of parking under each of the larger bldgs which we proposed in our initial submittal, or (b) use a mechanical system at level G1 of one bldg which would accommodate the 41 spaces. Based on the 153,000 sf, zoning would require 55 spaces. However, we met with OP and they expressed their interest in having us build less parking spaces for the project, even less than what zoning requires. This could be accomplished either through the BZA or Zoning Commission through a PUD, which they fully support.

4. 70 yrs is fine.

5. Yes. However, as previously discussed, bc Graham wanted us to do a lease vs a sale, he and I, and then Catoe and the staff, agreed that we would replace BACDC in the future as they were comfortable with a sale but not a lease.

6. Graham agreed to the adjustment and Catoe was fine with it. We will review what we sent you re the adjustment amount.

7. Ok. Our GC will provide a bond from an insurer of at least AA similar to what you've seen on other wmata projects.

Good afternoon, Omar. Per our staff review this morning, we have the following comments/requests:

1. Parking feasibility- where will the 41 spaces go, precisely, and how will you be able to justify only 41 spaces for 153,000 gsf of residential and retail vis a vis zoning regulations and market?
2. What type of foundation system are you using to support the light gauge steel construction? The question, of course, relates to how you will span our tunnels.
3. We think that with a 20% IRR to the developer, the return on adjusted gross income from capital event refinancing proceeds should be 10% of adjusted gross proceeds. Also, exclusions from capital events should be limited to estate transfers and to inclusion of equity/debt partners where no profit to participants is involved. They should definitely not include transfers among partners.
4. From discussions with other developers and comments from time to time from our board members, we believe that a 70 year lease would be sufficient and are requesting a reduction from 99 years.
5. Please reaffirm that BACDC is still in the deal as a development/financial partner.
6. On the cost credit for your consideration of a sale vs. lease this past Sept/Oct, please provide certification that Mr. Catoe or Mr. Graham offered that adjustment. Secondly, please be aware that from what you sent us previously, we can validate at best $30,000 if you still want to include this item in a term sheet.
7. We still need a development guaranty from a third party rated at least AA.
8. Please attach an updated schedule. We will include language in our agreement, per Board request, that if a foundation to street level is not provided by a date x , the project will revert to WMATA.
9. I want to reiterate the need for the pro formas and elevations/plans and, also, itemized sources of funds for development which I did not ask for yesterday.

Items 8 and 9 are important to get ASAP because the project has changed.

On a happy note, congratulations on your new son. Great news!

I look forward to your response.

Thanks for forwarding. Are we meeting anytime before Friday to discuss?

The exclusion of the adjacent parcels alleviates a major legal risk from WMATA's perspective.

Here are some outstanding issues that should be discussed before the meeting with the Developer:

1. Cap Event / Participation rent payments – WMATA should review/fix the formulas for these payments as they are described in the last term sheet.

2. Indemnification – WMATA should have a coherent strategy before discussing this issue with the Developer. Indemnification was a "non-negotiable" requirement of the JDS. The Developer has previously indicated that they are obtaining financing which would limit their indemnification to "surplus cash." While the Developer will likely argue that their insurance will provide WMATA all of the protection that we need, that may not be true. There are unique risks because the Developer is building over the tunnel. A $10M policy may not cover the repair of the damage.

   Additionally, the indemnification provisions offer protections that WMATA does not get from insurance. For example, environmental liability protection, payments due under the lease, payments that Developer fails to make related to the property (ex. mechanic's liens or government violations), or damages/lawsuits that might be outside of the scope of our insurance coverage.

3. Additional Costs Credit – Are we still providing this credit? Was this ever verified with either J. Graham or J. Catoe?

4. Guaranty – Are we accepting a guaranty from Banneker? What should it cover?

5. Project schedule – At the meeting without Omar, in response to J. Graham's concerns about the Developer just sitting on the property without building (i.e., the reversion issue), John Hagner came up with an alternative route to getting this project built on time. He suggested that we attach a project schedule to the lease. If the Developer does not meet any of the project schedule milestones then it is a default of the lease. J. Hagner said he had to verify this with his client before he could officially offer this to us. This should be included in the term sheet.

Roz,

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED WMATA-INV 012160

Per our call this morning, Banneker, our develop partner and investors for The Jazz @ Florida Avenue project (collectively, the "Developer") are prepared to increase our offer to WMATA as follows:

1. Make a capitalized lease payment of $5.2M at Closing. This is a 130% increase in value over WMATA's appraised value of $2.2M, and a 70% increase in value over our previous base offer of $3.03M, which includes the NPV of the capitalized lease plus the NPV of the EGI payments. This base offer is inclusive of the projected $2.8M loss in land value (as calculated by WMATA's appraiser Richard Harps) due to the 8% IZ requirement and the additional hard and soft costs incurred by the Project as a result of building over the WMATA tunnel.

2. Because of some of the concerns raised by WMATA staff, we would are prepared to move forward with developing the Project solely on the WMATA parcels (28,347 SF). We will forgo our purchase of the adjacent 9th Street parcels, thereby relieving any potential complications that would arise with the necessity of a Co-Tenancy Agreement, also allowing us to free up capital that would have been used toward purchasing those parcels, and instead use these funds to pay WMATA more funds at Closing. We will also not pursue an alley closing.

3. We will build the project at 4.5 FAR (as of right if not for the mandatory IZ rules that went into effect after our selection) plus the 20% bonus (0.9 FAR) that we would get because of the IZ units, bringing the total FAR to 5.4 FAR. The Project will consist of 153,000 GSF, with 137 residential units (with 12 IZ units), 14,000 SF and 41 parking spaces. Developer would pay WMATA an agreed upon rate of $ per FAR for any SF that it builds above the 153,000 SF.

4. The initial term of the lease will be for 50 years, with a 49 year option and resets to market value every 10 years after the initial 50 year term.

5. All other terms will remain consistent (i.e., participation in Capital Events, etc.).

A $5.2M upfront, non-contingent payment to WMATA is significantly higher than the recent appraisal completed by WMATA and close to our initial offer to WMATA in 2007, excluding the imposition of the IZ units and market conditions. Based on our analysis of our initial offer, the NPV of the offer, using reasonable interest rate assumptions, would have been about $11M, which is no where close to the $14M that WMATA staff informed us that this is what they calculated our offer to be. If this is the case, assuming that the market conditions brought the value down by 20% (which is conservative), this would bring the offer from $11M to $8.8M. Because we have to build IZ units, which force us to go from a stick build construction type to a light gauge steel product, and at the same time loose money on all of the IZ units as they do not support themselves without a subsidy, which the District does not provide for IZ units, this causes the value of the offer to go from $8.8M to the $5.2M that we are now offering, excluding WMATA's other participation rights in the Project.

As we have discussed previously, to date, the Developer has incurred over $1M since being selected by WMATA. We continue to remain hopeful that the exhaustive amount of money and time spent by Developer and WMATA in bringing this Project will produce a TOD project that all parties can be proud of. We look forward to seeing you on Friday at 2:30 and finalizing this last term of the deal so that we can get the JDA and Lease complete and presented to the Board at the next possible Board meeting. Should you have any questions prior to Friday, please feel free to contact us.

Warmest regards, I remain

Sincerely,

Omar

Omar, thanks very much for the response and for the effort that has gone in to improve the offer. I would like to ask you to send as supplemental information a new site plan and elevations showing the configuration and building heights by parcel that you are anticipating. We will need this as soon as possible as we will be reviewing this project with principals of the agency on Monday. Similarly, we will need revised development and operating pro formas as we will most certainly be questioned about whether we have reviewed the numbers and think that they are feasible. Some time has now gone by since receipt of the last set, and the construction method has changed. Both the plans/elevations and pro formas will be needed in order to make the best possible case for the revised offer.

Thanks in advance for your cooperation. Please call me if you need further detail or want to discuss.

A $5.2M upfront, non-contingent payment to WMATA is significantly higher than the recent appraisal completed by WMATA and close to our initial offer to WMATA in 2007, excluding the imposition of the IZ units and market conditions. Based on our analysis of our initial offer, the NPV of the offer, using reasonable interest rate assumptions, would have been about $11M, which is no where close to the $14M that WMATA staff informed us that this is what they calculated our offer to be. If this is the case, assuming that the market conditions brought the value down by 20% (which is conservative), this would bring the offer from $11M to $8.8M. Because we have to build IZ units, which force us to go from a stick build construction type to a light gauge steel product, and at the same time loose money on all of the IZ units as they do not support themselves without a subsidy, which the District does not provide for IZ units, this causes the value of the offer to go from $8.8M to the $5.2M that we are now offering, excluding WMATA's other participation rights in the Project.

As we have discussed previously, to date, the Developer has incurred over $1M since being selected by WMATA. We continue to remain hopeful that the exhaustive amount of money and time spent by Developer and WMATA in bringing this Project will produce a TOD project that all parties can be proud of. We look forward to seeing you on Friday at 2:30 and finalizing this last term of the deal so that we can get the JDA and Lease complete and presented to the Board at the next possible Board meeting. Should you have any questions prior to Friday, please feel free to contact us.

Omar, thanks very much for the response and for the effort that has gone in to improve the offer. I would like to ask you to send as supplemental information a new site plan and elevations showing the configuration and building heights by parcel that you are anticipating. We will need this as soon as possible as we will be reviewing this project with principals of the agency on Monday. Similarly, we will need revised development and operating pro formas as we will most certainly be questioned about whether we have reviewed the numbers and think that they are feasible. Some time has now gone by since receipt of the last set, and the construction method has changed. Both the plans/elevations and pro formas will be needed in order to make the best possible case for the revised offer.

Thanks in advance for your cooperation. Please call me if you need further detail or want to discuss.
Roz

Roz,

Per our call this morning, Banneker, our develop partner and investors for The Jazz @ Florida Avenue project (collectively, the "Developer") are prepared to increase our offer to WMATA as follows:

1. Make a capitalized lease payment of $5.2M at Closing. This is a 130% increase in value over WMATA's appraised value of $2.2M, and a 70% increase in value over our previous base offer of $3.03M, which includes the NPV of the capitalized lease plus the NPV of the EGI payments. This base offer is inclusive of the projected $2.8M loss in land value (as calculated by WMATA's appraiser Richard Harps) due to the 8% IZ requirement and the additional hard and soft costs incurred by the Project as a result of building over the WMATA tunnel.

2. Because of some of the concerns raised by WMATA staff, we would are prepared to move forward with developing the Project solely on the WMATA parcels (28,347 SF). We will forgo our purchase of the adjacent 9th Street parcels, thereby relieving any potential complications that would arise with the necessity of a Co-Tenancy Agreement, also allowing us to free up capital that would have been used toward purchasing those parcels, and instead use these funds to pay WMATA more funds at Closing. We will also not pursue an alley closing.

3. We will build the project at 4.5 FAR (as of right if not for the mandatory IZ rules that went into effect after our selection) plus the 20% bonus (0.9 FAR) that we would get because of the IZ units, bringing the total FAR to 5.4 FAR. The Project will consist of 153,000 GSF, with 137 residential units (with 12 IZ units), 14,000 SF and 41 parking spaces. Developer would pay WMATA an agreed upon rate of $ per FAR for any SF that it builds above the 153,000 SF.

4. The initial term of the lease will be for 50 years, with a 49 year option and resets to market value every 10 years after the initial 50 year term.

5. All other terms will remain consistent (i.e., participation in Capital Events, etc.).

Thanks for forwarding. Are we meeting anytime before Friday to discuss?

The exclusion of the adjacent parcels alleviates a major legal risk from WMATA's perspective.

Here are some outstanding issues that should be discussed before the meeting with the Developer:

1. Cap Event / Participation rent payments – WMATA should review/fix the formulas for these payments as they are described in the last term sheet.

2. Indemnification – WMATA should have a coherent strategy before discussing this issue with the Developer. Indemnification was a "non-negotiable" requirement of the JDS. The Developer has previously indicated that they are obtaining financing which would limit their indemnification to "surplus cash." While the Developer will likely argue that their insurance will provide WMATA all of the protection that we need, that may not be true. There are unique risks because the Developer is building over the tunnel. A $10M policy may not cover the repair of the damage.

   Additionally, the indemnification provisions offer protections that WMATA does not get from insurance. For example, environmental liability protection, payments due under the lease, payments that Developer fails to make related to the property (ex. mechanic's liens or government violations), or damages/lawsuits that might be outside of the scope of our insurance coverage.

3. Additional Costs Credit – Are we still providing this credit? Was this ever verified with either J. Graham or J. Catoe?

4. Guaranty – Are we accepting a guaranty from Banneker? What should it cover?

5. Project schedule – At the meeting without Omar, in response to J. Graham's concerns about the Developer just sitting on the property without building (i.e., the reversion issue), John Hagner came up with an alternative route to getting this project built on time. He suggested that we attach a project schedule to the lease. If the Developer does not meet any of the project schedule milestones then it is a default of the lease. J. Hagner said he had to verify this with his client before he could officially offer this to us. This should be included in the term sheet.

Ms. Doggett,

Thank you for your email. Our accountants should be able to provide us with our 3Q08 statements by next week. Would COB next Tuesday be okay to provide you all the statements and sources and uses? Can you provide information as to where we are with the Term Sheet? What was the Board's response to the information that you provided them following our last meeting? As we've discussed, these delays have and continue to cause us significant delays in our schedule.

Thank you in advance.

Steve,

We are trying to figure out a way to provide the Board with comfort in a deal that we work out with the Staff to move this project forward. As such, based on the memo that you all sent to the Board on 11/6/09, as well as conversations that Staff is having with the Board about the initial NPV that Staff told the Board that we had agreed to pay them in early 2008 versus the current NPV that we agreed to pay most recently ($3.03M - $4.28M from the 11/6/09 memo), prior to today's noon meeting, can you send us a quick breakdown of how the Staff came up with the NPV and land appraisal presented to the Board last year and compare it with the NPV and appraisal that the Staff presented to the Board on 11/5/09. We believe that the NPV that we offered for the land in 07 and 08 is $7-8.5M, depending on the discount rate used. If the new land value based on the independent appraisals that WMATA obtained is now $2.2M, our current offer of $3.03M - $4.28M would be consistent with the old land value (lets say $4M), and old NPV, say $7.5M. Thus, the new offer would be consistent with the new appraisal. Moreover, since we were selected, IZ rules were put into place, which further reduces the value of the land. Thus, any old NPV that we offered (lets say $7.5M), would even be reduced because of the IZ rules now in effect. When we meet later today, we are prepared to discuss providing WMATA with some increase in the capitalized lease payment; however, in order to do so, we need to have an understanding of what NPV WMATA told the Board we offered initially as the Board is using this old value to compare it with the new value. However, as you and the other staff have been well aware since we initially submitted our offer in 2007, because we are using FHA-insured financing, we will not be allowed to re-set the amount paid to WMATA during the term of the loan period because FHA does not allow it. WMATA staff is well aware of these rules as it has done many Joint Development projects that were FHA-insured.

Thank you in advance.

The Board took no action today after discussing the matter. Following the meeting, staff has been directed to submit a memo to the Board on Wednesday 11/25/09, addressing these issues in order for the Board to reconsider the approval of a term sheet for the lease on 11/30/09:

1) The initial capitalized lease payment was deemed insufficient and must be increased.
2) The lack of a payment "reset" for the first 60 years was deemed unacceptable. The Board wants to see earlier resets and we propose a reset every ten years as a starting point for discussion.

The Real Estate TOD Team and attorneys in the Counsel's Office will be in a work session all day tomorrow. Understanding the short time frame in which we have to resolve this matter, or not, please get back to me on Monday 11/23/09.

Per our meeting today, this is a reminder that we should inform the developer of the following:

1. There will be no more negotiating of the terms after the board approves the Term Sheet; and

2. The Developer must work off of the Florida Ave Lease draft that was sent to them by WMATA on 7/24/09. We cannot work off of the Rhode Island Ave Lease for reasons previously provided to John Hagner and Omar Karim.

Have a good weekend,

Nat,

Thanks for your thoughts. We appreciate them. For purposes of tomorrow, we accept the Term Sheet as sent to us this evening.

Following approval of the Term Sheet, we will give more thought to this particular issue to help come up with a way to meet your goals. Should we be able to come up with an agreeable solution prior to finalizing the JDA and Lease, we could include the solution in these docs. Alternatively, there is probably even more time bt approval of these docs and execution of the Lease prior to Closing to come up with solutions. In either case, we promise to provide you and your team with some solutions to address the concerns of all parties.

Thanks for working so hard on this. Finalizing the JDA and Lease should now be a piece of cake.

John--

I heard a problem and I didn't hear a solution. Also, for the reasons laid out below, I don't understand at all your concept that we're making an above market imposition on the Developer.

Here are our premises:

It's our land.

Long-term real estate values in the DC region have grown faster than 3%. A location on U Street in between U Street and Shaw/Howard stations has growth potential and value stability unlike the vast majority of property in the region, and its long-term appreciation value is significant.

Agreeing to a lease that is based on an escalation rate less than the the property's probable long-term appreciation rate is selling ourselves short. Marking to market each decade and then holding constant for each 10-year period while property values and lease-rates available to building owners appreciate is leaving significant value on the table each year in a decade.

Without going to a spreadsheet, if we were simply to mark to market each decade, in year one of any given decade we'd get 4% less than the rental income available to a building owner on average. The next year we'd get 8% less than full value, the next year 12% less than full value, each year the same until the last year of the decade, when we'd be getting 42% below full value. That's a lot of value to leave on the table by marking to market each decade and holding constant for 10 years. Having a 3% escalation rate each year through the decade is intended to keep the rent to us, the land-owner, comparable but slightly below the long-term average increase in value until the next reset. The language we've provided is intended to keep us at rent levels close to market value for each year of the remaining 39 years of the lease without giving away the game, as your proposals would appear to have us do.

Other premises:

At Twinbrook, we negotiated a lease with JBG with precisely the terms we proposed.

Long-term leases are finance-able at terms less than 99 years.

If you have a concern about lender certainty and project finance-ability, as you suggest you do, we are open to proposals that do not systematically erode Metro's ability to realize the value of its land over the period 60-99. We're open to a capitalization of future rent at year 60 for the period 60-99, and we're open to rent levels re-set every decade to be constant for the decade, but if rent levels are reset to be constant for a decade for the purpose of certainty, then they should be set above market for the first five years of the decade with the expectation that they'd be below market the second half. Maybe you have other thoughts.

Until we hear a counter that protects our value in a market-rate setting from years 60-99, the proposal we've made is our final proposal.

Respectfully,

Nat

Carol and Josh: Let me share my response to the final change mandated by WMATA. The effects of this change are as follows:

1. WMATA will charge more than the Fair Rental Value of the Lease Property after the 61st lease year. If the Monthly Lease Payments are based on Fair Rental Value, then the 3% escalation either has to be considered in setting the Monthly Lease Payments or the escalation is an above-market imposition on the DEVELOPER. When the Fair Rental Value is determined by the three appraisers, their determination is for a period of years. WMATA is not recognizing that fact and holding the Monthly Lease Payments to the Fair Rental Value during the time period determined by the three appraisers.

2. Resetting the Monthly Lease Payments to Fair Rental Value every ten years makes the Lease un-financeable after the 60th lease year. No institutional lender will make a loan longer than ten years under these circumstances, which eliminates all the Federal and GSE (Government Sponsored Entities, i.e., Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac) as lenders. To be precise, the lender will only make a loan that self-amortizes in ten years because no institutional lender will take the risk of an unlimited base rent increase while their loan is still unpaid. I'm sharing this from actual experience of litigating an almost identical issue for almost five years in the District of Columbia where the tenant under a long-term ground lease which had periodic repricing to full market rent could not refinance the leasehold estate on a permanent loan basis. This meant the tenant could not refinance the leasehold estate to pay for the needed renovation of the building and the substantial tenant improvements and lease brokerage fees to prepare for a full-building tenant. As you would expect, the tenant sued the landlord to modify the ground lease. I can't share anymore because the litigation settled under a strict confidentiality agreement. However, the "lesson learned" from this experience is that ground leases with short-term periodic repricing of the ground rent can't be refinanced on the long-term basis needed for major renovations and improvements.

I respectfully believe the last change vitiates the benefit of a lease over 60 years.

Josh,

In preparation of tomorrow's Board meeting, attached are the following:

1. Amended and Restated Term Sheet revised in accordance with the discussions since Monday, which finalizes our understanding; and
2. "Redline...#157; of the Amended and Restated Term Sheet against the version that we provided to WMATA on November 2, 2009 at 6:20p.

The revised language on Capital Events was taken from the term sheet for Rhode Island Ave., and the concept of adjusting the base rent for additional density stops after the first 60 years because the re-appraisal will be based on the Leased Property as if vacant, thereby assuming the maximum density has been constructed on the land.

Please contact me with any questions or comments.

Steve and Rosalyn,

Can we set a time with one or both of you to discuss what needs to be done next on the Florida Avenue transaction?

In particular, I would like to discuss:

1. Finalizing the term sheet, including John Hagner's email below; and
2. Getting started on the Lease, JDA, Guaranty, CCRs, ROE, and Co-Tenancy Agreement.

Please let me know when you are available.

Nat: Thanks for your response. Notwithstanding the late hour, I feel compelled to respond tonight while this is fresh in everyone's thinking. This is not my best response because of fatigue at this hour. I'll try to be brief and to the point.

One of the reasons I made my earlier response is for the first time since working on multiple WMATA joint development projects since 2003, I have access to the Appraisal from Harps & Harps and the Rent Calculation from Integra Realty Resources. My arguments are based on statements in the October 30, 2009 Rent Calculation you provided.

Before responding to the specific statements, let me first offer an observation on WMATA's return on its land. In my experience, institutional investors consider their "total return" on their investments, not just their net income. Total return on land for a tax-exempt landlord from a ground lease has three components: (1) the rent (or net operating income) from the leasing of the land; plus (2) the appreciation (or depreciation) in the value of the land over the term of the lease, assuming the tenant does not have a fixed-price purchase option for the land (which the Developer does not have); plus (3) the discounted present value of the improvements which revert to the landlord upon the expiration of the lease. In the District of Columbia, commercial land has not depreciated over any long period of time since the British burned the Capitol in 1814. None of your comments acknowledge that WMATA receives the entire appreciation in the value of the land over the term of the lease and the value of the reverted improvements as part of its "return" on the land. Even if WMATA considers such appreciation an "unrealized gain" on its land, it is still a gain that institutional investors recognize. WMATA could realize and monetize such gain through a financing transaction if it chose to do so

My second observation is the calculation of market rent excludes (i) the Participating Rent based on 1.5% of gross sublease receipts, (ii) the Capital Events Rent based on 2% of proceeds of the sale of any interest in the leasehold estate and 2% of the net excess refinancing proceeds from any refinancing. These will be significant over 99 years and they will provide a material protection against inflation. In my experience, these should have been included in the determination of "market rent." That's why your appraisers noted in the second paragraph on page one of the Rent Calculation that Participating Rent and Capital Events Rent were excluded at WMATA's request. That constitutes an above-market benefit for WMATA before the market rent is determined.

My third observation is the Rent Calculation expressly includes an adjustment for rental rate escalation over the 60-year term. Please refer to the two paragraphs following the table of "Capitalization Rate Comparables" on page two of the Rent Calculation which state rental rate escalations affect the capitalization rate and the fact that "the lease as proposed will not include escalations" was explicitly considered in selecting the percentage rate of fair market value of the land used to set the annual ground rent payment. A higher annual ground rent payment was selected because of the absence of rent escalations. Therefore, WMATA will receive a market rent that includes an adjustment for the absence of rent escalations over the first 60 years.

My assertion that "WMATA will charge more than the Fair Rental Value of the Lease Property after the 61st lease year" is based on the following analysis: (a) the market rent determined for the 61st lease year through the 70th lease year and every ten lease years thereafter will be set by three appraisers using the same methodology as setting the rent for the first 60 lease years; (b) such methodology includes an upward adjustment for the absence of rent escalations during each ten lease year period; (c) WMATA is mandating that the market rent be increased by a compounding 3% each year after the market rent is set; and (d) the 3% annual compounding increase is "double collecting" because market rent already was increase under the false assumption that there would be no escalations in the rent.

My proposed solution on re-setting the rent after the 60th lease year is either to delete the 3% escalation because it is already included in the appraisers' determination of market rent, or instruct the appraisers to consider the 3% escalation in determining the market rent.

On my assertion that re-setting the rent every ten lease years after the 60th lease year makes the lease un-financeable is based on hard experience. I gave my reasons and analysis in my assertion. The re-setting of market rent is based on a fixed period given to the appraisers. If done properly, market rent can be set for a period much longer than ten years and WMATA will be compensated for the increasing (or decreasing) rental value over such period. WMATA has recognized the risk of decreasing rental value by mandating the re-setting of the rent must be "up only."

My proposed solution on how long to reset the rent for after the 60th lease year would be to provide that the rent must be reset once between the 79th and 81st lease years simultaneously with the refinancing of the tenant's leasehold estate during that two year window, but not later than the beginning of the 81st lease year. The appraisers would be instructed to set the rent for 21 years beginning in the 61st lease year and for the remaining term of the lease when the rent is reset between the 79th and 81st lease years. This gives the Developer approximately 20 years between rent adjustments to amortize its permanent loan. I would also propose that the Developer be permitted to elect a capitalized lease payment for each approximate 20-year period and pay the entire base rent at the beginning of each approximate 20-year period.

I do not have the Developer's approval to make the above proposals a "counter-offer." If you want me to ask the Developer to approve them, I'll be glad to make that request.

We also inserted comments to your specific statements below. Each comment is typed in ALL CAPS and preceded by [Hagner, John].

We appreciate the time and effort everyone at WMATA has expended to finalize the Term Sheet. Thank you for being so diligent in trying to get these issues resolved.

John--

I heard a problem and I didn't hear a solution. Also, for the reasons laid out below, I don't understand at all your concept that we're making an above market imposition on the Developer.

Here are our premises:

It's our land.[Hagner, John] IT IS WMATA'S LAND AND WMATA ALONE IS RECEIVING THE BENEFIT OF THE APPRECIATION IN THE VALUE OF THE LAND OVER THE ENTIRE TERM OF THE LEASE.

Long-term real estate values in the DC region have grown faster than 3%. A location on U Street in between U Street and Shaw/Howard stations has growth potential and value stability unlike the vast majority of property in the region, and its long-term appreciation value is significant. [Hagner, John] YOUR APPRAISER ASSUMED A 3% INFLATION IN WMATA'S LAND VALUE IN THE SECOND PARAGRAPH ON PAGE FOUR OF THE RENT CALCULATION. THEREFORE, IF THE LAND APPRECIATES AT A RATE HIGHER THAN 3%, WMATA WILL RECEIVE THE BENEFIT OF WHICH MEANS THE MARKET RENT IN THE LEASE WAS SET HIGHER THAN IT SHOULD HAVE BEEN SET.

Agreeing to a lease that is based on an escalation rate less than the the property's probable long-term appreciation rate is selling ourselves short. Marking to market each decade and then holding constant for each 10-year period while property values and lease-rates available to building owners appreciate is leaving significant value on the table each year in a decade.[Hagner, John] THE RENT CALCULATION USED BY WMATA'S APPRAISERS INCLUDED APPRECIATION AS A FACTOR IN SETTING THE FAIR MARKET RENT. IF DONE PROPERLY, WMATA SHOULD BE PROTECTED.

Without going to a spreadsheet, if we were simply to mark to market each decade, in year one of any given decade we'd get 4% less than the rental income available to a building owner on average. The next year we'd get 8% less than full value, the next year 12% less than full value, each year the same until the last year of the decade, when we'd be getting 42% below full value. That's a lot of value to leave on the table by marking to market each decade and holding constant for 10 years. Having a 3% escalation rate each year through the decade is intended to keep the rent to us, the land-owner, comparable but slightly below the long-term average increase in value until the next reset. The language we've provided is intended to keep us at rent levels close to market value for each year of the remaining 39 years of the lease without giving away the game, as your proposals would appear to have us do.[Hagner, John] BASED ON MY REASONS PROVIDED ABOVE, I RESPECTFULLY DISAGREE WITH YOUR ANALYSIS. THE APPRAISERS CONSIDER THESE FACTORS IN SETTING THE FAIR MARKET RENT.

Other premises:

At Twinbrook, we negotiated a lease with JBG with precisely the terms we proposed.[Hagner, John] DID JBG HAVE THE BENEFIT OF REVIEWING THE APPRIASAL AND RENT CALCULATION SO IT KNEW HOW WMATA DETERMINED THE RENT? IF IT DID NOT, IT MAY NOT HAVE KNOWN HOW WMATA DETERMINED THE RENT. IF IT DID, THEN, ASSUMING ALL OTHER ECONOMIC TERMS OF JBG'S LEASE WERE SIMILAR TO THE DEVELOPER'S, JBG ACCEPTED WHAT WE ARE OBJECTING TO.

Long-term leases are finance-able at terms less than 99 years.[Hagner, John] TRUE, BUT IN MY EXPERIENCE, THEY CANNOT BE FINANCED WITH UNLIMITED INCREASES IN THE RENT EVERY TEN YEARS.

If you have a concern about lender certainty and project finance-ability, as you suggest you do, we are open to proposals that do not systematically erode Metro's ability to realize the value of its land over the period 60-99. We're open to a capitalization of future rent at year 60 for the period 60-99, and we're open to rent levels re-set every decade to be constant for the decade, but if rent levels are reset to be constant for a decade for the purpose of certainty, then they should be set above market for the first five years of the decade with the expectation that they'd be below market the second half. Maybe you have other thoughts.[Hagner, John] PLEASE SEE MY PROPOSALS ABOVE.

Until we hear a counter that protects our value in a market-rate setting from years 60-99, the proposal we've made is our final proposal.

Respectfully,

Nat

Carol and Josh: Let me share my response to the final change mandated by WMATA. The effects of this change are as follows:

1. WMATA will charge more than the Fair Rental Value of the Lease Property after the 61st lease year. If the Monthly Lease Payments are based on Fair Rental Value, then the 3% escalation either has to be considered in setting the Monthly Lease Payments or the escalation is an above-market imposition on the DEVELOPER. When the Fair Rental Value is determined by the three appraisers, their determination is for a period of years. WMATA is not recognizing that fact and holding the Monthly Lease Payments to the Fair Rental Value during the time period determined by the three appraisers.

2. Resetting the Monthly Lease Payments to Fair Rental Value every ten years makes the Lease un-financeable after the 60th lease year. No institutional lender will make a loan longer than ten years under these circumstances, which eliminates all the Federal and GSE (Government Sponsored Entities, i.e., Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac) as lenders. To be precise, the lender will only make a loan that self-amortizes in ten years because no institutional lender will take the risk of an unlimited base rent increase while their loan is still unpaid. I'm sharing this from actual experience of litigating an almost identical issue for almost five years in the District of Columbia where the tenant under a long-term ground lease which had periodic repricing to full market rent could not refinance the leasehold estate on a permanent loan basis. This meant the tenant could not refinance the leasehold estate to pay for the needed renovation of the building and the substantial tenant improvements and lease brokerage fees to prepare for a full-building tenant. As you would expect, the tenant sued the landlord to modify the ground lease. I can't share anymore because the litigation settled under a strict confidentiality agreement. However, the "lesson learned" from this experience is that ground leases with short-term periodic repricing of the ground rent can't be refinanced on the long-term basis needed for major renovations and improvements.

I respectfully believe the last change vitiates the benefit of a lease over 60 years.

John

I made a couple of changes to the Term Sheet, put them on Josh's chair.

Note that the $50 and $80 numbers will change when Malcolm gets the appraisal and prorates the Capitalized Lease Payment as a percent of land value. He was guessing yesterday that they might be about 90 percent of value, e.g. $45 and $72 but doesn't know what the appraiser will

Steve and Rosalyn,

Comments to the below email:

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED WMATA-INV 012193

JDA - the developer did provide comments to this agreement. But, most of the terms/comments depend on the other documents and so we cannot make a comprehensive response without the other documents. They made this same request when we provided the JDA/Lease and we promptly turned around the CCRs and Guaranty.

Lease - I asked John Hagner to add the HUD financing terms to the lease that we provided and we will negotiate from there. He disagreed. The Rhode Island Ave deal is a completely different deal, with different concerns, terms, and parties. Plus, those agreed upon terms were negotiated and so it will actually take LONGER to go back and find out why we agreed to all of those terms. Last, the whole argument that WMATA accepted something in the past should be a non-starter. I don't know too much about the Rhode Island Ave deal, but it may not have been an ideal transaction for us.

CCRS - agreed

ROE - I provided John Hagner with our last version of the ROE on 10/16. This draft includes WMATA's last comments/changes from September 2008.

Co-Tenancy - Even if WMATA has agreed to go forward with this arrangement, the arrangement must be negotiated. This is a troublesome area that we should tread carefully.

Title/Survey - agreed

Term Sheet - I will have a new draft, to include Roz's comments, early tomorrow morning.

Please let me know if you want to discuss any of this,

Josh

Roz and Steve,

We believe that some schedule would be appropriate to get all of the items mentioned in your email complete. Can you work with us to commit to some dates on the following open items?

- Joint Development Agreement. We have provided comprehensive (not provisional) comments to the JDA almost 2 months ago when we were initially going down the lease route and await WMATA's comments. Please advise when we will receive these comments.

- Lease. To save time AND even more money, we requested almost 2 months ago that we use the lease for the RI Avenue deal since WMATA Staff and the Board has signed off on it and the counsel for the Developer for that deal and this deal is the same (John Hagner). Mr. Graham agreed that if we changed from a sale to a lease, WMATA staff would get this thing done in 2 weeks. If we don't use some type of form that WMATA and the Developer has already worked with (RI deal), then this would clearly kill any timing to get the deal finalized in the time promised by Mr. Graham. Steve and Carol, please confirm that we are going to use the RI form. If so, as soon as the Term Sheet is finalized b/t the staff and the Developer, John is willing to update it to reflect the terms of this deal and get it to you asap.

- CCRs. As soon as the Term Sheet is complete, we will turn around comments to the CCRs within a few days.

- Right of Entry Agreement. Josh has our comments from August 2008.

- Guaranty. Our counsel has a call in to Carol O'Keeffe today about the guaranty and is awaiting her call which based on an email that I read, she was going to make this afternoon. Carol, any word on the call?

- Co-tenancy agreement. Mr. Graham and Mr. Catoe agreed that the co-tenancy would no longer be an issue. To save time and more money, can our counsel and Carol have a quick call to discuss this to ensure that everyone is on the same page with what needs to be the agreement before we spend a ton of money on having John draft something. Carol, are you available this afternoon or tomorrow to discuss this with John?

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED WMATA-INV 012194

- Metes and Bounds Survey and full ALTA Title Report. As Roz indicated, this does not have to be provided prior to the Term Sheet or JDA being approved. An ALTA survey costs additional money and until the Term Sheet and JDA are approved, we cannot authorize the surveyor to spend even more money to do this. However, we commit to getting it done in plenty of time prior to the closing on the lease.

Two final questions:

- Which of the above items, if any, are necessary for the Term Sheet to go to the Board next week?
- Which Board meeting are we planning to submit the JDA and Lease at?
- Think we can get verbal results of the appraisal tomorrow so that we can look at the Term Sheet knowing what the financial terms from the appraisal will be?

3. Right of Entry Agreement

5. Co-tenancy agreement

Status: The developer has the JDA plus items 1-4 drafted by WMATA. The developer is in the process of drafting a co-tenancy agreement, which would not have been necessary under a sale. The other items, with a sales agreement instead of a lease, would be needed under either type of disposition.

Our counsel and Banneker's have agreed that once we have agreed to a Term Sheet, they will mark up the JDA and items 1-4 (note: Banneker has previously provided provisional comments to the JDA, but not the other documents). We are uncertain of the timing by Banneker's counsel to send us the initial draft of item 5.

Banneker's counsel would like to draft a new lease based on the Rhode Island Ave lease, instead of working with the lease draft we sent to Banneker. However, our counsel does not agree because that is a different situation. So that is an impasse currently.

Steve and Rosalyn,

Comments to the below email:

JDA - the developer did provide comments to this agreement. But, most of the terms/comments depend on the other documents and so we cannot make a comprehensive response without the other documents. They made this same request when we provided the JDA/Lease and we promptly turned around the CCRs and Guaranty.

Lease - I asked John Hagner to add the HUD financing terms to the lease that we provided and we will negotiate from there. He disagreed. The Rhode Island Ave deal is a completely different deal, with different concerns, terms, and parties. Plus, those agreed upon terms were negotiated and so it will actually take LONGER to go back and find out why we agreed to all of those terms. Last, the whole argument that WMATA accepted something in the past should be a non-starter. I don't know too much about the Rhode Island Ave deal, but it may not have been an ideal transaction for us.

CCRS - agreed

ROE - I provided John Hagner with our last version of the ROE on 10/16. This draft includes WMATA's last comments/changes from September 2008.

Co-Tenancy - Even if WMATA has agreed to go forward with this arrangement, the arrangement must be negotiated. This is a troublesome area that we should tread carefully.

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED

Title/Survey - agreed

Term Sheet - I will have a new draft, to include Roz's comments, early tomorrow morning.

Please let me know if you want to discuss any of this,

Josh

Mark,

Thank you for the email with your thoughts on the basic WMATA Financial Terms. Below are our comments:

Capitalized Lease Payments
If we agree to all of the other terms, we could agree to pay the value of the capitalized lease payment of $1.98M that your appraiser put together.

Please explain why you indicated that the value of the land was absent any subsidies other than 4% tax credits. Based on our knowledge of projects that include 20% affordable housing, and as discussed with you all on several occasions, the value of the land would be zero if we had to do 20% affordable housing and then we would still need some subsidies to cover the gap. We can't think of one project in the District that includes 20% affordable housing that is paying anywhere close to what we would pay WMATA AND these projects would still need subsidies.

We would not be willing to pay WMATA any portion of any subsidies that we obtain for the project, let alone paying 80% of anything that we get. We've mentioned this many times before as we believe that no project could move forward with 20% affordable housing and pay $1.98M at closing for the land, without some public subsidies to help close the gap because of the inclusion of the affordable housing units.

Pre-Closing Payments
Okay with amounts but payments would be made quarterly.

Additional Density
This is confusing. The portion of the alley that will be closed is 1,025 SF. About ½ will be deeded to WMATA and ½ will be deeded to us as the purchasers of the adjacent parcels that are next to the alley. Since we are building a 5 story building, this would mean 512 SF x 5 stories = 2,560 SF would be attributable to WMATA land. Based on your calculations of the value of the land, this would mean that we would pay about $16 per SF or $42,000 in additional capitalized rent at Lease execution. We could agree to this increase over the $1.98M.

Annual Operating Income Participation
We would agree to 1.5% of Effective Gross Income but would not run our Debt Service Coverage at 1.25. We've never run our DSC at 1.25 as our project couldn't be financed at this rate. We are using a 1.11 DSC because HUD allows this.

Capital Event Participation
Any equity or member loans to receive a 20% return prior to WMATA receiving its 10% of net proceeds. Member loans or equity are indistinguishable. We could agree that equity or member loans not to exceed 40% of the development costs.

Term
Initial term is 50 years with an option for the Developer to extend for another 39 years. Any annual escalation after the initial term to be at 1%, not 3%.

After yesterday's meeting, we thought that we were much closer to resolving the financial issues with you all. However, based on the terms that you sent us this afternoon, it appears that you all want to continue to raise new issues and change old ones. We cannot send over a summary of open issues until we know where we are with the ones above.

We welcome meeting with you again on Friday to try to come to some agreement on these terms.

Including the 1.5% of EGI in the capitalized lease payment, per Omar's suggestion, is ok with me. However, that will probably take a little longer as the appraiser will have to estimate gross income (and include a lower number for affordable units and a higher number, maybe, for retail than Harps had) so it probably should be step 2, with step 1 being just an estimate of the capitalized value of the flat rental stream assuming HUD insurance.

Since Richard Harps appears to be unavailable for the next few weeks (he is out of town this week) and the request does not appear to require any detailed site analysis, I suggest that another appraiser provide the evaluation for the determination of a proposed one lump sum lease payment, exclusive of future rental participation consisting of 1.5% of annual EGI and 10% participation in net proceeds from sale and refinancing. I would think that this can be done relatively quickly but not by Monday.

For this assignment the appraiser would assume a fee value of $2,200,000, a 60-year lease with a renewal option for an additional 39 years at market, and a permitted density of 100,711 sq. ft. In order to determine the lump sum rental, the appraiser would estimate a market ground lease rental rate and terms, a market discount rate, etc. The appraiser would not consider the effect of tax credits unless instructed.

The appraiser would further provide an estimate for determining additional compensation based on increased density.

Is this OK? Should it be run by Omar?

Steve,

We are in agreement with your email with a few caveats, delineated below:

- Based on the initial format of the lease portion of the old appraisal which capitalized the EGI payments, to reduce wmata's financial exposure, we may go that route depending on where the appraisal comes in at.

- If Malcolm can get at least a verbal of the appraisal with the lease version by tomorrow or Monday, this would allow us to stay on schedule as the term sheet and lease are greatly dependent on the financial terms of the deal.

- In agreeing to go the lease route, Mr. Graham and I agreed that we may replace BOACDC with another partner. We will let you know who the new partner will be by the end of next week, if we replace BOACDC.

- The provision dealing with the reversion should be removed from all documents. Carol and I discussed this today as no financier will finance the project with this provision in it.

- Since there are no WMATA facilities to replace (parking lot, chillers, garage, etc), the language requiring a completion guarantee from a guarantor with a financial statement of the value of the cost of the project is no moment and thus should be removed. Instead, we could agree to have comply with the insurance requirements in the indemnification section. Since our design calls for us building about 10 feet above the tunnel, Carol's concerns about the tunnel is greatly mitigated as we are not going close to the tunnel in comparison to the Ellington and other projects where the underground garage is inches from the top of the tunnel. We could also require the Developer or General Contractor to post a completion or payment and performance bond naming WMATA as an insured.

Can we meet early next week to discuss where things stand?

Steve, thanks for moving this along.

To All:

As per direction from our Board, we are proceeding with preparing a term sheet for the lease of our property. The matter is to be taken up by the full Board in a special meeting in two weeks.

The lease will be as it was when a lease was first discussed (prior to my arrival): a capitalized payment at closing, an annual % participation in net operating income and a % participation upon various capital events (refinance, sale, etc). My understanding is that the participations had been 1.5% and 10% respectively.

By way of this e-mail, I am asking the following actions to be taken:

Omar: Please advise whether you as the developer are in agreement

Maurice: Please advise whether Bank of America CDC is in agreement

Jonathon: Please confirm that Chairman Graham is in agreement

Yohance: Please Confirm that Mr. Albert is in agreement

Roz/Malcolm: Please call Richard Harps and explain that we need the updated appraisal in hand by 10/30. Please initiate a new BAIS.

Josh/John: Please revise the term sheet to reflect the lease and discuss the co-tenancy agreement

Josh: Per Omar's instruction, I changed the review period in Section 8.1 back to 30 days. I also revised your insert in Section 9.8 to more precisely follow our discussions on the guarantor's liability if certain insurance coverages were not maintained. Finally, I agreed with your edits to Section 11, but added a provision that if the FHA lender has higher scopes and limits, then the Developer will provide the higher requirement.

Attached are a revised Term Sheet and a "redline" showing all changes from the version you distributed with your e-mail at 6:05p tonight. Thank you for your help in getting this done. I hope we can agree the Term Sheet is now final and all declare victory.

Josh,

We are fine with all of the changes except for the change in time to review the designs. This provision has been in all of our documents for the past 18 months and our schedule is closely tied to it. We already agreed to extend the time it could take to finalize the Definitive Agreement to December. Any additional extensions would delay our construction start and completion date, which would cause us to loose our tax credits. As discussed previously, we have to complete 10% of construction by October 2010 and 100% of construction by December 31, 2011. Since we will have to present WMATA with at least 3 separate reviews, adding another 45 days (15 more for each review), would certainly cause us to miss our deadline, and thus ensure that we loose the tax credits.

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED WMATA-INV 012210

John, please review the final provision (para 11) in particular as this is also a new change.

Omar,

Attached is the revised Term Sheet with the following changes:

- Section 8.1 – the WMATA response time was extended from 30 days to 45 days. Our review staff expressed the need for more time to review. This extended time allotment will provide them with the time they need to review while allowing you to manage your schedule more accurately.
- Section 9.5 – a cosmetic change to correct the name of the WMATA Adjacent Construction Manual.
- Section 9.8 – Guaranty changes per our telephone conversation today.
- Section 11- Insurance changes per our telephone conversation today.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Steve, et. al,

I just received a call from our counsel, John Hagner, at Womble Carlyle. John informed me that Josh Montague called him to discuss a few issues from the Term Sheet. We will agree with you on the following:

(a) the guarantee including the provision that we will pay for additional density if we build beyond what is in the Term Sheet or Definitive Agreement; and
(b) Adjacent Construction Design Standards will be as of the date of the Definitive Agreement.

However, BoA cannot agree to guarantee other liabilities (indemnifications) as they are open-ended and the bank can't provide that type of guarantee. Moreover, this request is beyond what WMATA has required of other developers.

If WMATA agrees to the last issue, we it looks like we have agreed to the terms of the Term Sheet. Please advise of your position.

Josh, in the future, please call me should you have any questions about any outstanding issues.

Thank you in advance.

We will need to put a provision in the Definitive Agreement that the Developer's insurance is primary to any insurance maintained by WMATA. But this does not need to go into the Term Sheet.

Otherwise, I am OK with Mr. Hagner's edits.

Josh: Per Omar's instruction, I changed the review period in Section 8.1 back to 30 days. I also revised your insert in Section 9.8 to more precisely follow our discussions on the guarantor's liability if certain insurance coverages were not maintained. Finally, I agreed with your edits to Section 11, but added a provision that if the FHA lender has higher scopes and limits, then the Developer will provide the higher requirement.

Attached are a revised Term Sheet and a "redline" showing all changes from the version you distributed with your e-mail at 6:05p tonight. Thank you for your help in getting this done. I hope we can agree the Term Sheet is now final and all declare victory.

Josh,

We are fine with all of the changes except for the change in time to review the designs. This provision has been in all of our documents for the past 18 months and our schedule is closely tied to it. We already agreed to extend the time it could take to finalize the Definitive Agreement to December. Any additional extensions would delay our construction start and completion date, which would cause us to loose our tax credits. As discussed previously, we have to complete 10% of construction by October 2010 and 100% of construction by December 31, 2011. Since we will have to present WMATA with at least 3 separate reviews, adding another 45 days (15 more for each review), would certainly cause us to miss our deadline, and thus ensure that we loose the tax credits.

John, please review the final provision (para 11) in particular as this is also a new change.

Omar,

Attached is the revised Term Sheet with the following changes:

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED WMATA-INV 012218

- Section 8.1 – the WMATA response time was extended from 30 days to 45 days. Our review staff expressed the need for more time to review. This extended time allotment will provide them with the time they need to review while allowing you to manage your schedule more accurately.
- Section 9.5 – a cosmetic change to correct the name of the WMATA Adjacent Construction Manual.
- Section 9.8 – Guaranty changes per our telephone conversation today.
- Section 11- Insurance changes per our telephone conversation today.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Josh,

Attached are the revised Term Sheet and a redline of the 2 changes in Section 9.5 and 9.8 that you discussed yesterday with John Hagner and mentioned in my email. There is an additional provision that you and John agreed to stating that if construction is not commenced by the third anniversary of the Definitive Agreement, then the Adjacent Construction Design Standards would be updated to include all revisions to the Design Manual since the Definitive Agreement.

Please let me know if all of the issues have been addressed and if the Term Sheet is finalized at this point.

Thank you in advance.

Steve, et. al,

I just received a call from our counsel, John Hagner, at Womble Carlyle. John informed me that Josh Montague called him to discuss a few issues from the Term Sheet. We will agree with you on the following:

(a) the guarantee including the provision that we will pay for additional density if we build beyond what is in the Term Sheet or Definitive Agreement; and
(b) Adjacent Construction Design Standards will be as of the date of the Definitive Agreement.

However, BoA cannot agree to guarantee other liabilities (indemnifications) as they are open-ended and the bank can't provide that type of guarantee. Moreover, this request is beyond what WMATA has required of other developers.

If WMATA agrees to the last issue, we it looks like we have agreed to the terms of the Term Sheet. Please advise of your position.

Josh, in the future, please call me should you have any questions about any outstanding issues.

Hi Steve and Roz,

I don't know if Omar is being brief or is just incorrect, but here is what was discussed with John Hagner:

1. Adjacent Construction Manual – Per our discussions, I explained to Mr. Hagner that we would be willing to allow them to rely on the current version of the Adjacent Construction Manual as long as construction commences within three years. If construction begins after three years, then the developer must adhere to whatever version is then current and the developer must take on any additional costs/risks associated therewith. Mr. Hagner seemed to agree and said he would run it by his clients. Mr. Karim did not mention the three year cap in his response.
2. Insurance – Mr. Hagner agreed to our requirement that the Developer, the GC, and all "major" subs must have CGL policies that name WMATA as an additional insured.
3. Guarantor –
    a. Payment – We asked BOACDC to guarantee the payments due under the Definitive Agreement, including any additional density payments that may be due after the Closing. Mr. Hagner eventually agreed to ask BOACDC if this is acceptable.
    b. Indemnification – Mr. Hagner vigorously disagreed with this issue. He called them a bottomless pit of risk and that insurance should give us all the protection that we need. He also made a vague reference that their status as a bank subsidiary might prohibit them from taking this on, but he did not follow up on this point (this may require further exploration).

As to the guarantor/indemnification issue, please note the following:

1. Layers are standard – it is relatively standard to require layers of risk protection through insurance, bonds, and contractual indemnifications. These provisions work together to create the best risk management protection possible.
2. Insurance – insurance will still be the primary source of liability protection for the Developer/Guarantor. But, insurance has limits. Insurance lapses if they do not (i) make payments or (ii) adhere to the policy requirements. And, insurance companies will deny claims for any reason possible. Therefore, the Guarantor's indemnification means that BOACDC will ensure that the Developer maintains adequate insurance at all times. BOACDC will also stand in for insurance if the insurance fails (due to denial, lapse, or exceeding of limits) and the Developer is unable to provide indemnification.
3. The Developer entity is not an adequate indemnifier by itself. The Jazz @ Florida Avenue, LLC is a highly leveraged SPE that cannot provide the indemnification that WMATA needs. Also, as mentioned previously, the WMATA Board expressed that it wants Banneker's partners to have well-defined roles. The Guaranty would meet this end.
4. Other transactions – Mr. Karim and Mr. Hagner refer to other WMATA transactions. But, every transaction is different. Mr. Hagner kept bringing up Rhode Island Avenue as an example. First, that is a lease rather than a sale. If the parties don't carry insurance, then WMATA can just terminate the lease. Second, Rhode Island Ave is not an "ideal" transaction.

5. Bank –If BOACDC's status as a bank subsidiary does not allow it to provide this level of guarantee, then BOACDC cannot provide the type of guarantee that WMATA needs. In that case, WMATA should look for different or additional guarantors. This issue is unclear.
6. Adjacent Construction Manual – Full indemnification is among the requirements of the adjacent construction manual (Section 6).

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,

Josh

Hi,

Please see revision below in bold/red. Let me know if this is good to go. Thanks,

Loyda

DESCRIPTION:

In September 2009, the Board approved an extension to December 2009 to renegotiate a term sheet, to include affordable housing, for the Shaw-Howard U./Florida Avenue development site, which consists of three separate parcels totaling 28,376 sf located between 7th and 9th streets NW in Washington, DC.

The project will feature ground floor retail along Florida Avenue, with four stories of housing above, for a minimum of 100,000 sf. If additional density can be achieved, Metro will be compensated. At a minimum, the project will include affordable housing required by the District of Columbia's new mandatory Inclusionary Zoning law and regulations (approximately 8% of the housing that is built); however, the developer is exploring financing to extend affordability.

Staff and the development team, led by Banneker Ventures, LLC with Banc of America Community Development Corporation, have negotiated a term sheet for disposition of the development site.

The project was initially proposed as a lease; however, the development team subsequently gained control of additional adjacent land on 9th Street and proposes to combine that land with the two of the three Metro parcels between 8th and 9th streets. The combined site will allow potentially greater density on Metro's land than if the Metro parcels were developed alone and therefore greater economic benefit to Metro. The sale of the site will also allow the three sites to be financed and developed as one project. While these advantages would hold also for a lease, in the event of a lease default there is a high risk disadvantage to Metro, namely, that Metro could not gain effective control of Metro land under a portion of the building constructed on combined Metro land and development team land. For this reason, a sale is preferable.

Metro facilities on the site consist of two underground rail tunnels and a vent shaft opening to 8th Street. These facilities will be reserved in perpetuity for Metro.

A sale will provide for reversion of the property to Metro in the event that the developer does not commence construction of the project within three years of executing the sales agreement. However, the Metro Board may issue a one-time extension of one year.

Metro will receive 79% (its share of the total size of the development parcel) of the value of any bonus density granted the development team by the District of Columbia.

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED WMATA-INV 012224

The negotiated sale agreement will be brought to the Board for approval within the extension period which ends in December 2009.

Roz –

I think it looks good. I made a minor edit to reflect that the one time extension should be one year.

"A sale will provide for reversion of the property to Metro in the event that the developer does not commence construction of the project within three years of executing the sales agreement. However, the Board may issue a one-time extension of a year."

Per your request, the BAIS language regarding reversion will be revised as follows on Monday:

"A sale will provide for reversion of the property to Metro in the event that the developer does not commence construction of the project within three years of executing the sales agreement. However, the Board may issue a one-time extension."

Yohance, please confirm that this language is what you intended and discussed with CM Graham. It would be consistent with the term sheet negotiated by Metro staff and Banneker over the past few days.

Omar,

We are working with our appraiser to formulate a counteroffer to your offer of 9/22/09. As we are awaiting additional data from the appraiser, we are not in a position to meet today but anticipate being able to meet tomorrow. As I will be out of the office, I have asked Roz Doggett to contact you tomorrow, or later today if possible, to schedule a meeting.

Mark,

Thanks for the update. Since we are working to get on the agenda for the Oct 8th committee meeting, could we push for meeting tomorrow? I think our analysis of and comments to the appraisal are pretty limited to two issues (comparable sales FAR and IZ deduction) and therefore, I'm hopeful that Malcolm will be able to review these with the backdrop that he's been working with the appraiser for sometime to get it to where it is today, and allow us to get this thing done tomorrow. Can we push for this?

Should Malcolm have any questions, I will be available all day to speak with him.

Thanks for the tremendous effort you and your team is putting toward getting this thing done.

Omar,

Thanks for your analysis. I've asked our appraiser, Malcolm Marshall, and Rosalyn Doggett to review your analysis in light of WMATA's appraisal and formulate a response. I received a voicemail from Yohance Fuller this morning requesting a meeting this afternoon to, hopefully, finalize Term Sheet negotiations. Unfortunately, Roz is out of the office today and Malcolm will need some time to complete his review having received your information at 6:25 p.m. yesterday. Consequently, a meeting today will not work. Upon Roz's return to the office, I will be in further touch with you to schedule the meeting.

Nat et al.,

Thanks for sending over the additional material. I think it effectively summarizes the critical deal points. Neil is unfortunately out of town for the rest of the week, but I will coordinate with him once he returns. Specifically, to discuss the District's rationale on timing of this project.

In the mean time, can you please detail the next steps for getting this project in front of the committee and/or board? Outside of the District's rationale, are there any other deliverables, milestones, etc. that need to be produced in order to bring this before the board again. I assume that we are trying to get this on the agenda for November's Board meeting? Please advise.

Thanks for all your hard work thus far.

Omar et al--

fyi, this is the material that went out to the Board on Friday afternoon. I will be contacting Board members this week to ask them if they have follow-up questions that we can answer.

The materials sent out establish that the expected revenue stream for the transaction exceeds the current appraised value. We may receive questions about the details of the value to Metro of this deal, but I don't think these questions are the most important to address for the Board to feel comfortable acting on this.

The question that will most directly confront Board members -- in my view -- is the question of timing. Why should the Board approve this deal in this market, when in a few years the value of the land may significantly increase relative to today's value?

This timing question will, again in my view, require input from the District that Metro staff can not speak to as well as District representatives. For example, what is the policy imperative of moving forward at this time rather than in a few years? It is certainly the case that this property does not support an attractive streetscape at Florida and 9th, and eyesore properties can depress markets and slow revitalization. There may also be local economic development momentum that this project would help sustain. However, these are items that, as I said, District representatives can speak most strongly to in addressing the timing question with their Board colleagues.

I hope this information is helpful.

Best wishes,

Nat

A Joint Development Agreement with the following exhibits needs to be taken to the Board:
1. Lease
2. Covenants, Conditions and Restrictions (CCR's)
3. Right of Entry Agreement
4. Guaranty
5. Co-tenancy agreement
6. Metes and Bounds Survey and full ALTA Title Report from developer (we can delay this until the Closing on the lease and continue to use the property outline and lot descriptions for purposes of the JDA; the metes and bounds survey would be the basis for descriptions of WMATA reserved areas: tunnels, etc. in the lease)

Status: The developer has the JDA plus items 1-4 drafted by WMATA. The developer is in the process of drafting a co-tenancy agreement, which would not have been necessary under a sale. The other items, with a sales agreement instead of a lease, would be needed under either type of disposition.

Our counsel and Banneker's have agreed that once we have agreed to a Term Sheet, they will mark up the JDA and items 1-4 (note: Banneker has previously provided provisional comments to the JDA, but not the other documents). We are uncertain of the timing by Banneker's counsel to send us the initial draft of item 5.

Banneker's counsel would like to draft a new lease based on the Rhode Island Ave lease, instead of working with the lease draft we sent to Banneker. However, our counsel does not agree because that is a different situation. So that is an impasse currently.

To be followed by a more complete response later this afternoon from Roz. Before closing, we would need

A final lease agreement - this has been partially negotiated, but stalled when we went to sale approach. This would include terms related to composition of team and their strength

CCRs - I think Omar has these from us, we but don't have a response

Survey - We need this from Omar; we would have needed this to close for a sale, too.

Nat,

Thanks for the update. If you could, please provide me with a bulleted list of what milestones need to occur so the developer can begin construction. Our primary concern is that the development team begins construction ASAP, as they are at risk of losing their LIHTC financing if a percentage of the project is not completed at a date certain.

I think it looks good. I made a minor edit to reflect that the one time extension should be one year.

"A sale will provide for reversion of the property to Metro in the event that the developer does not commence construction of the project within three years of executing the sales agreement. However, the Board may issue a one-time extension of a year."

Per your request, the BAIS language regarding reversion will be revised as follows on Monday:

"A sale will provide for reversion of the property to Metro in the event that the developer does not commence construction of the project within three years of executing the sales agreement. However, the Board may issue a one-time extension."

Yohance, please confirm that this language is what you intended and discussed with CM Graham. It would be consistent with the term sheet negotiated by Metro staff and Banneker over the past few days.

Omar, this will confirm the message that I left with your office. Since alternative arrangements were made for appraisal review by an MAI appraiser selected by you, there does not appear to be a need for a meeting today in our opinion. I called to see if you agree that there is no need for a meeting and to follow up on the alternative arrangement. I look forward to hearing from you.

Omar,

Thanks for your analysis. I've asked our appraiser, Malcolm Marshall, and Rosalyn Doggett to review your analysis in light of WMATA's appraisal and formulate a response. I received a voicemail from Yohance Fuller this morning requesting a meeting this afternoon to, hopefully, finalize Term Sheet negotiations. Unfortunately, Roz is out of the office today and Malcolm will need some time to complete his review having received your information at 6:25 p.m. yesterday. Consequently, a meeting today will not work. Upon Roz's return to the office, I will be in further touch with you to schedule the meeting.

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED WMATA-INV 012242

Subject: Comments to Appraisal of 700 and 800 blocks of Florida Avenue NW
Importance: High

Nat, Mark, Malcolm and Roz,

Below please find our thoughts on the appraisal by Harps & Harps for the WMATA-owned parcels on the 700 and 800 blocks of Florida Avenue, NW dated September 17, 2009. Based on our analysis, we would be prepared to pay WMATA a total of $2,545,000 to purchase the parcels. Our rationale is as follows:

1. WMATA parcels actually total 28,357 SF (as oppose to 28,892 SF that was listed in the appraisal and mistakenly in our pro forma sent to WMATA). Our surveyor recently completed a field survey of the sites, which resulted in the following information:

	RECORD	SURVEY
Lot 31, Square 416	15,956 sq. ft.	15,944.97 sq.ft.
Lot 44, Square 393	3,799 sq. ft.	3,784.45 sq.ft.
Lot 45, Square 45	8,621 sq. ft.	8,627.48 sq.ft.
Total sq. ft.	28,376 sq. ft.	28,356.90 sq. ft.

RECORD means information shown in the District of Columbia Surveyor's Office and SURVEY means information actually gathered by the surveyor during field surveys. Also, our surveyor performed research in the D.C. Surveyor's Office and found that Lot 0018 is no longer a valid lot. WMATA performed a subdivision on lots 0012 - 0018 to create lot 0031. The subdivision was completed on December 26, 1996.

2. Total developable FAR SF of WMATA parcels should be as follows:

   15,945 SF x 3.35 FAR (developable FAR according to Eric Colbert, AIA, the appraiser's consultant) = 53,415.75 SF
   8,621 SF x 3.83 FAR = 33,018.43 SF
   3,799 SF x 4.11 FAR = 15,613.89 SF
   Total developable SF = 102,048.08 SF

   Thus, no premium should be added to this 102,048 SF because the Developer is unsure if it will be able to achieve its desired density on the adjacent parcels because the buildings that are part of the development may contribute to the 9th Street Historic District, and therefore, all, or part of the buildings may need to be kept, and therefore the Developer may not be able to demolish these buildings and as a result by not be able to build out to its desired FAR for the entire project. Moreover, if the buildings are not able to be fully demolished, the Developer will have to expend significant costs to maintain all or a portion of these structures. Thus, it is inappropriate to view the entirety of the development density generated by the WMATA sites and our sites as oppose to WMATA's stand alone sites, unless WMATA is willing to discount the price that the Developer is paying for the adjacent parcels as the price has a negative economic impact on the entire project.

3. Upon review of the comps in the appraisal, and discussion with an appraiser that we often work with for projects in this area, comps should only be used that are less than 12 months old. However, since there has been a lack of sales activity in this market, the appraiser indicated that it might use comps in the last 18 months (comps 3-6), but certainly not comps in 2006 and 2007. Thus, if comp 1 (which is almost 3 years old), comp 2 (which is 24 months old) and comp 3 (which is 20 months old) were removed from the comp chart, the average sales price is $46 per FAR before any adjustments and before taking into account that the contract on the parcel at 1912 8th Street may not go for the price that its under contract for. If we use the appraiser's adjustment of 15% per year on each parcel (0.0125% deduct per month) the comp sales would indicate an adjusted price range of $41.88 (comp 4), $36.55 (comp 5) and $38.25 (comp 6 assuming property closed w/n 12 months of contract) or average of $38.89 per FAR. Thus, none of the last three comps sold for more than $41.88 per FAR and therefore, we believe a comparable sales value would be no more than $41.88 per FAR. If you added a location bump, we could accept a price of $45 per FAR assuming we purchased the property within 12 months of approval of a purchase agreement.

4. Thus, the Unencumbered Value of the WMATA parcels would be $45 per FAR x 102,048 or $4,592,160.

5. Adjustment to Value b/c of Inclusionary Zoning. A deduct to the overall value b/c of inclusion of the IZ should be calculated by taking into account the difference b/t what market rate units would generate and what IZ units would generate. Assuming that we have 8,163 SF attributed to the IZ units (8% of total buildable SF of project), and assuming that the market units would generate $2.5 SF and the IZ units would generate $1.5 SF, this would be a delta of $1 per SF. Multiplying 8,163 x $1 per SF x 12 months per year would generate a loss of $97,956 (approx $100,000) per year in loss revenue. Capping this at a 6.5% would generate a $1.538M loss.

6. Adjustment to Value b/c of Extraordinary Costs (WMATA Easements and Tunnels): $2,300,000 (according to WMATA)

Final Value of Property Subject to IZ and WMATA Tunnels and Easements

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED

Value unencumbered: $4,592,160
Adjustments for IZ: $1,538,000
Adjustments for Extraordinary Costs: $2,300,000

Final Encumbered Value of Property: $754,160

However, the Developer would be willing to pay the following to purchase the parcels:

$1,980,000 (amount that we agreed to pay in a capitalized lease)
$350,000 (value that the EGI payments is worth)
$100,000 (Option Fee)
$115,000 (Pre-Closing payments)

TOTAL PAYMENTS TO WMATA $2,545,000.00

This offer assumes that WMATA will be willing to have our Term Sheet go to the Board in October, the Purchase Agreement go to the Board at the November meeting, and agree to a critical path schedule with all of WMATA's reviews.

We hope that we can meet tomorrow to wrap up the final terms of the Revised Term Sheet.

Thanks.

Mark,

Thanks for the update. Since we are working to get on the agenda for the Oct 8th committee meeting, could we push for meeting tomorrow? I think our analysis of and comments to the appraisal are pretty limited to two issues (comparable sales FAR and IZ deduction) and therefore, I'm hopeful that Malcolm will be able to review these with the backdrop that he's been working with the appraiser for sometime to get it to where it is today, and allow us to get this thing done tomorrow. Can we push for this?

Should Malcolm have any questions, I will be available all day to speak with him.

Thanks for the tremendous effort you and your team is putting toward getting this thing done.

Please provide me with final appraisal instructions by COB Monday. After taking a quick look at the draft appraisal insturctions, there was no mention of inclusionary zoning and a number of additional elements that are included in the final appraisal. I need to understand all the assumptions that went into this appraisal in preparation for our meeting on Tuesday.

Attached are:

1. The draft appraisal instructions to the outside appraiser which I was asked to review. In addition to the instructions in the draft, I know that I asked additionally for the outside appraiser to reflect the buildable amount of sf on the site and the extraordinary costs of building over the Metro tunnels. Since both those items were addressed in the appraisal, that request was carried forward in the final appraisal instructions which I do not have the ability to access this afternoon.
2. A table showing my current calculation of the purchase price based on discussions between myself and Omar Karim this morning. We did not discuss the specific numbers for purchasing additional square footage so I do not want to represent that we did.

Nat, Mark, Malcolm and Roz,

Below please find our thoughts on the appraisal by Harps & Harps for the WMATA-owned parcels on the 700 and 800 blocks of Florida Avenue, NW dated September 17, 2009. Based on our analysis, we would be prepared to pay WMATA a total of $2,545,000 to purchase the parcels. Our rationale is as follows:

1. WMATA parcels actually total 28,357 SF (as oppose to 28,892 SF that was listed in the appraisal and mistakenly in our pro forma sent to WMATA). Our surveyor recently completed a field survey of the sites, which resulted in the following information:

	RECORD	SURVEY
Lot 31, Square 416	15,956 sq. ft.	15,944.97 sq.ft.
Lot 44, Square 393	3,799 sq. ft.	3,784.45 sq.ft.
Lot 45, Square 45	8,621 sq. ft.	8,627.48 sq.ft.
Total sq. ft.	28,376 sq. ft.	28,356.90 sq. ft.

RECORD means information shown in the District of Columbia Surveyor's Office and SURVEY means information actually gathered by the surveyor during field surveys. Also, our surveyor performed research in the D.C. Surveyor's Office and found that Lot 0018 is no longer a valid lot. WMATA performed a subdivision on lots 0012 - 0018 to create lot 0031. The subdivision was completed on December 26, 1996.

2. Total developable FAR SF of WMATA parcels should be as follows:

15,945 SF x 3.35 FAR (developable FAR according to Eric Colbert, AIA, the appraiser's consultant) = 53,415.75 SF
8,621 SF x 3.83 FAR = 33,018.43 SF
3,799 SF x 4.11 FAR = 15,613.89 SF
Total developable SF = 102,048.08 SF

Thus, no premium should be added to this 102,048 SF because the Developer is unsure if it will be able to achieve its desired density on the adjacent parcels because the buildings that are part of the development may contribute to the 9th Street Historic District, and therefore, all, or part of the buildings may need to be kept, and therefore the Developer may not be able to demolish these buildings and as a result by not be able to build out to its desired FAR for the entire project. Moreover, if the buildings are not able to be fully demolished, the Developer will have to expend significant costs to maintain all or a portion of these structures. Thus, it is inappropriate to view the entirety of the development density generated by the WMATA sites and our sites as oppose to WMATA's stand alone sites, unless WMATA is willing to discount the price that the Developer is paying for the adjacent parcels as the price has a negative economic impact on the entire project.

3. Upon review of the comps in the appraisal, and discussion with an appraiser that we often work with for projects in this area, comps should only be used that are less than 12 months old. However, since there has been a lack of sales activity in this market, the appraiser indicated that it might use comps in the last 18 months (comps 3-6), but certainly not comps in 2006 and 2007. If we use the appraiser's adjustment of 15% per year on each parcel (0.0125% deduct per month) the comp sales would indicate an adjusted price range of $41.88 (comp 4), $36.55 (comp 5) and $38.25 (comp 6 assuming property closed w/n 12 months of contract) or average of $38.89 per FAR. 5. Adjustment to Value b/c of Inclusionary Zoning. A deduct to the overall value b/c of inclusion of the IZ should be calculated by taking into account the difference b/t what market rate units would generate and what IZ units would generate. Assuming that we have 8,163 SF attributed to the IZ units (8% of total buildable SF of project), and assuming that the market units would generate $2.5 SF and the IZ units would generate $1.5 SF, this would be a delta of $1 per SF. Multiplying 8,163 x $1 per SF x 12 months per year would generate a loss of $97,956 (approx $100,000) per year in loss revenue. Capping this at a 6.5% would generate a $1.538M loss.

6. Adjustment to Value b/c of Extraordinary Costs (WMATA Easements and Tunnels): $2,300,000 (according to WMATA)

Final Value of Property Subject to IZ and WMATA Tunnels and Easements

Value unencumbered: $4,592,160
Adjustments for IZ: $1,538,000
Adjustments for Extraordinary Costs: $2,300,000

Final Encumbered Value of Property: $754,160

However, the Developer would be willing to pay the following to purchase the parcels:

$1,980,000 (amount that we agreed to pay in a capitalized lease)
$350,000 (value that the EGI payments is worth)
$100,000 (Option Fee)
$115,000 (Pre-Closing payments)

TOTAL PAYMENTS TO WMATA $2,545,000.00

This offer assumes that WMATA will be willing to have our Term Sheet go to the Board in October, the Purchase Agreement go to the Board at the November meeting, and agree to a critical path schedule with all of WMATA's reviews.

We hope that we can meet tomorrow to wrap up the final terms of the Revised Term Sheet.

Thanks.

I can't do Friday morning but I am available at 1:30. Roz is out of the office today, so I cannot confirm her attendance at this time. Let's hold 1:30 and I will talk to Roz tomorrow.

Nat, Mark and Roz,

On Friday, Roz indicated that she would have to check her schedule before we could confirm a time to meet again this Friday. I believe we had agreed to hold the meeting in the morning. Can you all confirm that the morning is still good. If so, can we meet at 9am?

Thank you in advance.

Mark et al.,

Per an email exchange with Nat earlier today -- there are only a few outstanding items to resolve to get a term sheet in draft from and more importantly get this on October's agenda. I don't see why we can't get all stakeholders at a table and get these issues finally put to bed.

Please set up a meeting this Friday, per our conversation last week. It is imperative that we get these initial deal terms finalized by COB Friday. I am available 2:30p and anytime thereafter.

Mark,

Thank you for the email with your thoughts on the basic WMATA Financial Terms. Below are our comments:

Capitalized Lease Payments

If we agree to all of the other terms, we could agree to pay the value of the capitalized lease payment of $1.98M that your appraiser put together.

Please explain why you indicated that the value of the land was absent any subsidies other than 4% tax credits. Based on our knowledge of projects that include 20% affordable housing, and as discussed with you all on several occasions, the value of the land would be zero if we had to do 20% affordable housing and then we would still need some subsidies to cover the gap. We can't think of one project in the District that includes 20% affordable housing that is paying anywhere close to what we would pay WMATA AND these projects would still need subsidies.

We would not be willing to pay WMATA any portion of any subsidies that we obtain for the project, let alone paying 80% of anything that we get. We've mentioned this many times before as we believe that no project could move forward with 20% affordable housing and pay $1.98M at closing for the land, without some public subsidies to help close the gap because of the inclusion of the affordable housing units.

Pre-Closing Payments

Okay with amounts but payments would be made quarterly.

Additional Density

This is confusing. The portion of the alley that will be closed is 1,025 SF. About ½ will be deeded to WMATA and ½ will be deeded to us as the purchasers of the adjacent parcels that are next to the alley. Since we are building a 5 story building, this would mean 512 SF x 5 stories = 2,560 SF would be attributable to WMATA land. Based on your calculations of the value of the land, this would mean that we would pay about $16 per SF or $42,000 in additional capitalized rent at Lease execution. We could agree to this increase over the $1.98M.

Annual Operating Income Participation

We would agree to 1.5% of Effective Gross Income but would not run our Debt Service Coverage at 1.25. We've never run our DSC at 1.25 as our project couldn't be financed at this rate. We are using a 1.11 DSC because HUD allows this.

Capital Event Participation

Any equity or member loans to receive a 20% return prior to WMATA receiving its 10% of net proceeds. Member loans or equity are indistinguishable. We could agree that equity or member loans not to exceed 40% of the development costs.

Term

Initial term is 60 years with an option for the Developer to extend for another 39 years. Any annual escalation after the initial term to be at 1%, not 3%.

After yesterday's meeting, we thought that we were much closer to resolving the financial issues with you all. However, based on the terms that you sent us this afternoon, it appears that you all want to continue to raise new issues and change old ones. We cannot send over a summary of open issues until we know where we are with the ones above.

We welcome meeting with you again on Friday to try to come to some agreement on these terms.

If we agree to all of the other terms, we could agree to pay the value of the capitalized lease payment of $1.98M that your appraiser put together.

Please explain why you indicated that the value of the land was absent any subsidies other than 4% tax credits. Based on our knowledge of projects that include 20% affordable housing, and as discussed with you all on several occasions, the value of the land would be zero if we had to do 20% affordable housing and then we would still need some subsidies to cover the gap. We can't think of one project in the District that includes 20% affordable housing that is paying anywhere close to what we would pay WMATA AND these projects would still need subsidies.

We would not be willing to pay WMATA any portion of any subsidies that we obtain for the project, let alone paying 80% of anything that we get. We've mentioned this many times before as we believe that no project could move forward with 20% affordable housing and pay $1.98M at closing for the land, without some public subsidies to help close the gap because of the inclusion of the affordable housing units.

Pre-Closing Payments
Okay with amounts but payments would be made quarterly.

Additional Density
This is confusing. The portion of the alley that will be closed is 1,025 SF. About ½ will be deeded to WMATA and ½ will be deeded to us as the purchasers of the adjacent parcels that are next to the alley. Since we are building a 5 story building, this would mean 512 SF x 5 stories = 2,560 SF would be attributable to WMATA land. Based on your calculations of the value of the land, this would mean that we would pay about $16 per SF or $42,000 in additional capitalized rent at Lease execution. We could agree to this increase over the $1.98M.

Annual Operating Income Participation
We would agree to 1.5% of Effective Gross Income but would not run our Debt Service Coverage at 1.25. We've never run our DSC at 1.25 as our project couldn't be financed at this rate. We are using a 1.11 DSC because HUD allows this.

Capital Event Participation
Any equity or member loans to receive a 20% return prior to WMATA receiving its 10% of net proceeds. Member loans or equity are indistinguishable. We could agree that equity or member loans not to exceed 40% of the development costs.

Term
Initial term is 60 years with an option for the Developer to extend for another 39 years. Any annual escalation after the initial term to be at 1%, not 3%.

After yesterday's meeting, we thought that we were much closer to resolving the financial issues with you all. However, based on the terms that you sent us this afternoon, it appears that you all want to continue to raise new issues and change old ones. We cannot send over a summary of open issues until we know where we are with the ones above.

We welcome meeting with you again on Friday to try to come to some agreement on these terms.

I recognize neither of you may be able to review this material prior to tomorrow morning's meeting among ourselves and Banneker, but I wanted to provide our responses to Omar's comments below so that all involved in this negotiation can be aware of the positions Metro staff will be taking and the basis for these positions.

Thanks very much.

Per an email exchange with Nat earlier today -- there are only a few outstanding items to resolve to get a term sheet in draft from and more importantly get this on October's agenda. I don't see why we can't get all stakeholders at a table and get these issues finally put to bed.

Please set up a meeting this Friday, per our conversation last week. It is imperative that we get these initial deal terms finalized by COB Friday. I am available 2:30p and anytime thereafter.

Thanks for the information. I need you or Roz to also communicate this information to Banneker Ventures so that they can begin their financial modeling and turn the pro formas around for you. I am jumping on a call with Omar in 15 minutes to communicate what they need to provide in order to make the October agenda. I'd like for him to know this before we talk at 3pm.

As discussed this morning, we have not as yet received a draft of the appraisal of the subject property. However, based on discussions with the appraiser, the base market rental for the lease of the above property, assuming a lease structure with a fixed rental for 60 years plus rent participation equal to 1% of gross revenue per year and 2% of the net proceeds from refinancing or sales, is estimated at $375,000 per year.

Mark and Roz –

I've made arrangements for Yohance to visit with Malcolm tomorrow morning at 10 to be walked through the most current appraisal information we have about the Florida Avenue project. Yohance needs this information so he can brief Neil.

Yohance also asked for a list of information we need from Omar so we can make quicker progress towards finalizing the terms sheet and JDA. I mentioned the information about sources and funds, but I believe there are other items as well. Roz and Mark, could you prepare an email for me that I can forward to Yohance today about what items Omar needs to deliver so we can get to the next level of detail?

I have explained that we are trying to accomplish terms sheet and JDA in December, not just the terms sheet. We could conceivably be done with a terms sheet IN October, but with the two tracking so closely together it didn't make sense to me from Board agenda and Board agenda process points of view to have a terms sheet Board item in October and a JDA item in December – I thought it would be more efficient to do them together. Neil may still want this item in October, though, but it would have to be a terms sheet and we'd have to have information from Omar sufficient for that.

Yohance, for your meeting tomorrow morning, Malcolm's direct number is 962-1584. Mark Meister's is 962-1589.

Thanks very much,

We expect receipt of the final appraisal report this week. The appraisal was scheduled to be delivered on or about August 15th, but we had some concerns with the appraiser's architectural consultant's estimate of the cost to build over the WMATA tunnel. We have obtained what we believe to be a more realistic estimate from our in-house estimator.

Thanks for sending over the additional material. I think it effectively summarizes the critical deal points. Neil is unfortunately out of town for the rest of the week, but I will coordinate with him once he returns. Specifically, to discuss the District's rationale on timing of this project.

In the mean time, can you please detail the next steps for getting this project in front of the committee and/or board? Outside of the District's rationale, are there any other deliverables, milestones, etc. that need to be produced in order to bring this before the board again. I assume that we are trying to get this on the agenda for November's Board meeting? Please advise.

Thanks for all your hard work thus far.

fyi, this is the material that went out to the Board on Friday afternoon. I will be contacting Board members this week to ask them if they have follow-up questions that we can answer.

The materials sent out establish that the expected revenue stream for the transaction exceeds the current appraised value. We may receive questions about the details of the value to Metro of this deal, but I don't think these questions are the most important to address for the Board to feel comfortable acting on this.

The question that will most directly confront Board members -- in my view -- is the question of timing. Why should the Board approve this deal in this market, when in a few years the value of the land may significantly increase relative to today's value?

This timing question will, again in my view, require input from the District that Metro staff can not speak to as well as District representatives. For example, what is the policy imperative of moving forward at this time rather than in a few years? It is certainly the case that this property does not support an attractive streetscape at Florida and 9th, and eyesore properties can depress markets and slow revitalization. There may also be local economic development momentum that this project would help sustain. However, these are items that, as I said, District representatives can speak most strongly to in addressing the timing question with their Board colleagues.

I hope this information is helpful.

Best wishes,

Nat

Nat,

Thanks for the information. We appreciate it. As previously discussed, the conversation that Mr. Graham and I had was to go from a sale to a 99 year flat lease. In the worst economy in more than 50 years, as a Joint Development Deal, having terms that would allow WMATA's development partner to secure as flexible financing on an on-going basis would be the most beneficial use to all parties involved, including WMATA as a participant in annual cash flow as well as Capital Events. A 60 year base lease would reduce the value of the deal since we are using HUD financing which is a 40 year term plus a requirement that any lease have at least 10 years beyond the loan term. Thus, under a 60 year lease, we would be prohibited from re-financing the project in just 10 years from now, which is a great detriment to the project. As a compromise, we would be prepared to enter into a 75 yr + 24 year option. Would this be acceptable to you?

Steve,

Thank you for reaching out this evening. Per your request, this email serves as a recap of our discussion:

Agreed to Items:

1. Co-tenancy Agreement – John Hagner and the Developers spoke this evening and we are in agreement with the terms of the conversation that John had with Carol this afternoon. John will send over an updated Term Sheet tomorrow by noon with these changes, along with the ones below as well.
2. $100,000 Expense Credit from going to Lease from Sale – The Developer will provide further back-up for our legal bills with the days and amount of time on the bills being shown but not the confidential description of the work as this is attorney-client privilege.

Open Issues:

3. Guarantee – Developer proposes $1.5M.
4. Capital Event Participation – Developer proposes that WMATA receive 1.5% of gross proceeds; this is a change from the 20% IRR that Developer was to receive previously before WMATA would begin sharing in the proceeds.
5. Term of Lease – Developer proposes 99 year straight lease as this is what was agreed to between the Developer and Mr. Graham in order to go from a sale to a lease. Discussions to be held with Mr. Graham in the morning to finalize term.

We look forward to finalizing these few issues by noon or 1pm (ET) tomorrow.

Have a great night.

Nat,

Thanks for the information. We appreciate it. As previously discussed, the conversation that Mr. Graham and I had was to go from a sale to a 99 year flat lease. In the worst economy in more than 50 years, as a Joint Development Deal, having terms that would allow WMATA's development partner to secure as flexible financing on an on-going basis would be the most beneficial use to all parties involved, including WMATA as a participant in annual cash flow as well as Capital Events. A 60 year base lease would reduce the value of the deal since we are using HUD financing which is a 40 year term plus a requirement that any lease have at least 10 years beyond the loan term. Thus, under a 60 year lease, we would be prohibited from re-financing the project in just 10 years from now, which is a great detriment to the project. As a compromise, we would be prepared to enter into a 75 yr + 24 year option. Would this be acceptable to you?

Subject: Shaw-Howard/Florida Avenue Term Sheet - Recap
Importance: High

Steve,

Thank you for reaching out this evening. Per your request, this email serves as a recap of our discussion:

Agreed to Items:

1. Co-tenancy Agreement – John Hagner and the Developers spoke this evening and we are in agreement with the terms of the conversation that John had with Carol this afternoon. John will send over an updated Term Sheet tomorrow by noon with these changes, along with the ones below as well.
2. $100,000 Expense Credit from going to Lease from Sale – The Developer will provide further back-up for our legal bills with the days and amount of time on the bills being shown but not the confidential description of the work as this is attorney-client privilege.

Open Issues:

3. Guarantee – Developer proposes $1.5M.
4. Capital Event Participation – Developer proposes that WMATA receive 1.5% of gross proceeds; this is a change from the 20% IRR that Developer was to receive previously before WMATA would begin sharing in the proceeds.
5. Term of Lease – Developer proposes 99 year straight lease as this is what was agreed to between the Developer and Mr. Graham in order to go from a sale to a lease. Discussions to be held with Mr. Graham in the morning to finalize term.

We look forward to finalizing these few issues by noon or 1pm (ET) tomorrow.

Have a great night.

CM Graham agrees that staff should be preparing a term sheet to be taken up by the full Board in two weeks.

He's OK with removing the provision dealing with reversion of the property since we're back to a lease arrangement.

He expects that there would be some documentation of the $100,000 costs leading to the reduction in security deposit.

Generally, he does not think it's appropriate for him to be involved in negotiating the terms.

I have printed out the BAIS and power point and summary of deal approved last July for Nat. As for bullet points:

- Staff has nearly finalized the agreement to send out (Josh and I met with Tariq on Wednesday) and once Josh has incorporated Tariq's comments, we can send it out. I have informed Larry Clark of Donatelli it is coming soon. Mark, do you want to review it first?
- We will likely have to do a new appraisal since the current one dates from 3/08
- Independently of that, I would expect the developer to ask for a change in business terms but of course have no intention of encouraging it

I will be briefing Neil Albert next Wednesday at 2 on the three items listed below. Wheaton MOU I'm fine with; Broadcast Center partners I may need a little help with, but basically he should already know what the issues are and the fact that it's resolved. Extension of time for Navy Yard I will also need to know some more about.

Can I get copies of presentations for all three projects to bring to the meeting on Wednesday, please? Also, for BCP and Navy Yard, could I get a supporting set of bullet points for each identifying the key issues that had to be resolved or that remain to be dealt with?

Thanks very much,

I think that this is more of a Sid/Roz coordination problem, which I will try to prevent from happening in the future although sometimes packages get put together that I don't know about.

At the time of Nat's AGM review we had not even started circulating a BAIS, and the BAIS in the AGM review package said September. I am guessing that Nat took that BAIS with him but don't know. Anyway I will check with Sid and see if he thinks that a footer will solve the problem.

Thanks for sending over the additional material. I think it effectively summarizes the critical deal points. Neil is unfortunately out of town for the rest of the week, but I will coordinate with him once he returns. Specifically, to discuss the District's rationale on timing of this project.

In the mean time, can you please detail the next steps for getting this project in front of the committee and/or board? Outside of the District's rationale, are there any other deliverables, milestones, etc. that need to be produced in order to bring this before the board again. I assume that we are trying to get this on the agenda for November's Board meeting? Please advise.

fyi, this is the material that went out to the Board on Friday afternoon. I will be contacting Board members this week to ask them if they have follow-up questions that we can answer.

The materials sent out establish that the expected revenue stream for the transaction exceeds the current appraised value. We may receive questions about the details of the value to Metro of this deal, but I don't think these questions are the most important to address for the Board to feel comfortable acting on this.

The question that will most directly confront Board members -- in my view -- is the question of timing. Why should the Board approve this deal in this market, when in a few years the value of the land may significantly increase relative to today's value?

This timing question will, again in my view, require input from the District that Metro staff can not speak to as well as District representatives. For example, what is the policy imperative of moving forward at this time rather than in a few years? It is certainly the case that this property does not support an attractive streetscape at Florida and 9th, and eyesore properties can depress markets and slow revitalization. There may also be local economic development momentum that this project would help sustain. However, these are items that, as I said, District representatives can speak most strongly to in addressing the timing question with their Board colleagues.

I hope this information is helpful.

Best wishes,

Nat

I think that this is more of a Sid/Roz coordination problem, which I will try to prevent from happening in the future although sometimes packages get put together that I don't know about.

At the time of Nat's AGM review we had not even started circulating a BAIS, and the BAIS in the AGM review package said September. I am guessing that Nat took that BAIS with him but don't know. Anyway I will check with Sid and see if he thinks that a footer will solve the problem.

McMansions affect community character in Montgomery

Posted: 06 Jan 2011 11:53 AM PST

by David Rotenstein

Teardowns and mansionization are a nationwide problem. Montgomery County has few regulatory controls to prevent property owners from demolishing older homes and building new houses that are out of scale and character with neighboring buildings.

Although Montgomery County has a historic preservation ordinance, not all old homes are historic and there are few tools currently available to residents to prevent speculators from building McMansions like the one under construction in my Silver Spring neighborhood.

Starting in 2006, the National Trust for Historic Preservation began promoting a toolkit on teardowns and mansionization. Among the references are some visual guides. Under "McMansion" in the Trust's "Teardowns Glossary" are several terms applied to the houses: faux chateaux, starter castle, and big box Victorian.

Paper bus passes extended through January

by Erik Weber

Though they had initially announced January 2, 2011 as the end date, WMATA has extended the life of paper bus passes through January 29. After that date, area buses will no longer accept weekly paper bus passes.

The paper pass reprieve comes as a result of "unforeseen technical issues," according to WMATA's Ron Holzer. ART announced the extension in a press release last month, while WMATA made no announcement of the change. The "flash-passes" are being discontinued after the October introduction of an electronic version that can be loaded on customers' SmarTrip cards.

The electronic passes will have the same $15 price tag, assuming riders already own a SmarTrip card. They can be purchased at the Metro customer service center as well as at area retailers, mostly CVS pharmacies, where you can already reload your regular SmarTrip credit.

Bag search policy another example of siloed thinking

by David Alpert

To most riders, WMATA's bag search policy is intuitively foolish. But, as statements at recent Riders' Advisory Council meetings make clear, within the mindset of the Metro Transit Police (MTPD), they're entirely logical. This is another example of how silos inside WMATA lead to bad decisions.

Taborn and Catoe. Image from WMATA.

Last night, Chief Taborn echoed the statements of his underlings from Monday: Taborn said that this program is one of many tools in the police's toolbox, and they feel they have to do "everything" for security.

In other words, it's not his job to balance this program against others, or against the costs outside the police department. For example, if this undermines rider support for Metro which make other initiatives more difficult, that's not his problem. If it draws expensive lawsuits which sap WMATA's budget, it's not his problem.

Terrible parking ideas come from Boston's "T"

Posted: 06 Jan 2011 06:33 AM PST

by David Alpert

The Washington area might have a ways to go to make suburban communities more walkable, and it might be the sport of the year to criticize WMATA, but at least we're not Boston. While WMATA is making it a priority to and wants to avoid building huge numbers of new parking spaces, the MBTA is proposing a variety of terrible parking-related ideas.

The "T" is the latest organization to consider "privatizing" parking garages. Like the other bad deals such as New Jersey Transit's, all this really does is sell future revenue for money today, creating tougher budgets for the next generation in exchange for a one-time fix. It's more of a long-term borrowing plan than a privatization plan.

Are MBTA officials concerned about the many drawbacks of other parking privatization schemes? Apparently not; the only concern cited in the article is that rates might rise, as Chicago's parking meters did. They want to privatize the lots, but keep the power to maintain rates below the actual market demand.

Dulles Metro station won't be in front of terminal: MWAA has ruled out an above-ground station adjacent to the terminal, leaving an underground station next to the terminal and an above-ground one at the parking garage farther away. Metro officials are pushing MWAA not to take the cheap option to the long-term detriment of ridership. (WTOP)

DC bag fee works, VA & MD ponder own fees: After instituting the 5¢ bag fee, 55 million bags were used in DC in 2010, an enormous drop from 2009's 270 million. (DCist, Steven Yates) ... Observing DC's success, Virginia will consider a 20 cent fee in its upcoming legislative session, while Maryland is considering a 5 cent fee. (WTOP, Gazette)

RAC opposes bag searches: The Riders' Advisory Council voted overwhelmingly to oppose WMATA's bag search program, citing a variety of concerns. (Dr. Gridlock)

Kass promoted on transportation committee: Tommy Wells has hired Jonathon Kass, Jim Graham's transportation policy guy, as staff director for the Committee on Public Works and Transportation. Kass has been a force for great policy on the committee when Graham ran it, and this bodes well for it to continue to get better under Wells.

Welcome, GOP majority: As predicted, the new GOP-controlled House stripped all Congressional delegates of their votes in the Committee of the Whole upon assuming power yesterday. (TBD) ... several other agencies.

We need someone who can commit at least 12 hours per week. Work location is flexible, though it would be necessary to come to the Wilson Building at 1350 Pennsylvania Ave for meetings.

This position would be ideal for graduate students looking for substantive experience in local transportation policy and planning.

If you are interested, please send a resume and a paragraph explaining your interest to Jonathon Kass, jkass@dccouncil.us.

You not only get to dig into important policies, you get to work with the terrific Jonathon Kass, one of DC's best and most important advocates for good transportation policy. You can assist someone who shares your goals and focus on the policy issues of transportation instead of dealing with the politics.

There are a lot of folks that think the falling ridership is due to Metro's recent accidents and a perception of poor service, to what extent might that be the cause?

1:07 CZ:
We have explored many options for advertising over the past 5-6 years — and implemented quite a few of them. The problem is a) there's just not that much revenue to be had in advertising, and b) right now the market for advertising is lousy (there's that recession again).

the space? I think the arts space would be terrific, and should get one of the two tunnels. Several of you also suggested a bike station in the past. If ODMPED wanted to link development to achieving some of DC's sustainability goals, it could ask a private institution using one tunnel to reserve space and one of the stairways for a bike station.

Mikulski wants a change: Senator Barbara Mikulski (D-MD) lambasted Metro management for safety and oversight problems at a Senate hearing yesterday. In response, Jim Graham announced that a management shake-up is coming soon. Can Mikulski next please get mad about all the seniors getting killed by cars and insist that regional DOTs do something? (Post)

Coburn "doesn't get bikes": In strongly-worded language, a blogger lambastes Senator Tom Coburn (R-OK) for his constant diatribes against spending stimulus dollars on anything that makes biking and walking safer. That wouldn't be unusual, except that blogger is Ray LaHood, US Transportation Secretary. (Fast Lane)

Not enough time for peds and drivers: DDOT added a pedestrian crossing at New York Avenue and Bladensburg Road, but the change created big traffic jams. DDOT will tweak the timing to try to improve things. (Post, Joey) Any ideas? Some WTOP commenters suggest a button-actuated signal.

How about an app for that: Scientists derived the formula for exactly how long a parallel parking space needs to be for you to fit. Drivers probably can't do the multiple square roots in their heads, though. (Telegraph)

Ticket yourself: Ruth Samuelson is on the case of a parking enforcement officer caught parking in a bike lane. (Housing Complex)

Bike into the office: New York's bikes in buildings law goes into effect today. Any building with a freight elevator has to let employees bring bikes into the building. Let's bring the law to DC too. (NY Times)

Thanks for sending over the additional material. I think it effectively summarizes the critical deal points. Neil is unfortunately out of town for the rest of the week, but I will coordinate with him once he returns. Specifically, to discuss the District's rationale on timing of this project.

In the mean time, can you please detail the next steps for getting this project in front of the committee and/or board? Outside of the District's rationale, are there any other deliverables, milestones, etc. that need to be produced in order to bring this before the board again. I assume that we are trying to get this on the agenda for November's Board meeting? Please advise.

fyi, this is the material that went out to the Board on Friday afternoon. I will be contacting Board members this week to ask them if they have follow-up questions that we can answer.

The materials sent out establish that the expected revenue stream for the transaction exceeds the current appraised value. We may receive questions about the details of the value to Metro of this deal, but I don't think these questions are the most important to address for the Board to feel comfortable acting on this.

The question that will most directly confront Board members -- in my view -- is the question of timing. Why should the Board approve this deal in this market, when in a few years the value of the land may significantly increase relative to today's value?

This timing question will, again in my view, require input from the District that Metro staff can not speak to as well as District representatives. For example, what is the policy imperative of moving forward at this time rather than in a few years? It is certainly the case that this property does not support an attractive streetscape at Florida and 9th, and eyesore properties can depress markets and slow revitalization. There may also be local economic development momentum that this project would help sustain. However, these are items that, as I said, District representatives can speak most strongly to in addressing the timing question with their Board colleagues.

I hope this information is helpful.

Best wishes,

Nat

Nat,

Thanks for the information. We appreciate it. As previously discussed, the conversation that Mr. Graham and I had was to go from a sale to a 99 year flat lease. In the worst economy in more than 50 years, as a Joint Development Deal, having terms that would allow WMATA's development partner to secure as flexible financing on an on-going basis would be the most beneficial use to all parties involved, including WMATA as a participant in annual cash flow as well as Capital Events. A 60 year base lease would reduce the value of the deal since we are using HUD financing which is a 40 year term plus a requirement that any lease have at least 10 years beyond the loan term. Thus, under a 60 year lease, we would be prohibited from re-financing the project in just 10 years from now, which is a great detriment to the project. As a compromise, we would be prepared to enter into a 75 yr + 24 year option. Would this be acceptable to you?

Steve,

Thank you for reaching out this evening. Per your request, this email serves as a recap of our discussion:

Agreed to Items:

1. Co-tenancy Agreement – John Hagner and the Developers spoke this evening and we are in agreement with the terms of the conversation that John had with Carol this afternoon. John will send over an updated Term Sheet tomorrow by noon with these changes, along with the ones below as well.
2. $100,000 Expense Credit from going to Lease from Sale – The Developer will provide further back-up for our legal bills with the days and amount of time on the bills being shown but not the confidential description of the work as this is attorney-client privilege.

Open Issues:

3. Guarantee – Developer proposes $1.5M.
4. Capital Event Participation – Developer proposes that WMATA receive 1.5% of gross proceeds; this is a change from the 20% IRR that Developer was to receive previously before WMATA would begin sharing in the proceeds.
5. Term of Lease – Developer proposes 99 year straight lease as this is what was agreed to between the Developer and Mr. Graham in order to go from a sale to a lease. Discussions to be held with Mr. Graham in the morning to finalize term.

We look forward to finalizing these few issues by noon or 1pm (ET) tomorrow.

Have a great night.

Subject: RE: Shaw-Howard/Florida Avenue Term Sheet - Recap

Nat,

Thanks for the information. We appreciate it. As previously discussed, the conversation that Mr. Graham and I had was to go from a sale to a 99 year flat lease. In the worst economy in more than 50 years, as a Joint Development Deal, having terms that would allow WMATA's development partner to secure as flexible financing on an on-going basis would be the most beneficial use to all parties involved, including WMATA as a participant in annual cash flow as well as Capital Events. A 60 year base lease would reduce the value of the deal since we are using HUD financing which is a 40 year term plus a requirement that any lease have at least 10 years beyond the loan term. Thus, under a 60 year lease, we would be prohibited from re-financing the project in just 10 years from now, which is a great detriment to the project. As a compromise, we would be prepared to enter into a 75 yr + 24 year option. Would this be acceptable to you?

Omar

Subject: Shaw-Howard/Florida Avenue Term Sheet - Recap
Importance: High

Steve,

Thank you for reaching out this evening. Per your request, this email serves as a recap of our discussion:

Agreed to Items:

1. Co-tenancy Agreement – John Hagner and the Developers spoke this evening and we are in agreement with the terms of the conversation that John had with Carol this afternoon. John will send over an updated Term Sheet tomorrow by noon with these changes, along with the ones below as well.
2. $100,000 Expense Credit from going to Lease from Sale – The Developer will provide further back-up for our legal bills with the days and amount of time on the bills being shown but not the confidential description of the work as this is attorney-client privilege.

Open Issues:

3. Guarantee – Developer proposes $1.5M.
4. Capital Event Participation – Developer proposes that WMATA receive 1.5% of gross proceeds; this is a change from the 20% IRR that Developer was to receive previously before WMATA would begin sharing in the proceeds.
5. Term of Lease – Developer proposes 99 year straight lease as this is what was agreed to between the Developer and Mr. Graham in order to go from a sale to a lease. Discussions to be held with Mr. Graham in the morning to finalize term.

We look forward to finalizing these few issues by noon or 1pm (ET) tomorrow.

Have a great night.

Nat,

As promised, attached please find the back-up documentation supporting the $100,000 in expense credit in connection with the change of the deal from a sale to a lease. Although there are other expenses that we incurred, because we agreed with only a $100k credit, we are only forwarding up to this amount. Please contact me with any questions.

Thanks.

I just spoke with Omar Karim. He will be sending over the revised Term Sheet for our review momentarily.

He told me that the $100,00 reduction in the security deposit should actually be a reduction in the Capitalized Lease Payment. Again, according to Mr. Karim, this is what Mr. Catoe and Mr. Graham and he agreed to.

The below email would seem to indicate differently. Can we confirm this issue also?

Whether it is a payment or deposit reduction, do we have the documentation of the costs that Mr. Kass is referring to?

CM Graham agrees that staff should be preparing a term sheet to be taken up by the full Board in two weeks.

He's OK with removing the provision dealing with reversion of the property since we're back to a lease arrangement.

He expects that there would be some documentation of the $100,000 costs leading to the reduction in security deposit.

Generally, he does not think it's appropriate for him to be involved in negotiating the terms.

To All:

As per direction from our Board, we are proceeding with preparing a term sheet for the lease of our property. The matter is to be taken up by the full Board in a special meeting in two weeks.

The lease will be as it was when a lease was first discussed (prior to my arrival): a capitalized payment at closing, an annual % participation in net operating income and a % participation upon various capital events (refinance, sale, etc). My understanding is that the participations had been 1.5% and 10% respectively.

By way of this e-mail, I am asking the following actions to be taken:

Omar: Please advise whether you as the developer are in agreement

Maurice: Please advise whether Bank of America CDC is in agreement

Jonathon: Please confirm that Chairman Graham is in agreement

Yohance: Please Confirm that Mr. Albert is in agreement

Roz/Malcolm: Please call Richard Harps and explain that we need the updated appraisal in hand by 10/30. Please initiate a new BAIS.

Josh/John: Please revise the term sheet to reflect the lease and discuss the co-tenancy agreement

Nat,

Thanks for the update. If you could, please provide me with a bulleted list of what milestones need to occur so the developer can begin construction. Our primary concern is that the development team begins construction ASAP, as they are at risk of losing their LIHTC financing if a percentage of the project is not completed at a date certain.

Yohance

To be followed by a more complete response later this afternoon from Roz. Before closing, we would need

A final lease agreement - this has been partially negotiated, but stalled when we went to sale approach. This would include terms related to composition of team and their strength

CCRs - I think Omar has these from us, we but don't have a response

Survey - We need this from Omar; we would have needed this to close for a sale, too.

Right of Entry agreement

Omar called. He said that the DMPED office wants to arrange a meeting to "close the gap." He will contact me on Wednesday about that and also our thoughts.

He would like to get $1 million of TIIF funds as Monty Hoffman did.

I asked him if he had discussed any city contribution to help close the gap like tax abatement, and the effective answer was "no."

I asked him if he had changed any of his assumptions since his assumptions and results, even without affordable housing, were far more negative than what it appeared he had proposed to us before. He claimed that the increased rent negotiated just before the Board presentation made it so. In short he has not changed any of his assumptions either.

I said that I would go over his numbers (I need to) and be prepared to discuss more concretely with him on Wednesday.

Omar called. He said that the DMPED office wants to arrange a meeting to "close the gap." He will contact me on Wednesday about that and also our thoughts.

He would like to get $1 million of TIIF funds as Monty Hoffman did.

I asked him if he had discussed any city contribution to help close the gap like tax abatement, and the effective answer was "no."

I asked him if he had changed any of his assumptions since his assumptions and results, even without affordable housing, were far more negative than what it appeared he had proposed to us before. He claimed that the increased rent negotiated just before the Board presentation made it so. In short he has not changed any of his assumptions either.

I said that I would go over his numbers (I need to) and be prepared to discuss more concretely with him on Wednesday.

Wonder if Omar may now be valuing the gap at $1.0M, considerably less than previously asserted.

Apart from obvious political factors, also wonder that with TIF as a form of tax related investment or abatement how long it would take the District, including City Council, to approve?

After many years of effort on the part of the District and folk at Howard University, the Office of the Deputy Mayor for Planning & Economic Development completed the exchange of the District's Bond Bread Building (2114-2146 Georgia Avenue NW) and several small parcels for property owned by Howard at Sherman and Florida Avenues ("Sherman Ave Site").

Howard is currently working with a development team to redevelop the Bond Bread site and an adjacent site which the University also owns. The current development plan is approximately 400 units of housing, 126,000 square feet of retail (which includes a full service grocery store), and parking. The grocery store is required by the District as a job generator and to provide quality shopping for area residents and others.

The District anticipates issuing a Solicitation of Offers to find a development team for the Sherman Ave Site in the new year. My office met with the community and ANC many months ago to discuss use preferences for the Sherman Ave Site. That information will be incorporated into the Solicitation.

1) Attached is a revised illustration of variations to OmarÆs most recent proforma. Among a few changes we factored for a very modest rise in affordable rents per sf that can be achieved in conjunction with lowering average affordable unit sizes and used a more precise valuation of hypothetical RE tax abatements. Please note that the differences shown for lines 1 to 3 do not directly sum up in line 4 due to the effect of combining lines 1 and 2 in a single computation.

2) At some point we may want to illustrate the effect of altering market unit sizes downward, but this illustration will require more attention to other interrelated assumptions and computations within OmarÆs model.

3) We are checking out what tax credit finance and DC OP polices may apply to varying affordable unit sizes somewhat from market units.

4) Also attached is a revised copy of WMATA Rent Valuation comparison that BSA submitted Tuesday. We have conformed the rent numbers with the executed Term Sheet and added an illustration of a scenario showing an aggressive recapture of a discounted initial rent (alternative 1). In Box 2 you can see that allowing for a 20% credit for the affordable housing land rent results in a WMATA present value that approximates the value associated with Moodie TurayÆs Dec 2007 base case cash flow.

Attached is a summary illustrating selected mods to Omar's spreadsheets premised on solving for what his calcs generate if there were no affordables. These do not include a possible credit for writing down 20% of his land rent in conjunction with 20% affordables. His current background model already reflects this deduct and much more. With some ramifications could add a land rent adjustment as an additional layer, but for immediate purposes the attached depicts possible impacts from Omar revisiting the affordables assumptions and perhaps some consideration from DC. Note that in discounting for RE tax abatement we have used a simple model mod of assuming that upwards of a 100% tax abatement for xx years is the equivalent of an effective permanent 50% reduction in RE taxes. With some more time we can reformat Omar's model to capture a period of abatement, but direction of impact should be similar.

Here I am, finally.

Attached are some examples of solving for WMATA present value assuming a 20% base rent reduction and the ability to recognize participation. We could pursue a point-by-point critique of OmarÆs most recent proforma, but since he continues to alter new aspects and push the results into increasingly negative territory we are not sure what will be gained by trying to negotiate with him off of his spread sheets, at least for the moment. FYI we did test for the simple elimination of all affordable units in his latest iteration and the results still put him more than $6.0M in the hole?? With some more time, and with confirmation from you, will dissect further.

Per the attached you will note that we are still using our valuation template from March 2008 that may not entirely reflect the signed term sheet. While I prepared this over the weekend with only partial files I am not sure that BSA received a copy of the signed term sheet indicating the final details you agreed upon regarding the $597K rent and phased escalation. If Base Rent is supposed to escalate from the beginning at 3.0% from year one then the Alternative 1 illustration is irrelevant.

Alternative 2 attempts to put some definition on participation without having to construct a financing model and net capital event proceeds. As you know the concept of participating in gross revenue above a breakpoint has WMATA precedence, although tends to be applied in place of long term base rent escalations. We have compensated for this by applying WMATAÆs participation share to only a portion of the upside escalations after recognizing for the underlying increasing WMATA Base Rent and Operating Costs. We can run more variations, juggling Base Rent, near term Base Rent Escalations and Participation. We could more aggressively increase Base Rent at some point to recapture forgone initial rent, but over the longer term would have to revert to no more than a 3.0% annual escalation. In addition we could model for capital event participation, which you would nonetheless want to include in a contract, but frankly the premium returns after getting annual cash flow of some sort would be limited unless there was another serious round of cap rate compression.

Going back to FridayÆs misstep on my part I did not know the full extent of your view until I picked up your phone message after the afternoon meeting and saw this email. Since you described yourself as being very disappointed I believe it calls for an explanation.

At the time you informed me on Thursday afternoon of the 3:00 pm meeting on Friday I immediately dropped what I was doing to focus on OmarÆs rent question. I then needed to leave the office a little after 4:00 to help prepare for a DMPED community meeting on Capitol Hill concerning the Hill East disposition that BSA is staffing. It lasted to past 10:00 pm, including some time afterwards when Omar approached me concerning Florida Ave.

I had a previously scheduled meeting on Friday through lunch in Bethesda that of course ran late. During the aforementioned time I monitored on my phone what I took to be a note from you that OmarÆs new spread sheets and been sent, which I hoped for an opportunity to print out and review in advance. I found myself having to ask someone else to print them out for me along with your follow up message before leaving for your office, and only then on route driving down did I read that you had asked in your follow up email that I get there at 2:30. I knew from our phone call that you wanted me to get there a little early, but I did not know that you expected me by 2:30 until that point. My oversight in not opening the email earlier, but the situation was compounded when I discovered that my cell phone battery had just gone dead, and I was without a charger. I was pressed for time as it was, so determined I could not stop to seek an alternative phone source.

By the time I arrived at your office, full brief case in hand, it was all very frustrating for me, and after I sensed your skepticism about my issues, and then the seriousness of your subsequently retrieved messages, I was all the more unhappy. Apart from missing the advanced meeting time, I was naturally embarrassed that I had not been able to review in the new proforma, which made me question if I had over committed from the day before. I can only say I am sorry for the circumstances and will obviously try to watch out for the conditions that led to it.

Joel (and Roz, per Joel's question below)

While from a proforma standpoint I am relatively sympathetic to Omar's situation, his treatment of numbers is very much a moving target, and one that gets progressively worse. If there is supposed to be a partnership in seeking to solve for the gap presented by the affordable housing I am not pursuaded that the developer entity has shown its full hand in helping solve for the problem (or even fully understands some aspects of it's own proforma), which may be part of why Omar says he is willing to try and arrive at a strike number above what he has illustrated for Base Rent.

We are working with Roz on some alternative WMATA cash flow recovery scenarios that Omara might be open to, predicated on WMATA being able to flex some on recognizing deferred returns and participation in speculative future upside. I am not sure what leeway you have in resetting a deal without going back to the Board, but if it can be achieved by maintaining a WMATA present value after absorbing the 20% affordables land value there is the possibilty of getting there with Omar.

After a few efforts to date, we may not get much further if the solution relies on solving for the proforma ROI issues Omar has presented. We can see if Roz can get Omar to bring something back from the District, and offer up something himself, then maybe incorporate some prescribed WMATA Base Rent and Participation numbers. My sense is that at this stage a negotations approach may work better than getting all the numbers to align in a proforma or other more technical example, respecting nonetheless the importance also to track the numbers.

Here I am, finally.

Attached are some examples of solving for WMATA present value assuming a 20% base rent reduction and the ability to recognize participation. We could pursue a point-by-point critique of OmarÆs most recent proforma, but since he continues to alter new aspects and push the results into increasingly negative territory we are not sure what will be gained by trying to negotiate with him off of his spread sheets, at least for the moment. FYI we did test for the simple elimination of all affordable units in his latest iteration and the results still put him more than $6.0M in the hole?? With some more time, and with confirmation from you, will dissect further.

Per the attached you will note that we are still using our valuation template from March 2008 that may not entirely reflect the signed term sheet. While I prepared this over the weekend with only partial files I am not sure that BSA received a copy of the signed term sheet indicating the final details you agreed upon regarding the $597K rent and phased escalation. If Base Rent is supposed to escalate from the beginning at 3.0% from year one then the Alternative 1 illustration is irrelevant.

Alternative 2 attempts to put some definition on participation without having to construct a financing model and net capital event proceeds. As you know the concept of participating in gross revenue above a breakpoint has WMATA precedence, although tends to be applied in place of long term base rent escalations. We have compensated for this by applying WMATAÆs participation share to only a portion of the upside escalations after recognizing for the underlying increasing WMATA Base Rent and Operating Costs. We can run more variations, juggling Base Rent, near term Base Rent Escalations and Participation. We could more aggressively increase Base Rent at some point to recapture forgone initial rent, but over the longer term would have to revert to no more than a 3.0% annual escalation. In addition we could model for capital event participation, which you would nonetheless want to include in a contract, but frankly the premium returns after getting annual cash flow of some sort would be limited unless there was another serious round of cap rate compression.

Going back to FridayÆs misstep on my part I did not know the full extent of your view until I picked up your phone message after the afternoon meeting and saw this email. Since you described yourself as being very disappointed I believe it calls for an explanation.

At the time you informed me on Thursday afternoon of the 3:00 pm meeting on Friday I immediately dropped what I was doing to focus on OmarÆs rent question. I then needed to leave the office a little after 4:00 to help prepare for a DMPED community meeting on Capitol Hill concerning the Hill East disposition that BSA is staffing. It lasted to past 10:00 pm, including some time afterwards when Omar approached me concerning Florida Ave.

I had a previously scheduled meeting on Friday through lunch in Bethesda that of course ran late. During the aforementioned time I monitored on my phone what I took to be a note from you that OmarÆs new spread sheets and been sent, which I hoped for an opportunity to print out and review in advance. I found myself having to ask someone else to print them out for me along with your follow up message before leaving for your office, and only then on route driving down did I read that you had asked in your follow up email that I get there at 2:30. Apart from missing the advanced meeting time, I was naturally embarrassed that I had not been able to review in the new proforma, which made me question if I had over committed from the day before. I can only say I am sorry for the circumstances and will obviously try to watch out for the conditions that led to it.

We are updating the Jazz @ Florida Avenue's pro forma to reflect WMATA staff's agreement to write-down the lease to reflect the 20% affordable housing in the project. As such, can you answer the following questions based on your previous comments to the pro forma which you highlighted on the pro forma in one of our recent mtgs;

1. Pls provide your opinion on how much per SF we could get for the market units?

2. What rate and amortization term do you think would be appropriate for the debt?

Thanks.

Also, though we had talked about doing an analysis for the Board of the effect of different levels of subsidy on value to Metro, after talking with Joel and FTA, I deferred asking BSA to do so 1) because of FTA's direction on Florida Avenue and 2) to conserve consultant $.

Patrick,

Yes, we should have it in the development agreement documents (See second attachment) but is not easy to comprehend as there are overlapping access easements for Retail, Residential and office components.

WMATA reserved areas contain the garage and platforms and WMATA maintains all duel-use roadways off Belcrest Road and md 410. Retail lease maintains Belcrest Center Road (See Exhibits under B-2 for exact limits)

I believe Roz has provided this info to MTPD and the City of Hyattsville Police. Perhaps she can provide with a hard copy and minutes with her meetings with MTPD/City Police DEPT.

Do we have a Plat or Survey of the Prince George's Plaza Station site that denotes boundaries and ownership? MTPD has requested something to backup thier jurisdiction in the event that they enforce in an area and are challenged over jurisdiction. Can we come up with something that shows what we own?

Thanks,

This is neither here nor there, a list provided by a co-worker who got married about 2 years ago- He had 189 guests, invited around 250, I think; neither he nor his wife is local

He actually had his ceremony outdoors in May next to the Tidal Basin at a small venue at the Jefferson Memorial which can be rented from the Park Service. He had NO rain contingency, but lucked out. He had to rent the chairs which he shared the cost of with the next couple that followed him..... He had his reception at the Omni Shoreham, small room and upper Terrace (I think Elissa had the big Terrace).

Hi Roz,

As you may have noticed, I did not include the clarification list with the drafts sent to Developer/DLA. I decided to just call Devorah Lewin at DLA and go over my concerns informally.

During the course of that conversation, she mentioned two things that you should be aware of:

1. Devorah said that Banneker "bought out" Metropolis. I told her that this might be an issue since WMATA approved the developer on the basis of all members of the team. She is going to check with Omar and let me know what the actual status is.

2. She said the Developer might be planning on developing a building which traverses our property and the adjacent property. I told her that this might be an issue since this was not the project that WMATA approved and may cause problems if we had to terminate the lease. She will check with Omar and let me know what the intention is.

I have been trying to catch you but you have been out of your office. I will try to pop up again later this afternoon to discuss.

Regarding the Minnesota Ave letter, I had spoken with Shiva and Art and the suggested approach was for Art to forward to the Dep Mayor an email containing not a letter but the bullet points Marc Biondi included in the paragraph that starts with the GM say "I am concerned that...." That way, we're telling him we're preparing a letter response, and we tell him what the substance of the concerns are, but we're not putting a drafted letter in front of him.

I'm hoping Art and/or Ann can get this information to the Deputy Mayor as soon as possible, but by December 1st would be good.

Regarding the meeting with the Deputy Mayor on the 7th and Florida property, I'd like to recommend that if the Dep Mayor is part of it, then Emeka should be part of it, too (in addition to Roz). Roz and Joel, can you prepare materials for Emeka, please, that succinctly summarize the issue there (essentially, higher affordable housing requirements from Graham reduce land value to Metro to the point that we may need to get Board approval both on three possible items: 1) accepting lower value than approved; 2) rebidding the property; and 3) broader affordable housing policy from Board.).

Thanks very much, and Happy Thanksgiving Day to all,

Nat

Do you think that the attached captures what Nat wants on Florida Avenue?

>>> Nat Bottigheimer 11/27/2008 10:16 AM >>>
Regarding the Minnesota Ave letter, I had spoken with Shiva and Art and the suggested approach was for Art to forward to the Dep Mayor an email containing not a letter but the bullet points Marc Biondi included in the paragraph that starts with the GM say "I am concerned that...." That way, we're telling him we're preparing a letter response, and we tell him what the substance of the concerns are, but we're not putting a drafted letter in front of him.

I'm hoping Art and/or Ann can get this information to the Deputy Mayor as soon as possible, but by December 1st would be good.

Regarding the meeting with the Deputy Mayor on the 7th and Florida property, I'd like to recommend that if the Dep Mayor is part of it, then Emeka should be part of it, too (in addition to Roz). Roz and Joel, can you prepare materials for Emeka, please, that succinctly summarize the issue there (essentially, higher affordable housing requirements from Graham reduce land value to Metro to the point that we may need to get Board approval both on three possible items: 1) accepting lower value than approved; 2) rebidding the property; and 3) broader affordable housing policy from Board.).

Thanks very much, and Happy Thanksgiving Day to all,

Nat

well, I am meeting with Josh Montague our lawyer at 1:30 tomorrow to go over documents; I don't think this is what you had in mind

Roz,

Thanks for loaning those articles to me. I appreciate you thinking of me.

I would like to stay involved in the Florida Avenue project meetings, if possible. It is a very instructive case study that encompasses so many compelling and important topics: TOD, affordable housing, the current economic crisis, revitalization, gentrification and more. I appreciate the chance to listen and learn, and I would like to be helpful to you in some way as well, if possible.

Enjoy your holiday,
Joanne

Our economic consultant has manipulated the Florida Avenue pro forma to see what is required to get both affordable housing and a value equal to or exceeding the net present value (NPV) of the next highest offeror. By adjusting certain variables within what he thinks is reason, Eric believes that we can still get the lion's share of what we were to get (except that base rent is $430k instead of $597k). What he shows is not the only way to skin the cat, but just an example that better conforms to the term sheet. (I haven't examined it in detail yet.)

Attached is Omar's latest proforma with a series of inputs marked by BSA that are either WMATA requirements and / or possible places for changes based on reasonable assumptions. Note that a required year one WMATA rent of $430,000 escalated at 3.0% gets you to

Hi Roz,

I am meeting with Carol/Bruce today at 11am. I will give you an update as soon as I am done.

Barring any major changes, I am hoping to have drafts for Mr. Karim early this afternoon.

I am also putting together a list of "clarifications" regarding treatment of the tunnel, our tax-exempt status, etc. The idea is to clear up any confusion on issues unique to WMATA (and to take these issues off of the bargaining table). Do you have anything that you think should be added to this list?

Thanks,

Hi Roz,

Following up on something we were discussing last week, I noticed that the "commercially reasonable best efforts" language proposed by Banneker is almost identical to the language used in the Greenbelt JD agreement.

Kermit is not here today, but I will try to follow up with him to see where he got this language from when he drafted the Greenbelt docs.

Thought you might find that interesting.

Regarding the Minnesota Ave letter, I had spoken with Shiva and Art and the suggested approach was for Art to forward to the Dep Mayor an email containing not a letter but the bullet points Marc Biondi included in the paragraph that starts with the GM say "I am concerned that...." That way, we're telling him we're preparing a letter response, and we tell him what the substance of the concerns are, but we're not putting a drafted letter in front of him.

I'm hoping Art and/or Ann can get this information to the Deputy Mayor as soon as possible, but by December 1st would be good.

Regarding the meeting with the Deputy Mayor on the 7th and Florida property, I'd like to recommend that if the Dep Mayor is part of it, then Emeka should be part of it, too (in addition to Roz). Roz and Joel, can you prepare materials for Emeka, please, that succinctly summarize the issue there (essentially, higher affordable housing requirements from Graham reduce land value to Metro to the point that we may need to get Board approval both on three possible items: 1) accepting lower value than approved; 2) rebidding the property; and 3) broader affordable housing policy from Board.).

Thanks very much, and Happy Thanksgiving Day to all,

Nat

Roz,

If you think I would learn key points from your meeting with Josh, I would be happy to attend. Just let me know.

I'll ask Joel about joining you at next week's meeting.

well, I am meeting with Josh Montague our lawyer at 1:30 tomorrow to go over documents; I don't think this is what you had in mind

Joel and I may be meeting with the Deputy Mayor of DC next week but you would have to ask Joel about that one that's all for the moment but I hear your message and will remember (I hope) to include you

Roz,

Thanks for loaning those articles to me. I appreciate you thinking of me.

I would like to stay involved in the Florida Avenue project meetings, if possible. It is a very instructive case study that encompasses so many compelling and important topics: TOD, affordable housing, the current economic crisis, revitalization, gentrification and more. I appreciate the chance to listen and learn, and I would like to be helpful to you in some way as well, if possible.

Enjoy your holiday,
Joanne

Our economic consultant has manipulated the Florida Avenue pro forma to see what is required to get both affordable housing and a value equal to or exceeding the net present value (NPV) of the next highest offeror. By adjusting certain variables within what he thinks is reason, Eric believes that we can still get the lion's share of what we were to get (except that base rent is $430k instead of $597k). What he shows is not the only way to skin the cat, but just an example that better conforms to the term sheet. (I haven't examined it in detail yet.)

Attached is Omar's latest proforma with a series of inputs marked by BSA that are either WMATA requirements and / or possible places for changes based on reasonable assumptions. Note that a required year one WMATA rent of $430,000 escalated at 3.0% gets you to approximately the next highest proposal NPV, including adjusting the next highest proposal to assume a 2009 contract start date (deferred option payment from 2008 in earlier modeling).

Thanks.

yes, we did get a response from FTA
essentially we cannot reduce the rent to that below the next highest offer, irrespective of whether it included affordable housing while this can allow for some reduction in rent, it cannot achieve the targets you were looking for however, our consultant thinks that by reasonably changing some pro forma assumptions we can reach a midpoint that can serve us both otherwise, other subsidy would be required if you would like to get together to discuss this, say next Tuedsday, I can try to arrange

Attached is Omar's latest proforma with a series of inputs marked by BSA that are either WMATA requirements and / or possible places for changes based on reasonable assumptions. Note that a required year one WMATA rent of $430,000 escalated at 3.0% gets you to approximately the next highest proposal NPV, including adjusting the next highest proposal to assume a 2009 contract start date (deferred option payment from 2008 in earlier modeling).

Our economic consultant has manipulated the Florida Avenue pro forma to see what is required to get both affordable housing and a value equal to or exceeding the net present value (NPV) of the next highest offeror. By adjusting certain variables within what he thinks is reason, Eric believes that we can still get the lion's share of what we were to get (except that base rent is $430k instead of $597k). What he shows is not the only way to skin the cat, but just an example that better conforms to the term sheet. (I haven't examined it in detail yet.)

Hi Rosalyn,

The Board minutes approving the Florida Avenue Developer state, "staff will provide documentation to the Board that clarifies the roles and responsibilities of the members of the development team."

Did we ever do this? What was the Board's intention in requesting this clarification?

As you will see on the Developer's blackline of the JDA/Lease, the Developer has removed all references to both District Development and Metropolis.

I am hoping to include this issue in my "material change" research.

Thanks,

Hi Rosalyn,

A couple of updates in reference to this Florida Avenue project:

1. Omar/DLA emailed their blackline comments to the JDA / Lease. I will forward to you.

2. In reference to #1 below, it is a bit of a gray area (of course!). At its heart, this is a business issue. But the legal side of this issue could be important procedurally and as negotiation leverage. I am putting together a memo that analyzes WMATA policy, FTA policy, and similar case law as to when an offer is so "materially changed" that it would require resolicitation. I will let you know what I find.

I received your e-mail. Wed. a.m. about 10 would be good to get together. I have an 11 a.m. Joel just forwarded me a voice mail from FTA, to whom we asked a question about how far one could write down land per FTA policy, if any. This gist of the message:
1. Consult your attorney to see if we can accept a changed offer reflecting affordable housing without resoliciting.
2. If we can accept a changed offer, the present value cannot be lower than that of the next highest bidder, notwithstanding that that developer had no affordable housing.
3. If we decide to resolicit, we would have to get a new appraisal which aoppraisal could take into account an affordable housing requirement.

Obviously point 2 constrains any analysis that you might be doing. I will need to discuss it with Joel.

Subject: Affordable Housing- value issues

Brian, Joel and I believe that these are the questions to consider. Thanks for meeting with us earlier this week.

Affordable Housing Issues for Consideration

The Florida Avenue joint developer (Banneker) is essentially asking WMATA to write down the cost of affordable housing by reducing rent as greatly as possible, including rent from market rate housing and retail, based on a residual land value analysis. The residual land value analysis takes into account income from rents , etc., expenses, assumptions on reasonable investment costs and returns and assesses what is left over to pay a ground lease. WMATA would like a reading from FTA as to what would be acceptable.

- Is it acceptable to write the cost of housing down beyond the land value (and resultant rent) assigned to the affordable housing?

In the past our appraisers have deemed affordable housing (as defined by each local jurisdiction) to have 0 percent or a somewhat higher percentage of market land value (depending on the level of affodablity). FTA has accepted these appraisals. Further, these appraisals were based on legislative requirements of local jurisdictions which have ranged from 8% to 15% affordable of total housing units constructed. In the case of the District of Columbia, there is presently no legislative or regulatory requirement; however, in going through a process of getting Planned Unit Development approvals for higher density, it is likely that the developer would be required to have a percentage of affordable housing as a condition of approval.

- If it is acceptable, what should the parameters be?

It is understood that the value could not dip below appraised value, but is there another benchmark above that?

When we were walking out of the meeting last week, Omar informed me that he had entered into an agreement to purchase some of the land behind our property. He said that he would close on it simultaneously with our closing.

How does this affect any potential agreement with us? What if he has units that are partially on our land and partially on the land behind us?

Roz

Per my phone message, as we progressed to sensitivity test the Jazz model we discovered what may be a pretty serious flaw in the IRR computations.
It appears the developer is not including all of the interim net cash flow as part of the 17% return on equity. The attached PDFs summarize what happens if the IRR comps are corrected to reflect a 17% IRR, plus what happens to the returns if some of WMATA's deal structure is restored.

Let's discuss. Might be helpful in the interim if you sent something like the following to the developer:

In working through the provided proforma we discovered what we think are some computation problems regarding the IRR:

1) It appears that the Net Cash Flow to Equity may not be propertly recognized for years 2013 to 2016.

2) Related to the above, if the total preferred return to equity is 17%, as indicated on the Summary page, realizing an actuall IRR of 20.16% is excessive.

3) There seems to be no account for five years of paid down principal in the debt payment schedule.

While addressing these needed corrections we would ask that you also to conform the spreadsheets with the summary PDF pages presented to us earlier, in particular using a $1.20 psf rent for the affordables, the annual WMATA lease payment and the prior project construction costs.

Thanks for Omar's spreadsheet. A quick review suggests should be fairly easy to work with. For now I will plan on a telephone call with you Monday pm or Tuesday am.

Ms. Doggett,

As promised at today's meeting, we attach for your review a copy of the budget and pro forma showing the affordable unit inclusion in the project and the impact thereof. For your convenience, I have highlighted in yellow cells on the Summary page which by changing them will show you the impact that the change will have on the entire pro forma. Please call or email me should you, Bolan or anyone else have questions. We look forward to discussing this with you next Thursday and hopefully getting to an agreement on these important terms in the coming weeks.

Thank you for all of your work in bringing this project along.

My sincerest thanks.

Eric, thank you for the analysis which Joel and I used in speaking with Omar Karim of Banneker.

We have concluded, and Nat agrees with us, that reducing the rent beyond land value for "affordable" units is really a Board policy matter and that we should show implications of writedowns at various percentages of affordability (maybe only 10% or 20%) at different income levels maybe 30, 50, 60, 80 % AMI.

I asked Omar to send us his model, and he agreed. I would like to get together with you, go over his base development assumptions and see if we agree and then have you do some sensitivity analysis. We have scheduled a meeting with Omar for Thursday at 11 a.m.

It appears that some of our Board may think that WMATA should write down the entire gap. We would like to have the Board take up this issue (as to what their policy would be) in December.

Assuming Omar sends his model (and it is usable) by tomorrow, would you have time Monday afternoon or Tuesday morning to get together? Maybe we can do it by phone. I'd have to wait to see what he sends.

Re: Florida Ave revised proposal

Three summary comments per yesterday's discussion:

1) Do not see why developer should get a LEEDS related credit when overall project cost is the same per square foot between the two presented scenarios.

2) Obviously the recently submitted developer comparisons do not permit easy comparison to the proforma data relied upon as part of the initial developer designation. Without clarification of many changed items it would not seem there is a basis provided to change the deal structure, at least as it relates to the assumptions presented at the time of the preliminary award.

3) Focusing on the 20% affordable housing component alone, we make the following observations:

a) The developer's willingness to increase the ground rent structure by $97,000 earlier in 2008 suggests, at least at some level, that they valued the cost of providing 10 affordables at approximately 60% AMI in the range of $10,000 per unit per year. Employing a 6.0% cap rate would value the waived affordable subsidy in the range of $165,000 per unit, no out of line with what an independent analysis would likely substantiate.

b) Unfortunately the above ratios cannot be applied as a constant when increasing the percentage of affordables, since at 20% vs. 10% there are fewer market units per affordable to help offset the extra costs. The simple math on this suggests that if there are 11.11% fewer market units to be built relative to the number of affordables there is an additional proportional developer cost needed to offset the extra affordable on the order of $11,250 per unit ($10,000 x 9/8).

c) The drop of proforma affordables rent from $1.50 to $1.20 per FAR appears to pretty much conform with going from a 60% AMI income to a 50% AMI, assuming the affordable units' apt sizes average 95% of the market units (per DC standard requirements). This 20% drop in rents, other things being constant, would increase the relative cost of the affordables to the developer by 20%, or $13,500 per unit compared with the initial $10,000 cost per unit ($11,250 x (($1.50-$1.20)/$1.50)).

d) Figure that if you allow for a discount for the 29 affordables totaling $391,500 ($13,500 x 29 units), you will gross up the overall rent structure to include the additional 43,338 FAR (178,752 gsf - 135,414 gsf) valued at $60 per FAR per the term sheet equaling $130,014 per year ($2,600,280 x .5.0%), or a total of $727,014 ($597,000 + $130,014), then perhaps offer to discount

$391,500 as a recognized credit for the affordables, netting out at a base year ground rent of $355,514 (all else being held the same). This is probably much more than you were thinking of conceding, so you can simplify based on whatever starting point you wish.

Perhaps you can begin by simply saying, as I thought you were saying yesterday, that you will credit them 20% on the grossed up land rent, or $581,600 ($727,014 x 80%), then maybe work down to a more comprehensive number. For what it is worth, if need be we think you could fall back on the kind of basic analysis outlined above.

Roz and Sean,

Guys, your e-mails are a bit inside baseballish. Assume I know absolutely nothing about this item, which is pretty much the truth, and let's please try this again:

When do you want to take this to the PD&RE Committee? 20 November 2008?

Action or information item? I sense action.

Who owns this item? PLAN (Sean) or SAAM (Roz)?

I see that the title of MEAD 100176 is "Prince George`s Plaza Retail Lease Amendment" and that Roz is the Originator; i.e., Roz is the only person who can edit it.

What is the official title of this item; i.e., the one you want to use for the Board Agenda Review (BAR)?

The pre-brief for Nat for the 11/20/08 PD&RE Cmte meeting is on 10/21/08 at 1:00 PM. Whoever owns this item needs to bring hard copies of the BAIS and PowerPoint presentation to the pre-brief.

Thanks.

In answer to your question about MEAD 100176 and power point for PGP Marriott parking in the WMATA garage, I have done the MEAD (the BAIS is a derivative-- to use a dishononored word, now-- of the MEAD)

The attached calendar indicates that the briefings with Nat and Jack Requa are on Tuesday Oct 21 so the power point draft can be done probably on Monday the 20th-- early

I have asked Joel which committee this item would go to, I am thinking Ops and not PDRE but have asked Joel to confirm

Food for thought

Eric, is right in that he (Eric) is suggesting way more of a writedown at a rent of $355,000 than I think WMATA should cover. Other subsidies including bond financing, city tax abatements and grants, etc. shoul d be used, in my opinion, to go beyond the cost of our total writedown per unit. But Eric does show the great difference between market rents ($3/sf) and 50%AME ($1.20/sf--- if he is right on this as he says he is).

Re: Florida Ave revised proposal

Three summary comments per yesterday's discussion:

1) Do not see why developer should get a LEEDS related credit when overall project cost is the same per square foot between the two presented scenarios.

2) Obviously the recently submitted developer comparisons do not permit easy comparison to the proforma data relied upon as part of the initial developer designation. Without clarification of many changed items it would not seem there is a basis provided to change the deal structure, at least as it relates to the assumptions presented at the time of the preliminary award.

3) Focusing on the 20% affordable housing component alone, we make the following observations:

a) The developer's willingness to increase the ground rent structure by $97,000 earlier in 2008 suggests, at least at some level, that they valued the cost of providing 10 affordables at approximately 60% AMI in the range of $10,000 per unit per year. Employing a 6.0% cap rate would value the waived affordable subsidy in the range of $165,000 per unit, no out of line with what an independent analysis would likely substantiate.

b) Unfortunately the above ratios cannot be applied as a constant when increasing the percentage of affordables, since at 20% vs. 10% there are fewer market units per affordable to help offset the extra costs. The simple math on this suggests that if there are 11.11% fewer market units to be built relative to the number of affordables there is an additional proportional developer cost needed to offset the extra affordable on the order of $11,250 per unit ($10,000 x 9/8).

c) The drop of proforma affordables rent from $1.50 to $1.20 per FAR appears to pretty much conform with going from a 60% AMI income to a 50% AMI, assuming the affordable units' apt sizes average 95% of the market units (per DC standard requirements). This 20% drop in rents, other things being constant, would increase the relative cost of the affordables to the developer by 20%, or $13,500 per unit compared with the initial $10,000 cost per unit ($11,250 x (($1.50-$1.20)/$1.50)).

d) Figure that if you allow for a discount for the 29 affordables totaling $391,500 ($13,500 x 29 units), you will gross up the overall rent structure to include the additional 43,338 FAR (178,752 gsf - 135,414 gsf) valued at $60 per FAR per the term sheet equaling $130,014 per year ($2,600,280 x .5.0%), or a total of $727,014 ($597,000 + $130,014), then perhaps offer to discount $391,500 as a recognized credit for the affordables, netting out at a base year ground rent of $355,514 (all else being held the same). This is probably much more than you were thinking of conceding, so you can simplify based on whatever starting point you wish.

Perhaps you can begin by simply saying, as I thought you were saying yesterday, that you will credit them 20% on the grossed up land rent, or $581,600 ($727,014 x 80%), then maybe work down to a more comprehensive number. For what it is worth, if need be we think you could fall back on the kind of basic analysis outlined above.

Any word on when we might receive the draft JDA and Lease? One of our counsel will be out of town all next week and we would love to get the negotiations going as soon as possible.

Ms. Doggett,

As a follow-up to our meeting last Friday, attached please find an updated analysis of the impact of the LEED certification and affordable unit inclusion on the Jazz @ Florida Avenue project. In sum, based on the LEED and affordable requirements imposed on the project, to keep us in the same financial situation that we were in prior to these impositions, the following changes would have to be made:

- Project would increase from 4.5 FAR to 6.0 FAR w/ no impact to any payments to WMATA
- Affordable Units: Increase from 0% affordable units to 20% affordable at 50% AMI
- Rents: Decrease from $3/SF to $2.70/SF (market rate) and $1.20/SF (affordable units)
- LEED Certification: 2.5% of hard costs which is $959k reduction in available proceeds
- WMATA Share of Profit upon sale of Project: Decrease from 10% to 0% of potential profit
- Annual Lease Payment: Decrease from $597k/year to $205k/year
- Security Deposit: Decrease from $250k to $50k

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED WMATA-INV 012568

- Pre-Lease Payment: Decrease from $345k to $100k

We would like to schedule a follow-up meeting next week to discuss these impacts. Also, when should we expect to receive drafts of the JDA and lease?

Looking forward to speaking with you soon.

Hi Rosalyn,

The developer's attorney, Devorah Lewin, called me about extending the Term Sheet.

She asked for a one month extension. She also asked to get something in writing, though she said she would take an email confirmation.

How do we normally handle this?

Would it make sense to give them more than a one month extension in light of today's credit crisis?

Please let me know.

I have made a tentative appointment with Omar Karim to go over the pro forma material he sent us and, I am assuming but will confirm, initial comments on jda. It is contingent on your availability.

1 p.m. Oct 16. Omar is out all the following week. And I am at a conference Oct 27-30. Tentatively we would meet again on the 31st. PLEASE LET ME KNOW.

I told him by phone that he was on his own on green building issues that he should have researched and that we would "consider" a rent reduction for affordable housing only but not all the other reductions he threw in. He was not happy, of course, and said that his previous rent proposal was for 10% work force housing which would be at a higher level than the affordable housing now being contemplated by his team. I still need to check that.

I further said that "I" would recommend a month's delay-- i.e. going to the Board in January instead of December-- owing to the time it took us to get a jda out.

Subject: Florida Avenue

I have made a tentative appointment with Omar Karim to go over the pro forma material he sent us and, I am assuming but will confirm, initial comments on jda. It is contingent on your availability.

1 p.m. Oct 16. Omar is out all the following week. And I am at a conference Oct 27-30. Tentatively we would meet again on the 31st. PLEASE LET ME KNOW.

I told him by phone that he was on his own on green building issues that he should have researched and that we would "consider" a rent reduction for affordable housing only but not all the other reductions he threw in. He was not happy, of course, and said that his previous rent proposal was for 10% work force housing which would be at a higher level than the affordable housing now being contemplated by his team. I still need to check that.

I further said that "I" would recommend a month's delay-- i.e. going to the Board in January instead of December-- owing to the time it took us to get a jda out.

Subject: Fwd: Re: Florida Avenue: Draft of the JDA / Lease

Is this something we normally make official by putting in writing? We might want to take this opportunity to extend the return of the Proposal Security also.

>>> Rosalyn Doggett 10/8/2008 12:00:37 PM >>>
The JDS (solicitation) asks developers to allow 5 months for negotiation and approval of a contract. This has been informal board policy in the past (which we have used to prevent developers from extending negotiations forever). We need to talk to Omar anyway about his extensive rent reduction requests. So, I would be willing to grant an extension of a month so that we would finish negotiations by the end of November to take to the Board in January instead of December.

>>> Joshua W. Montague 10/8/2008 11:30 AM >>>
Hi Rosalyn,

I went through the Term Sheet and looked at the provisions for delay. Here is what I found:

1. Though Section 2 states that WMATA will prepare the JDA, no mention is made as to the timing.

2. The parties have 5 months after the execution of the Term Sheet to present the JDA to the BOD. No mention is made of extending this period. The only references to this time period concern 1) the Developer has the exclusive right to negotiate the JDA for these 5 months; and 2) if the JDA is not executed within said 5 months, WMATA must return the Proposal Security to the Developer (it appears that the Proposal Security must be returned whether the Term Sheet is terminated or not).

3. Section 7.8 of the Term Sheet addresses extensions due to "WMATA Delays". But, this section only allows for extending the maximum length of the Pre-stabilization period.

So, the Term Sheet does not effectively address a delay due to WMATA's tardiness in providing a draft of the JDA.

How have you handled this in the past?

Josh

Here is what I propose to send. Any comments/suggestions?

Good afternoon, Omar. Per our staff review this morning, we have the following comments/requests:

1. Parking feasibility- where will the 41 spaces go, precisely, and how will you be able to justify only 41 spaces for 153,000 gsf of residential and retail vis a vis zoning regulations and market?
2. What type of foundation system are you using to support the light gauge steel construction? The question, of course, relates to how you will span our tunnels.
3. We think that with a 20% IRR to the developer, the return on adjusted gross income from capital event refinancing proceeds should be 10% of adjusted gross proceeds. Also, exclusions from capital events should be limited to estate transfers and to inclusion of equity/debt partners where no profit to participants is involved. They should definitely not include transfers among partners.
4. From discussions with other developers and comments from time to time from our board members, we believe that a 70 year lease would be sufficient and are requesting a reduction from 99 years.
5. Please reaffirm that BACDC is still in the deal as a development/financial partner.
6. On the cost credit for your consideration of a sale vs. lease this past Sept/Oct, please provide certification that Mr. Catoe or Mr. Graham offered that adjustment. Secondly, please be aware that from what you sent us previously, we can validate at best $30,000 if you still want to include this item in a term sheet.
7. We still need a development guaranty from a third party rated at least AA.
8. Please attach an updated schedule. We will include language in our agreement, per Board request, that if a foundation to street level is not provided by a date x , the project will revert to WMATA.
9. I want to reiterate the need for the pro formas and elevations/plans and, also, itemized sources of funds for development which I did not ask for yesterday.

Items 8 and 9 are important to get ASAP because of the senior level review scheduled for Monday.

I look forward to your response.

Omar, this will confirm the message that I left with your office. Since alternative arrangements were made for appraisal review by an MAI appraiser selected by you, there does not appear to be a need for a meeting today in our opinion. I called to see if you agree that there is no need for a meeting and to follow up on the alternative arrangement. I look forward to hearing from you.

Mark,

Thanks for the update. Since we are working to get on the agenda for the Oct 8th committee meeting, could we push for meeting tomorrow? I think our analysis of and comments to the appraisal are pretty limited to two issues (comparable sales FAR and IZ deduction) and therefore, I'm hopeful that Malcolm will be able to review these with the backdrop that he's been working with the appraiser for sometime to get it to where it is today, and allow us to get this thing done tomorrow. Can we push for this?

Should Malcolm have any questions, I will be available all day to speak with him.

Thanks for the tremendous effort you and your team is putting toward getting this thing done.

Omar,

Thanks for your analysis. I've asked our appraiser, Malcolm Marshall, and Rosalyn Doggett to review your analysis in light of WMATA's appraisal and formulate a response. I received a voicemail from Yohance Fuller this morning requesting a meeting this afternoon to, hopefully, finalize Term Sheet negotiations. Unfortunately, Roz is out of the office today and Malcolm will need some time to complete his review having received your information at 6:25 p.m. yesterday. Consequently, a meeting today will not work. Upon Roz's return to the office, I will be in further touch with you to schedule the meeting.

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED WMATA-INV 012610

Cc: 'Maurice Perry'; 'Anthony Ives'; 'Tiwana Hicks'; Neil.Albert@dc.gov; Yohance S. Fuller
Subject: Comments to Appraisal of 700 and 800 blocks of Florida Avenue NW
Importance: High

Nat, Mark, Malcolm and Roz,

Below please find our thoughts on the appraisal by Harps & Harps for the WMATA-owned parcels on the 700 and 800 blocks of Florida Avenue, NW dated September 17, 2009. Based on our analysis, we would be prepared to pay WMATA a total of $2,545,000 to purchase the parcels. Our rationale is as follows:

1. WMATA parcels actually total 28,357 SF (as oppose to 28,892 SF that was listed in the appraisal and mistakenly in our pro forma sent to WMATA). Our surveyor recently completed a field survey of the sites, which resulted in the following information:

	RECORD	SURVEY
Lot 31, Square 416	15,956 sq. ft.	15,944.97 sq.ft.
Lot 44, Square 393	3,799 sq. ft.	3,784.45 sq.ft.
Lot 45, Square 45	8,621 sq. ft.	8,627.48 sq.ft.
Total sq. ft.	28,376 sq. ft.	28,356.90 sq. ft.

RECORD means information shown in the District of Columbia Surveyor's Office and SURVEY means information actually gathered by the surveyor during field surveys. Also, our surveyor performed research in the D.C. Surveyor's Office and found that Lot 0018 is no longer a valid lot. WMATA performed a subdivision on lots 0012 - 0018 to create lot 0031. The subdivision was completed on December 26, 1996.

2. Total developable FAR SF of WMATA parcels should be as follows:

15,945 SF x 3.35 FAR (developable FAR according to Eric Colbert, AIA, the appraiser's consultant) = 53,415.75 SF
8,621 SF x 3.83 FAR = 33,018.43 SF
3,799 SF x 4.11 FAR = 15,613.89 SF
Total developable SF = 102,048.08 SF

Thus, no premium should be added to this 102,048 SF because the Developer is unsure if it will be able to achieve its desired density on the adjacent parcels because the buildings that are part of the development may contribute to the 9th Street Historic District, and therefore, all, or part of the buildings may need to be kept, and therefore the Developer may not be able to demolish these buildings and as a result by not be able to build out to its desired FAR for the entire project. Moreover, if the buildings are not able to be fully demolished, the Developer will have to expend significant costs to maintain all or a portion of these structures. Thus, it is inappropriate to view the entirety of the development density generated by the WMATA sites and our sites as oppose to WMATA's stand alone sites, unless WMATA is willing to discount the price that the Developer is paying for the adjacent parcels as the price has a negative economic impact on the entire project.

3. Upon review of the comps in the appraisal, and discussion with an appraiser that we often work with for projects in this area, comps should only be used that are less than 12 months old. However, since there has been a lack of sales activity in this market, the appraiser indicated that it might use comps in the last 18 months (comps 3-6), but certainly not comps in 2006 and 2007. Thus, if comp 1 (which is almost 3 years old), comp 2 (which is 24 months old) and comp 3 (which is 20 months old) were removed from the comp chart, the average sales price is $46 per FAR before any adjustments and before taking into account that the contract on the parcel at 1912 8th Street may not go for the price that its under contract for. If we use the appraiser's adjustment of 15% per year on each parcel (0.0125% deduct per month) the comp sales would indicate an adjusted price range of $41.88 (comp 4), $36.55 (comp 5) and $38.25 (comp 6 assuming property closed w/n 12 months of contract) or average of $38.89 per FAR. Thus, none of the last three comps sold for more than $41.88 per FAR and therefore, we believe a comparable sales value would be no more than $41.88 per FAR. If you added a location bump, we could accept a price of $45 per FAR assuming we purchased the property within 12 months of approval of a purchase agreement.

4. Thus, the Unencumbered Value of the WMATA parcels would be $45 per FAR x 102,048 or $4,592,160.

5. Adjustment to Value b/c of Inclusionary Zoning. A deduct to the overall value b/c of inclusion of the IZ should be calculated by taking into account the difference b/t what market rate units would generate and what IZ units would generate. Assuming that we have 8,163 SF attributed to the IZ units (8% of total buildable SF of project), and assuming that the market units would generate $2.5 SF and the IZ units would generate $1.5 SF, this would be a delta of $1 per SF. Multiplying 8,163 x $1 per SF x 12 months per year would generate a loss of $97,956 (approx $100,000) per year in loss revenue. Capping this at a 6.5% would generate a $1.538M loss.

6. Adjustment to Value b/c of Extraordinary Costs (WMATA Easements and Tunnels): $2,300,000 (according to WMATA)

Final Value of Property Subject to IZ and WMATA Tunnels and Easements

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED

Value unencumbered: $4,592,160
Adjustments for IZ: $1,538,000
Adjustments for Extraordinary Costs: $2,300,000

Final Encumbered Value of Property: $754,160

However, the Developer would be willing to pay the following to purchase the parcels:

$1,980,000 (amount that we agreed to pay in a capitalized lease)
$350,000 (value that the EGI payments is worth)
$100,000 (Option Fee)
$115,000 (Pre-Closing payments)

TOTAL PAYMENTS TO WMATA $2,545,000.00

This offer assumes that WMATA will be willing to have our Term Sheet go to the Board in October, the Purchase Agreement go to the Board at the November meeting, and agree to a critical path schedule with all of WMATA's reviews.

We hope that we can meet tomorrow to wrap up the final terms of the Revised Term Sheet.

Thanks.

Mark,

Thanks for the update. Since we are working to get on the agenda for the Oct 8th committee meeting, could we push for meeting tomorrow? I think our analysis of and comments to the appraisal are pretty limited to two issues (comparable sales FAR and IZ deduction) and therefore, I'm hopeful that Malcolm will be able to review these with the backdrop that he's been working with the appraiser for sometime to get it to where it is today, and allow us to get this thing done tomorrow. Can we push for this?

Should Malcolm have any questions, I will be available all day to speak with him.

Thanks for the tremendous effort you and your team is putting toward getting this thing done.

Omar,

Thanks for your analysis. I've asked our appraiser, Malcolm Marshall, and Rosalyn Doggett to review your analysis in light of WMATA's appraisal and formulate a response. I received a voicemail from Yohance Fuller this morning requesting a meeting this afternoon to, hopefully, finalize Term Sheet negotiations. Unfortunately, Roz is out of the office today and Malcolm will need some time to complete his review having received your information at 6:25 p.m. yesterday. Consequently, a meeting today will not work. Upon Roz's return to the office, I will be in further touch with you to schedule the meeting.

Subject: Comments to Appraisal of 700 and 800 blocks of Florida Avenue NW
Importance: High

Nat, Mark, Malcolm and Roz,

Below please find our thoughts on the appraisal by Harps & Harps for the WMATA-owned parcels on the 700 and 800 blocks of Florida Avenue, NW dated September 17, 2009. Based on our analysis, we would be prepared to pay WMATA a total of $2,545,000 to purchase the parcels. Our rationale is as follows:

1. WMATA parcels actually total 28,357 SF (as oppose to 28,892 SF that was listed in the appraisal and mistakenly in our pro forma sent to WMATA). Our surveyor recently completed a field survey of the sites, which resulted in the following information:

	RECORD	SURVEY
Lot 31, Square 416	15,956 sq. ft.	15,944.97 sq.ft.
Lot 44, Square 393	3,799 sq. ft.	3,784.45 sq.ft.
Lot 45, Square 45	8,621 sq. ft.	8,627.48 sq.ft.
Total sq. ft.	28,376 sq. ft.	28,356.90 sq. ft.

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED WMATA-INV 012615

RECORD means information shown in the District of Columbia Surveyor's Office and SURVEY means information actually gathered by the surveyor during field surveys. Also, our surveyor performed research in the D.C. Surveyor's Office and found that Lot 0018 is no longer a valid lot. WMATA performed a subdivision on lots 0012 - 0018 to create lot 0031. The subdivision was completed on December 26, 1996.

2. Total developable FAR SF of WMATA parcels should be as follows:

   15,945 SF x 3.35 FAR (developable FAR according to Eric Colbert, AIA, the appraiser's consultant) = 53,415.75 SF
   8,621 SF x 3.83 FAR = 33,018.43 SF
   3,799 SF x 4.11 FAR = 15,613.89 SF
   Total developable SF = 102,048.08 SF

   Thus, no premium should be added to this 102,048 SF because the Developer is unsure if it will be able to achieve its desired density on the adjacent parcels because the buildings that are part of the development may contribute to the 9th Street Historic District, and therefore, all, or part of the buildings may need to be kept, and therefore the Developer may not be able to demolish these buildings and as a result by not be able to build out to its desired FAR for the entire project. Moreover, if the buildings are not able to be fully demolished, the Developer will have to expend significant costs to maintain all or a portion of these structures. Thus, it is inappropriate to view the entirety of the development density generated by the WMATA sites and our sites as oppose to WMATA's stand alone sites, unless WMATA is willing to discount the price that the Developer is paying for the adjacent parcels as the price has a negative economic impact on the entire project.

3. Upon review of the comps in the appraisal, and discussion with an appraiser that we often work with for projects in this area, comps should only be used that are less than 12 months old. However, since there has been a lack of sales activity in this market, the appraiser indicated that it might use comps in the last 18 months (comps 3-6), but certainly not comps in 2006 and 2007. Thus, if comp 1 (which is almost 3 years old), comp 2 (which is 24 months old) and comp 3 (which is 20 months old) were removed from the comp chart, the average sales price is $46 per FAR before any adjustments and before taking into account that the contract on the parcel at 1912 8th Street may not go for the price that its under contract for. If we use the appraiser's adjustment of 15% per year on each parcel (0.0125% deduct per month) the comp sales would indicate an adjusted price range of $41.88 (comp 4), $36.55 (comp 5) and $38.25 (comp 6 assuming property closed w/n 12 months of contract) or average of $38.89 per FAR. Thus, none of the last three comps sold for more than $41.88 per FAR and therefore, we believe a comparable sales value would be no more than $41.88 per FAR. If you added a location bump, we could accept a price of $45 per FAR assuming we purchased the property within 12 months of approval of a purchase agreement.

4. Thus, the Unencumbered Value of the WMATA parcels would be $45 per FAR x 102,048 or $4,592,160.

5. Adjustment to Value b/c of Inclusionary Zoning. A deduct to the overall value b/c of inclusion of the IZ should be calculated by taking into account the difference b/t what market rate units would generate and what IZ units would generate. Assuming that we have 8,163 SF attributed to the IZ units (8% of total buildable SF of project), and assuming that the market units would generate $2.5 SF and the IZ units would generate $1.5 SF, this would be a delta of $1 per SF. Multiplying 8,163 x $1 per SF x 12 months per year would generate a loss of $97,956 (approx $100,000) per year in loss revenue. Capping this at a 6.5% would generate a $1.538M loss.

6. Adjustment to Value b/c of Extraordinary Costs (WMATA Easements and Tunnels): $2,300,000 (according to WMATA)

Final Value of Property Subject to IZ and WMATA Tunnels and Easements

Value unencumbered: $4,592,160
Adjustments for IZ: $1,538,000
Adjustments for Extraordinary Costs: $2,300,000

Final Encumbered Value of Property: $754,160

However, the Developer would be willing to pay the following to purchase the parcels:

$1,980,000 (amount that we agreed to pay in a capitalized lease)
$350,000 (value that the EGI payments is worth)
$100,000 (Option Fee)
$115,000 (Pre-Closing payments)

TOTAL PAYMENTS TO WMATA $2,545,000.00

This offer assumes that WMATA will be willing to have our Term Sheet go to the Board in October, the Purchase Agreement go to the Board at the November meeting, and agree to a critical path schedule with all of WMATA's reviews.

We hope that we can meet tomorrow to wrap up the final terms of the Revised Term Sheet.

3,799 SF x 4.11 FAR = 15,613.89 SF
Total developable SF = 102,048.08 SF

Thus, no premium should be added to this 102,048 SF because the Developer is unsure if it will be able to achieve its desired density on the adjacent parcels because the buildings that are part of the development may contribute to the 9th Street Historic District, and therefore, all, or part of the buildings may need to be kept, and therefore the Developer may not be able to demolish these buildings and as a result by not be able to build out to its desired FAR for the entire project. Moreover, if the buildings are not able to be fully demolished, the Developer will have to expend significant costs to maintain all or a portion of these structures. Thus, it is inappropriate to view the entirety of the development density generated by the WMATA sites and our sites as oppose to WMATA's stand alone sites, unless WMATA is willing to discount the price that the Developer is paying for the adjacent parcels as the price has a negative economic impact on the entire project.

3. Upon review of the comps in the appraisal, and discussion with an appraiser that we often work with for projects in this area, comps should only be used that are less than 12 months old. However, since there has been a lack of sales activity in this market, the appraiser indicated that it might use comps in the last 18 months (comps 3-6), but certainly not comps in 2006 and 2007. Thus, if comp 1 (which is almost 3 years old), comp 2 (which is 24 months old) and comp 3 (which is 20 months old) were removed from the comp chart, the average sales price is $46 per FAR before any adjustments and before taking into account that the contract on the parcel at 1912 8th Street may not go for the price that its under contract for. If we use the appraiser's adjustment of 15% per year on each parcel (0.0125% deduct per month) the comp sales would indicate an adjusted price range of $41.88 (comp 4), $36.55 (comp 5) and $38.25 (comp 6 assuming property closed w/n 12 months of contract) or average of $38.89 per FAR. Thus, none of the last three comps sold for more than $41.88 per FAR and therefore, we believe a comparable sales value would be no more than $41.88 per FAR. If you added a location bump, we could accept a price of $45 per FAR assuming we purchased the property within 12 months of approval of a purchase agreement.

4. Thus, the Unencumbered Value of the WMATA parcels would be $45 per FAR x 102,048 or $4,592,160.

5. Adjustment to Value b/c of Inclusionary Zoning. A deduct to the overall value b/c of inclusion of the IZ should be calculated by taking into account the difference b/t what market rate units would generate and what IZ units would generate. Assuming that we have 8,163 SF attributed to the IZ units (8% of total buildable SF of project), and assuming that the market units would generate $2.5 SF and the IZ units would generate $1.5 SF, this would be a delta of $1 per SF. Multiplying 8,163 x $1 per SF x 12 months per year would generate a loss of $97,956 (approx $100,000) per year in loss revenue. Capping this at a 6.5% would generate a $1.538M loss.

6. Adjustment to Value b/c of Extraordinary Costs (WMATA Easements and Tunnels): $2,300,000 (according to WMATA)

Final Value of Property Subject to IZ and WMATA Tunnels and Easements

Value unencumbered: $4,592,160
Adjustments for IZ: $1,538,000
Adjustments for Extraordinary Costs: $2,300,000

Final Encumbered Value of Property: $754,160

However, the Developer would be willing to pay the following to purchase the parcels:

$1,980,000 (amount that we agreed to pay in a capitalized lease)
$350,000 (value that the EGI payments is worth)
$100,000 (Option Fee)
$115,000 (Pre-Closing payments)

TOTAL PAYMENTS TO WMATA $2,545,000.00

This offer assumes that WMATA will be willing to have our Term Sheet go to the Board in October, the Purchase Agreement go to the Board at the November meeting, and agree to a critical path schedule with all of WMATA's reviews.

We hope that we can meet tomorrow to wrap up the final terms of the Revised Term Sheet.

Thanks.

Omar

Importance: High

Malcolm,

This is confusing. We agree that the land sales comparison approach was used to derive the overall value. However, the appraisal does not provide an explanation of how the appraiser came up with the deduction b/c of IZ units. How do you explain a $500k deduct in the land value and an additional $200k? What is this $200k deduct for and how was the $500k derived? A deduct to the overall value b/c of inclusion of the IZ could be calculated two ways that we see:

1. Take into account the difference b/t what market rate units would generate and what IZ units would generate. Assuming that we have 8,163 SF attributed to the IZ units (8% of total buildable SF of project), and assuming that the market units would generate $2.5 SF and the IZ units would generate $1.5 SF, this would be a delta of $1 per SF. Multiplying 8,163 x $1 per SF x 12 months per year would generate a loss of $97,956 (approx $100,000) per year in loss revenue. Capping this at a 6.5% would generate a $1.538M loss.

2. An alternative approach would be to calculate the cost to build 8,163 SF of IZ units. If we take $254 per SF to build the project and multiply this by 8,163 SF of IZ units, this would mean that the IZ units would cost $2.073M to build. If we deduct 40% of the costs to build the units from the total costs (because the income from the IZ units could support some of the costs), this would mean that the loss on the project would be $829,000 before any return is calculated as the appraiser indicated in the appraisal. If we assume a nominal return of 15% per year return on equity (although we have previously agreed that equity/member loans in this deal would receive a 20% annual return) over a say 7 year total pre-development, construction and hold period, this would mean an additional $3M loss to the project. Thus, the total loss would be $829,000 + $3,034,000 = $3,863,000.

If we used the lesser of these values, the deduct b/c of the IZ units would be $1.538M from the Base Value versus the $700,000 that was provided in the appraisal ($500k) and subsequent email ($200k).

Please let us know the appraiser's thoughts to our analysis.

No. The appraiser used the sales comparison approach overall with a land residual technique implied only as part of footnote 11 where net income from the affordable units is considered relevant. Together the two deductions will likely be close to $700,000 ($500,000 & $200,000).

I thought that the appraiser used a comparable sales approach, as oppose to an income approach. If they did, then the income from the affordable units would not be relevant or really counted in the value. If it was, it would be about 1/3 of the income of the market units and thus, maybe the $2.4M deduct would be $1.6M deduct, but certainly there would be a larger deduct than $500k, wouldn't you agree?

I think you are double-counting deductions with the $2.400,000. I believe the appraiser made deductions for the affordable units based primarily on his estimate of reduced net income generated from the affordable units as compared with market rate units.

Malcolm,

Can you ask the appraiser how he came up with the $200,000 figure for the Extraordinary Assumption costs to build the IZ units. The appraisal read like it was a much higher cost. The $200,000 seems way low. If we have to build 8 units for example (8% of 100,000 SF), this would result in a deduct of $300,000 per unit (hard and soft costs) x 8 units or $2.4M, versus the $500,000 in land value deduction and $200,000 in additional deductions that you mentioned in your email.

Thank you in advance.

Malcolm,

We are analyzing the appraisal sent over by Harps & Harps and have 2 quick questions that we hope you can reach out to your appraiser this morning and get responses:

1. The appraiser included an Extraordinary Assumption in the appraisal in four different locations that any costs to develop the 8% IZ units, less the value of the land, would be offset by city or federal subsidies. To our knowledge, there are no city or federal subsidies for any projects that don't have a minimum of 20% affordable units (not IZ units which are at a higher AMI), and then there are no assurances that the project would even receive these subsidies. Can you ask the appraiser to what the value of the sites would be if he didn't include this Extraordinary Assumption.

2. If we have to build 20% affordable housing units on the WMATA parcels, what would the impact of the appraised value be?

We are completing a comprehensive review of the appraisal today and need this for our review which we plan on submitting to you by COB today.

Thank you in advance.

Per an email exchange with Nat earlier today -- there are only a few outstanding items to resolve to get a term sheet in draft from and more importantly get this on October's agenda. I don't see why we can't get all stakeholders at a table and get these issues finally put to bed.

Please set up a meeting this Friday, per our conversation last week. It is imperative that we get these initial deal terms finalized by COB Friday. I am available 2:30p and anytime thereafter.

Mark,

Thank you for the email with your thoughts on the basic WMATA Financial Terms. Below are our comments:

Capitalized Lease Payments
If we agree to all of the other terms, we could agree to pay the value of the capitalized lease payment of $1.98M that your appraiser put together.

Please explain why you indicated that the value of the land was absent any subsidies other than 4% tax credits. Based on our knowledge of projects that include 20% affordable housing, and as discussed with you all on several occasions, the value of the land would be zero if we had to do 20% affordable housing and then we would still need some subsidies to cover the gap. We can't think of one project in the District that includes 20% affordable housing that is paying anywhere close to what we would pay WMATA AND these projects would still need subsidies.

We would not be willing to pay WMATA any portion of any subsidies that we obtain for the project, let alone paying 80% of anything that we get. We've mentioned this many times before as we believe that no project could move forward with 20% affordable housing and pay $1.98M at closing for the land, without some public subsidies to help close the gap because of the inclusion of the affordable housing units.

Pre-Closing Payments
Okay with amounts but payments would be made quarterly.

Additional Density

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED WMATA-INV 012633

This is confusing. The portion of the alley that will be closed is 1,025 SF. About ½ will be deeded to WMATA and ½ will be deeded to us as the purchasers of the adjacent parcels that are next to the alley. Since we are building a 5 story building, this would mean 512 SF x 5 stories = 2,560 SF would be attributable to WMATA land. Based on your calculations of the value of the land, this would mean that we would pay about $16 per SF or $42,000 in additional capitalized rent at Lease execution. We could agree to this increase over the $1.98M.

Annual Operating Income Participation
We would agree to 1.5% of Effective Gross Income but would not run our Debt Service Coverage at 1.25. We've never run our DSC at 1.25 as our project couldn't be financed at this rate. We are using a 1.11 DSC because HUD allows this.

Capital Event Participation
Any equity or member loans to receive a 20% return prior to WMATA receiving its 10% of net proceeds. Member loans or equity are indistinguishable. We could agree that equity or member loans not to exceed 40% of the development costs.

Term
Initial term is 60 years with an option for the Developer to extend for another 39 years. Any annual escalation after the initial term to be at 1%, not 3%.

After yesterday's meeting, we thought that we were much closer to resolving the financial issues with you all. However, based on the terms that you sent us this afternoon, it appears that you all want to continue to raise new issues and change old ones. We cannot send over a summary of open issues until we know where we are with the ones above.

We welcome meeting with you again on Friday to try to come to some agreement on these terms.

We actually met yesterday, Yohance, and today we sent a number to Omar based on the 50% AMI, 20% affordable, and our appraised value. Omar agreed to send back to us a list of items that are still outstanding and also those items that have been agreed to. Yesterday, we identified only a few major outstanding items. The first task was to get agreement on those from a terms sheet point of view, and after that to tackle the more detailed jda issues.

Josh,

As promised, we attach for your review the following:

1. Revised JDA;
2. Redline of the JDA showing all changes from the latest version that WMATA sent us;
3. Revised Definitions/Defined Terms for the JDA
4. Redline of the Definitions/Defined Terms showing all changes from the latest version that WMATA sent us
5. Latest Elevations and Sections from Torti Gallas

Our attorney, John Hagner, provided footnotes to many of the changes in the document which should clarify why changes were made to the documents. The revised JDA addresses most, if not all, of the principal elements of the deal, including the proposed financial structure, how the adjacent parcels will be handled, etc. As discussed, we are proposing to pay the entire Base Rent for the 60-year Initial Term under a capitalized lease structure in addition to paying WMATA a % of Effective Gross Income. The balance of the issues are properly addressed in the Lease which we expect to get over to you by the end of the week if not by early next week. However, we believe that significant progress can be made with the revised JDA. Other than the JDA, Lease and Elevations and Sections, I believe this is all of the information that we promised you all except the updated pro forma which we will provide as soon as we get the updated results of the appraisal from you all. As mentioned to Nat, Marshall and Yohance, it will take a few days for us to turn the pro forma around after we receive the results of the appraisal. We have already began updating it and if we get the results today, we should be able to send you all something by Thursday or Friday at the latest.

Marshall,

Thank you for the information. When do you expect to receive a draft of the appraisal? Can you explain how the appraiser came up with the $271,000 in fixed rent with 20% affordable housing at 50% AMI. This seems very high considering for example if the market rate rent for the project is $2.50 per SF and the affordable rate rent is $1.10 per SF, the different in income that a project could generate because of the affordable units is $1.40 per SF. If we have 20 units of affordable housing (the project actually has 26, but WMATA's portion is 20 since it represents 79% of the project) and we assume that each unit is 1000 gross SF, this would give us 20,000 gross SF of affordable housing allocated to WMATA. If we then multiplied the net loss per SF ($1.40) b/c of the inclusion of the affordable units by the gross affordable SF (20,000), this would give us $28,000 net loss per month or $336,000 net loss per year due to the inclusion of the affordable units. These calculations don't even include any concessions which every new apartment project in the District is offering (2-3 months free rent, free parking, no amenity fee, etc. Please see last week's Washington Post article dated August 25, 2009 by Dina El Boghdady "Concessions Help Upscale Buildings Fill Apartments"). If the appraiser initially gave you a value of $375,000 in rent per year for a 92% market-rate and 8% IZ (at 80% AMI) project, including the 20% affordable units at 50% AMI rent would result in a much lower rent than the $271,000 that you sent us. Can you provide some detail (as requested earlier, such as discount rate used, cost of the project due to the WMATA tunnels, rent assumptions for the market and affordable units, etc.) as we are still somewhat confused as to how the appraiser came up with this new value.

Thank you in advance.

We have not as yet received a draft of the appraisal. Applying the Duke Plan 20% affordable housing requirement, base rent can be estimated at a fixed rent of $271,000 for 60 years plus 1% of gross revenue per year and 2% of the net proceeds from refinancing or sales.

If the base, fixed rent of $271,000 for 60 years is paid in a lump sum, the rent would be $4,175,000.

Nat,

Thank you for your email. I look forward to hearing from Mark. My office # is 202-393-5460 and my cell # is 301-523-1810. I am still unclear whether the appraisal includes 20% affordable housing in it or not; can you or Mark clarify this for us.

As for the affordability in the project, for more than a year, we have been working with 20% affordable housing as the requirement in the project which the DUKE Plan requires as a minimum. As you may know, tax credit guidelines require a minimum of 20% affordable housing requirement at 50% Area Median Income. Thus, if you all are changing the affordable housing requirement, or want to change the requirement (although I don't think a project can get approved by the Office of Planning w/o this 20% in the DUKE area), please advise AS SOON AS POSSIBLE as our financing would be adversely affected by this as we would automatically loose any tax credits that we were expecting.

Also, we would welcome getting together in the coming days with you and your team to hash out details of the deal. If we do this, I am confident that we can hammer out what's needed to get the Joint Development Agreement and Lease to the Board at the October meeting, as oppose to simply asking the Board to approve another Term Sheet, in which case, this would certainly further delay the project, and most certainly expose us to the risk of loosing any tax credits that we may get as the tax credit guidelines require that any project that receive tax credits be put into service within 24 months of award of such credits.

Again, thank you for reaching out. I look forward to hearing from you and Mark.

Omar-

I'm asking Mark Meister to reach out to you to address your questions about the appraisal parameters. I believe Mark is out of the office now, but he can call you first thing tomorrow morning.

I've already spoken with Mark about the 8 percent / 20 percent issue. We need to take to the Board an agreement that's based on the Duke Plan goals as you point out, but if ultimately the project has lower affordable housing requirements than that, we need to be able to reflect that in our final agreement. For these immediate purposes, we will modify the lease payments accordingly, but subject to Board approval of course and also subject to the final affordable housing requirement.

We may need to meet all together in the coming days to hash out details for an October Board committee item. I will participate in such a meeting as needed to make sure Metro provides information needed to hit the October target.

Best wishes,

Nat

Mr. Marshall,

This is very confusing. Is the $375,000 lease payment exclusive of (1) rent participation and (2) share of proceeds or is the appraiser saying that if the 1% rent participation and 2% net proceeds was included, the estimated flat lease payment would be $375,000?

Also, your email does not state that the appraisal includes the 20% affordable housing at 50% of AMI. Since zoning for the site (which is governed by the DUKE Plan) requires a minimum of 20% affordable housing, coupled with the WMATA Board requirement that 20% affordable housing be included in the project per the amendment to the Board approval of our Term Sheet back in July 2008 and subsequent meeting with Chairman Graham, please have the appraiser provide you with what a lease payment would be with this 20% affordable housing requirement and forward the results to us. We cannot begin to provide WMATA with a pro forma until we get the results of the appraisal which includes 20% affordable housing at 50% AMI. We are at a lost of why more than 90 days after WMATA stated that it needed a new appraisal to justify our lease payments that you all still do not have the results of a comprehensive appraisal in hand.

Moreover, since we are proposing to capitalize our lease payments, please also ask the appraiser what a capitalized lease payment would be under the above assumptions.

Finally, as you may know, it is 1 ½ years after we negotiated a Term Sheet with WMATA and we seem to be no closer today than where we were back in March 2008. This is extremely discouraging as we have been working in good faith to get this deal done expending more than $600,000 in legal, design and other fees to date. As a local, small, minority-owned development firm, these delays have severely increased the risk that our financing and JV partner might walk should the delays continue.

Please let us know when we might expect to receive this information.

Malcolm,

I'm not sure why the appraiser would need this information to complete his work. The zoning requirement that 20% of the units be affordable at 50% of AMI is not based on what type of gap financing a project might apply for as no project that includes affordable housing is assured that it would receive any gap financing. This 20% should simply be reflected in the value that the appraiser comes up with. If the appraiser has never appraised land that includes affordable housing like this before, then that is a different question. We would be more than happy to walk the appraiser through the process that it should use.

For our project, we have explored both 4% and 9% low income housing tax credits. Because of the lack of investors in the 4% market, we applied to DHCD for 9% credits. Several weeks ago, we were notified that our project has been sent to DHCD's underwriters for further review. As you may know, the underwriting process with DHCD can be particularly tight b/c so many projects apply for funding each year, and particularly this last year. As such, we will not know how much credits we will receive for at least several weeks at best. Our kick-off meeting with DHCD to discuss next steps, Council action, etc. is scheduled for next Wednesday.

If the appraiser would like to speak with us, we are available all day.

We look forward to hearing from you all with the results of the updated appraisal.

So we can complete the appraisal under a 20% affordable housing scenario can you please provide details on the tax credits you mentioned. 4%? 9%? Have the tax credits have been awarded, by what agency, date of agency and Council action, if known, etc. Thanks - Malcolm

Nat,

Thank you for your email. I look forward to hearing from Mark. My office.# is 202-393-5460 and my cell # is 301-523-1810. I am still unclear whether the appraisal includes 20% affordable housing in it or not; can you or Mark clarify this for us.

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED WMATA-INV 012645

As for the affordability in the project, for more than a year, we have been working with 20% affordable housing as the requirement in the project which the DUKE Plan requires as a minimum. As you may know, tax credit guidelines require a minimum of 20% affordable housing requirement at 50% Area Median Income. Thus, if you all are changing the affordable housing requirement, or want to change the requirement (although I don't think a project can get approved by the Office of Planning w/o this 20% in the DUKE area), please advise AS SOON AS POSSIBLE as our financing would be adversely affected by this as we would automatically loose any tax credits that we were expecting.

Also, we would welcome getting together in the coming days with you and your team to hash out details of the deal. If we do this, I am confident that we can hammer out what's needed to get the Joint Development Agreement and Lease to the Board at the October meeting, as oppose to simply asking the Board to approve another Term Sheet, in which case, this would certainly further delay the project, and most certainly expose us to the risk of loosing any tax credits that we may get as the tax credit guidelines require that any project that receive tax credits be put into service within 24 months of award of such credits.

Again, thank you for reaching out. I look forward to hearing from you and Mark.

Omar-

I'm asking Mark Meister to reach out to you to address your questions about the appraisal parameters. I believe Mark is out of the office now, but he can call you first thing tomorrow morning.

I've already spoken with Mark about the 8 percent / 20 percent issue. We need to take to the Board an agreement that's based on the Duke Plan goals as you point out, but if ultimately the project has lower affordable housing requirements than that, we need to be able to reflect that in our final agreement. For these immediate purposes, we will modify the lease payments accordingly, but subject to Board approval of course and also subject to the final affordable housing requirement.

We may need to meet all together in the coming days to hash out details for an October Board committee item. I will participate in such a meeting as needed to make sure Metro provides information needed to hit the October target.

Best wishes,

Nat

Mr. Marshall,

This is very confusing. Is the $375,000 lease payment exclusive of (1) rent participation and (2) share of proceeds or is the appraiser saying that if the 1% rent participation and 2% net proceeds was included, the estimated flat lease payment would be $375,000?

Also, your email does not state that the appraisal includes the 20% affordable housing at 50% of AMI. Since zoning for the site (which is governed by the DUKE Plan) requires a minimum of 20% affordable housing, coupled with the WMATA Board requirement that 20% affordable housing be included in the project per the amendment to the Board approval of our Term Sheet back in July 2008 and subsequent meeting with Chairman Graham, please have the appraiser provide you with what a lease payment would be with this 20% affordable housing requirement and forward the results to us. We cannot begin to provide WMATA with a pro forma until we get the results of the appraisal which includes 20% affordable housing at 50% AMI. We are at a lost of why more than 90 days after WMATA stated that it needed a new appraisal to justify our lease payments that you all still do not have the results of a comprehensive appraisal in hand.

Moreover, since we are proposing to capitalize our lease payments, please also ask the appraiser what a capitalized lease payment would be under the above assumptions.

Finally, as you may know, it is 1 ½ years after we negotiated a Term Sheet with WMATA and we seem to be no closer today than where we were back in March 2008. This is extremely discouraging as we have been working in good faith to get this deal done expending more than $600,000 in legal, design and other fees to date. As a local, small, minority-owned development firm, these delays have severely increased the risk that our financing and JV partner might walk should the delays continue.

Please let us know when we might expect to receive this information.

We have not as yet received a draft of the appraisal of the above property. However, based on discussions with the appraiser, the base market rental for the lease of the above property, assuming a lease structure with a fixed rental for 60 years plus rent participation equal to 1% of gross revenue per year and 2% of the net proceeds from refinancing or sales, is estimated at $375,000 per year. In his evaluation the appraiser assumed 124,000 SF of density to be used for the combined sites and made downward rental adjustments for additional costs associated with building over the WMATA tunnel and for mandatory IZ requirements.

Mark,

Thank you for the call today. As discussed, the results of the appraisal number that Marshall provided to us yesterday did not include the 20% affordable housing requirement as mandated by the DUKE Plan. You mentioned that you requested from the appraiser yesterday afternoon that they provide an updated appraisal which includes the 20% afford housing @ 50% AMI and that you plan on forwarding the results of the appraisal later today. Thank you; we look forward to receiving this information.

As soon as we receive the results, we will provide you with an elevation and sections, a new pro forma, terms of the financial structure (capitalized lease) and how the WMATA and adjacent properties which we control will be handled under one development; you should receive this information by next Thursday in anticipation of the mtv bt WMATA and BV/BACDC next Friday to begin getting to a final agreement on the final terms of the deal.

In addition, by tomorrow you will receive our full comments to the JDA. By next week, you will our full comments to the Lease.

Finally, as discussed, we are hoping to get all terms of the JDA and Lease agreed to by WMATA and BV/BACDC in the coming weeks so as to get these docs approved by the committee and Board at the October Board meeting. As discussed earlier this morning, if we don't go to the Board in October, we risk loosing our tax credits as the project has to be put into service w/n 24 months of award. Thus, any further delay would certainly put our ability to deliver this project in jeopardy.

Ms. Doggett,

Based on our conversation last week and in preparation of tomorrow's 3pm meeting, we attach for your review the latest pro forma for the Jazz @ Florida Avenue project. The pro forma reflects the following:

- 20% affordable units
- 4.5 FAR
- 94% efficiency in the retail space
- $150,000 annual lease payment
- $100,000 security deposit
- $100,000 pre-lease payments

Based on the above, the actual yield for the project yield is 8.94% although the target yield is a minimum of 17%. The return is also -$11M.

We look forward to discussing with you tomorrow.

We are updating the Jazz @ Florida Avenue's pro forma to reflect WMATA staff's agreement to write-down the lease to reflect the 20% affordable housing in the project. As such, can you answer the following questions based on your previous comments to the pro forma which you highlighted on the pro forma in one of our recent mtgs;

1. Pls provide your opinion on how much per SF we could get for the market units?

2. What rate and amortization term do you think would be appropriate for the debt?

Thanks.

Ms. Doggett,

Last week when we discussed having the follow-up meeting this Thursday, I did not have my calendar with me. As I look at it for this week, I will not be able to meet with you all on Thursday. Would it be possible for us to meet on Wednesday (anytime) or Friday (anytime after 2pm). Thank you for your understanding.

Ms. Doggett,

As promised at today's meeting, we attach for your review a copy of the budget and pro forma showing the affordable unit inclusion in the project and the impact thereof. For your convenience, I have highlighted in yellow cells on the Summary page which by changing them will show you the impact that the change will have on the entire pro forma. Please call or email me should you, Bolan or anyone else have questions. We look forward to discussing this with you next Thursday and hopefully getting to an agreement on these important terms in the coming weeks.

Thank you for all of your work in bringing this project along.

My sincerest thanks.

Ms. Doggett,

As a follow-up to our meeting last Friday, attached please find an updated analysis of the impact of the LEED certification and affordable unit inclusion on the Jazz @ Florida Avenue project. In sum, based on the LEED and affordable requirements imposed on the project, to keep us in the same financial situation that we were in prior to these impositions, the following changes would have to be made:

- Project would increase from 4.5 FAR to 6.0 FAR w/ no impact to any payments to WMATA
- Affordable Units: Increase from 0% affordable units to 20% affordable at 50% AMI
- Rents: Decrease from $3/SF to $2.70/SF (market rate) and $1.20/SF (affordable units)
- LEED Certification: 2.5% of hard costs which is $959k reduction in available proceeds
- WMATA Share of Profit upon sale of Project: Decrease from 10% to 0% of potential profit
- Annual Lease Payment: Decrease from $597k/year to $205k/year
- Security Deposit: Decrease from $250k to $50k
- Pre-Lease Payment: Decrease from $345k to $100k

We would like to schedule a follow-up meeting next week to discuss these impacts. Also, when should we expect to receive drafts of the JDA and lease?

Looking forward to speaking with you soon.

Rosalyn,

We have executed the Term Sheet and will bring an original to the meeting along with the $100k Option Fee. Just wanted to make sure we put it on the Agenda to get the signed doc and fee to you all.

As for the ROE Permit, can you resend the document that you sent earlier in MS Word format. We don't have Word Perfect on our systems. Also, does the document reflect our comments sent over a few weeks ago? Not sure if you got them. We believe you may have still been out of town. Finally, would we be receiving a draft of the JDA and Lease tomorrow?

Thanks.

Omar, this agenda looks fine. We have expected that you will be providing the executed Term Sheet and Option Fee tomorrow rather than discussing them! So, I hope that we are in agreement on that item.
Also, I have attached a draft Right of Entry Permit with information for the Florida Avenue site, as well as recent "boilerplate" modifications, incorporated – for your review prior to tomorrow's meeting. Of course, we could not execute this agreement prior to receiving the executed term sheet and the option fee.

Thanks, Marc
I do have an original Lakritz LOC- now in our safe.
I also have a Lakritz disc (but no disc for the other proposals).
I have large site plans for each proposal.

This afternoon, I received the Fed Ex original of the LOC for Banneker et al. It must be drawn at BOA in Scranton. I am going to call and ask for a revised letter with a local address but will wait until you take a look to see if any other deficiencies.

>>> Marc E. Biondi 10/11/2007 4:21 PM >>>
Ros,

I have gone through the LaKritz / Adler proposal and I do not find any fatal omissions.

Technical Proposal:

The Proposal does not include a name for the entity the Developer proposes to use for the project.

I do not have in my copy, either the disk or full color (2' x 3') visual per section G. ... But I assume you do, and I do not need them, if you have them.

Economic Proposal:

NOTE: The proposal is incorrectly bound and reads back-to-front... thanks for the copy, though, that helps.

All submissions are made except, again, no disk accompanied my copy, which should include the complete financial models.

As we discussed the letter of credit appears to be a copy and the only requirement not yet met.

I have a 4:30 this afternoon and will address the other two submissions on Monday Morning.

NOTE: The proposal is incorrectly bound and reads back-to-front... thanks for the copy, though, that helps.

All submissions are made except, again, no disk accompanied my copy, which should include the complete financial models.

As we discussed the letter of credit appears to be a copy and the only requirement not yet met.

I have a 4:30 this afternoon and will address the other two submissions on Monday Morning.

Banneker Ventures Questioned on Development Process

13 comments Posted by Shaun on 3/19/2010 06:37:00 PM
Labels: Banneker Ventures, Florida Ave., Mayor Adrian Fenty, Silver Spring, WMATA

Pressure on Mayor Adrian Fenty heated up today as questions increased about the Mayor's developer selection process amid news that WMATA may be backing away from Banneker Ventures as a development partner. Banneker has been awarded numerous projects worth tens of millions of dollars by the Mayor's office despite its perceived lack of development experience.

Today, the WMATA board removed the Banneker project "The Jazz @ Florida Avenue" at 8th and Florida Avenue from the agenda for the real estate committee next Thursday, at which time it would have taken-up a joint development agreement for the WMATA-owned property. Today's move comes after WMATA issued a 120-day extension on the agreement in September 2009. Banneker was chosen for the project in June of 2008, but has not yet started work on the site. More than a year later it announced it would partner with Bank of America and had petitioned for government funds, advances that were to have moved the project forward. The developer had already been pledged a $7m TIF grant from the District.

The move by WMATA likely comes in response to questions raised first by this publication about justification for awarding so many projects to a team with so little apparent experience, then by the CityPaper and Washington Post about the how the relationship between Banneker's founder and D.C. Mayor Adrian Fenty may have affected the selection process. The two men attended Howard University and were in the same fraternity.

In addition to the WMATA site on Florida Avenue, the virtually unknown Banneker has been selected by the District on numerous multi-million dollar projects throughout the city, despite a large roster of construction and development firms available for such projects as private financing for construction was drying up. Banneker's luck began in late 2007 when it was selected by the District to be part of the $700 million Northwest One project. Around the same time, Banneker was named as a master planner on the monstrous Park Morton project (see DC's summary). Despite lack of movement in those two projects, or on its private projects (see more below) it was then selected for a string of projects such as the WMATA site in June of 2008, and by DC for the iconic Strand Theater in July of that year, then in October to head the $33m Deanwood Community Center project. In October of last year the District named Landex Corp, Spectrum Management and the Warrenton Group as developers of Park Morton. The Warrenton Group is run by a former Banneker member that has also had a contentious relationship with the city.

Park Morton raised eyebrows at the Mayor's development process for yet another reason; the District announced just last October that the Mayor had selected its team members for Park Morton in part because that development team said it controlled and would bring the Central Union Mission site into the development plan, increasing its scope. DCMud learned a few days later that the Missions' owners had never agreed to transfer their property to the development team, calling into question the District's selection process and the claims made by the development team to secure the project. Banneker is also being considered for its development offer at Hill East, a massive 50-acre parcel on the Anacostia River. Banneker's publicly-funded projects at the WMATA site, the Strand, Park Morton have yet to break ground.

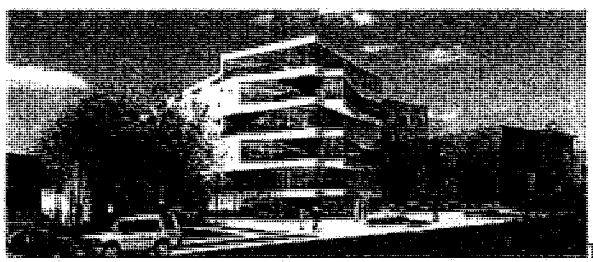
In a contentious radio interview on the Kojo Nnamdi show following the announcement, Omar Karim, founder and principal at Banneker Ventures, called out the WMATA board for further delaying review of the agreement on the RFP awarded in 2008. In the interview, Karim, who dismissed suggestions that the board had legitimate concerns, argued that WMATA continued to "move the bar" on his project for "political" reasons. The Jazz @ Florida Avenue would theoretically bring 124 apartment units above 20,000 s.f. of ground floor retail and a 61-space parking garage to 3 flea market-sporting lots.

Tom Sherwood, resident analyst at NPR, asked Karim how many contracts he had received prior to Fenty taking office, to which Sherwood ultimately answered his own question with "none." Asked specifically about his experience, Karim answered that he had solid development experience at a large firm prior to starting Banneker, but would not name the firm or elaborate on the experience. As for Banneker's experience, Karim could only cite that his firm held an office building in Silver Spring and an unspecified site in which he "has been in conversations with Safeway about developing." At the time of publication, Safeway was unable to confirm or deny these conversations.

So what about that Silver Spring office building? That would presumably be 814 Thayer Avenue. Banneker purchased the site in May of 2006, submitted plans later in the year, and in July 2007 obtained Montgomery County Planning Board approval of a preliminary plan for a 52-unit residential building, a plan that was reviewed in November of 2007. The next step would be site plan approval, but, to date, the team has not even submitted a site plan to the planning staff for certification. Banneker will need a certified plan before the group can file for any construction permits for the property, making the September 2010 ground breaking date seem, at best, optimistic.



The 5-story Thayer project, designed by Sorg & Associates, would entail construction of a 53-unit condominium, in place of National Association of the Deaf office building. Joshua Sloan, a staff reviewer at the MNCPPC, provided an update on the project, "my understanding is that they want to amend their proposal, but I have not seen anything. I suppose it is "officially still pending." Sloan and his comments are the last stop before Banneker can proceed, a process which "can take a week or a year...depending on the Applicant's response time to comments."

Banneker's website also boasts the Pattern Shop Lofts on the Waterfront, a project led by Forest City Washington that has not yet broken ground. Banneker registered with the District government as a small, minority-owned business in 2005.

Steve,

As we understand it, the Revised Term Sheet between Banneker and WMATA, which has been fully negotiated and agreed to by WMATA Staff and Banneker, has been removed from the March 25, 2010 Agenda of the Planning, Development and Real Estate Committee. Can you advise when the matter will be put back on the Agenda. I believe that at the January 28, 2010 meeting of the WMATA Board, the Board stated that the amended Term Sheet should be brought to the Board by March 31, 2010. Are you expecting that the item will be put back on Thursday's agenda or put on another agenda prior to March 31, 2010? As we discussed at our last meeting, within 60 days, HUD will be changing its guidelines to finance projects such as ours. The changes will have an adverse effect on our project if we do not finalize our deal (vis-à-vis the amended Term Sheet) with WMATA in the coming days. Our lender has advised us that if we don't file our pre-application with HUD by the end of April/early May, the new guidelines will go into effect and therefore, we will need several million more dollars in equity to finance this project, making this project difficult to do given the amount of money we are paying WMATA for the capitalized lease. As you recall, we have already lost $6M in low income housing tax credits that we were awarded last year because the term sheet/lease wasn't approved by WMATA's Board prior to December 31, 2009. In reviewing this project's timeline this morning, we noticed that it has been more than 2 years (Feb 28, 2008 to be exact), since we were first advised by WMATA that it had selected the Banneker-lead team to develop the Florida Avenue sites. Any further delays by WMATA's Board to approve the financial terms of the deal will greatly harm the deal.

Thank you in advance for attention to this matter.

Steve,

As discussed with you and Roz earlier today, attached please find some more information on our firm including our firm's capability statement.

Additionally, answers to the two questions that were raised during your briefing with Mr. Graham yesterday are below:

1. Banneker removed the 2 adjacent parcels b/c of legal issues raised by WAMTA's General Counsel about a co-tenancy agreement that would have to be executed as part of the project. In removing the parcels, the Developer is now able to pay WMATA more money as part of the capitalized lease payment because more of its cash was freed up.
2. Banneker and Metropolis agreed that Metropolis would leave the partnership because Metropolis' principal became ill with brain cancer, which ultimately led to the company closing down. Banc of America CDC will be replaced because Mr. Graham wanted us to change our deal from a sale to a lease. Unfortunately, BoA was comfortable with a sale but not with a lease. Mr. Graham and I agreed that we would replace BoA at a suitable time and with a suitable replacement partner because of the change that Mr. Graham wanted.

I hope that this information is helpful.

As you recall, we have already lost $6M in low income housing tax credits that we were awarded last year because the term sheet/lease wasn't approved by WMATA's Board prior to December 31, 2009. In reviewing this project's timeline this morning, we noticed that it has been more than 2 years (Feb 28, 2008 to be exact), since we were first advised by WMATA that it had selected the Banneker-lead team to develop the Florida Avenue sites. Any further delays by WMATA's Board to approve the financial terms of the deal will greatly harm the deal.

Thank you in advance for attention to this matter.

Steve,

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED

As discussed with you and Roz earlier today, attached please find some more information on our firm including our firm's capability statement.

Additionally, answers to the two questions that were raised during your briefing with Mr. Graham yesterday are below:

1. Banneker removed the 2 adjacent parcels b/c of legal issues raised by WAMTA's General Counsel about a co-tenancy agreement that would have to be executed as part of the project. In removing the parcels, the Developer is now able to pay WMATA more money as part of the capitalized lease payment because more of its cash was freed up.
2. Banneker and Metropolis agreed that Metropolis would leave the partnership because Metropolis' principal became ill with brain cancer, which ultimately led to the company closing down. Banc of America CDC will be replaced because Mr. Graham wanted us to change our deal from a sale to a lease. Unfortunately, BoA was comfortable with a sale but not with a lease. Mr. Graham and I agreed that we would replace BoA at a suitable time and with a suitable replacement partner because of the change that Mr. Graham wanted.

I hope that this information is helpful.

Banneker Ventures Questioned on Development Process

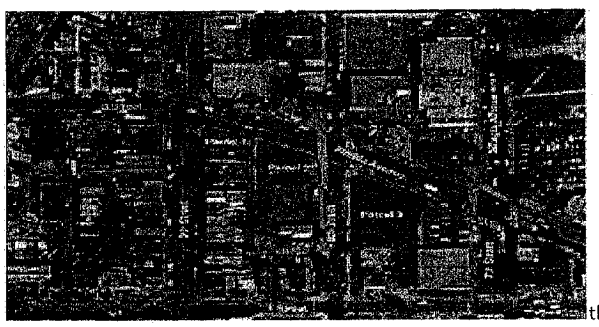
Labels: Banneker Ventures, Florida Ave., Mayor Adrian Fenty, Silver Spring, WMATA

Pressure on Mayor Adrian Fenty heated up today as questions increased about the Mayor's developer selection process amid news that WMATA may be backing away from Banneker Ventures as a development partner. Banneker has been awarded numerous projects worth tens of millions of dollars by the Mayor's office despite its perceived lack of development experience.



Today, the WMATA board removed the Banneker project "The Jazz @ Florida Avenue" at 8th and Florida Avenue from the agenda for the real estate committee next Thursday, at which time it would have taken-up a joint development agreement for the WMATA-owned property. Today's move comes after WMATA issued a 120-day extension on the agreement in September 2009. Banneker was chosen for the project in June of 2008, but has not yet started work on the site. More than a year later it announced it would partner with Bank of America and had petitioned for government funds, advances that were to have moved the project forward. The developer had already been pledged a $7m TIF grant from the District.

The move by WMATA likely comes in response to questions raised first by this publication about justification for awarding so many projects to a team with so little apparent experience, then by the CityPaper and Washington Post about the how the relationship between Banneker's founder and D.C. Mayor Adrian Fenty may have affected the selection process. The two men attended Howard University and were in the same fraternity.

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED WMATA-INV 012717

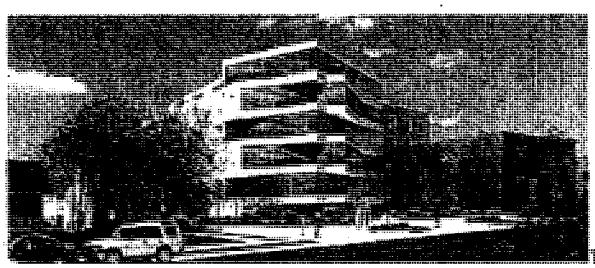
In addition to the WMATA site on Florida Avenue, the virtually unknown Banneker has been selected by the District on numerous multi-million dollar projects throughout the city, despite a large roster of construction and development firms available for such projects as private financing for construction was drying up. Banneker's luck began in late 2007 when it was selected by the District to be part of the $700 million Northwest One project. Around the same time, Banneker was named as a master planner on the monstrous Park Morton project (see DC's summary). Despite lack of movement in those two projects, or on its private projects (see more below) it was then selected for a string of projects such as the WMATA site in June of 2008, and by DC for the iconic Strand Theater in July of that year, then in October to head the $33m Deanwood Community Center project. In October of last year the District named Landex Corp, Spectrum Management and the Warrenton Group as developers of Park Morton. The Warrenton Group is run by a former Banneker member that has also had a contentious relationship with the city.

Park Morton raised eyebrows at the Mayor's development process for yet another reason; the District announced just last October that the Mayor had selected its team members for Park Morton in part because that development team said it controlled and would bring the Central Union Mission site into the development plan, increasing its scope. DCMud learned a few days later that the Missions' owners had never agreed to transfer their property to the development team, calling into question the District's selection process and the claims made by the development team to secure the project. Banneker is also being considered for its development offer at Hill East, a massive 50-acre parcel on the Anacostia River. Banneker's publicly-funded projects at the WMATA site, the Strand, Park Morton have yet to break ground.

In a contentious radio interview on the Kojo Nnamdi show following the announcement, Omar Karim, founder and principal at Banneker Ventures, called out the WMATA board for further delaying review of the agreement on the RFP awarded in 2008. In the interview, Karim, who dismissed suggestions that the board had legitimate concerns, argued that WMATA continued to "move the bar" on his project for "political" reasons. The Jazz @ Florida Avenue would theoretically bring 124 apartment units above 20,000 s.f. of ground floor retail and a 61-space parking garage to 3 flea market-sporting lots.

Tom Sherwood, resident analyst at NPR, asked Karim how many contracts he had received prior to Fenty taking office, to which Sherwood ultimately answered his own question with "none." Asked specifically about his experience, Karim answered that he had solid development experience at a large firm prior to starting Banneker, but would not name the firm or elaborate on the experience. As for Banneker's experience, Karim could only cite that his firm held an office building in Silver Spring and an unspecified site in which he "has been in conversations with Safeway about developing." At the time of publication, Safeway was unable to confirm or deny these conversations.

So what about that Silver Spring office building? That would presumably be 814 Thayer Avenue. Banneker purchased the site in May of 2006, submitted plans later in the year, and in July 2007 obtained Montgomery County Planning Board approval of a preliminary plan for a 52-unit residential building, a plan that was reviewed in November of 2007. The next step would be site plan approval, but, to date, the team has not even submitted a site plan to the planning staff for certification. Banneker will need a certified plan before the group can file for any construction permits for the property, making the September 2010 ground breaking date seem, at best, optimistic.



The 5-story Thayer project, designed by Sorg & Associates, would entail construction of a 53-unit condominium, in place of National Association of the Deaf office building. Joshua Sloan, a staff reviewer at the MNCPPC, provided an update on the project, "my understanding is that they want to amend their proposal, but I have not seen anything. I suppose it is "officially still pending." Sloan and his comments are the last stop before Banneker can proceed, a process which "can take a week or a year...depending on the Applicant's response time to comments."

Banneker's website also boasts the Pattern Shop Lofts on the Waterfront, a project led by Forest City Washington that has not yet broken ground. Banneker registered with the District government as a small, minority-owned business in 2005.

Steve,

As we understand it, the Revised Term Sheet between Banneker and WMATA, which has been fully negotiated and agreed to by WMATA Staff and Banneker, has been removed from the March 25, 2010 Agenda of the Planning, Development and Real Estate Committee. Can you advise when the matter will be put back on the Agenda. I believe that at the January 28, 2010 meeting of the WMATA Board, the Board stated that the amended Term Sheet should be brought to the Board by March 31, 2010. Are you expecting that the item will be put back on Thursday's agenda or put on another agenda prior to March 31, 2010? As we discussed at our last meeting, within 60 days, HUD will be changing its guidelines to finance projects such as ours. The changes will have an adverse effect on our project if we do not finalize our deal (vis-à-vis the amended Term Sheet) with WMATA in the coming days. Our lender has advised us that if we don't file our pre-application with HUD by the end of April/early May, the new guidelines will go into effect and therefore, we will need several million more dollars in equity to finance this project, making this project difficult to do given the amount of money we are paying WMATA for the capitalized lease. As you recall, we have already lost $6M in low income housing tax credits that we were awarded last year because the term sheet/lease wasn't approved by WMATA's Board prior to December 31, 2009. Subject: Florida Avenue-- Board Requests

Am I asking the right questions below-- which I would send in an e-mail to you, Nat, and Carol?
Thanks for reviewing...

At the Board's Executive Session on April 24, a number of iterms were requested by the Board with respect to the Florida Avenue developer selection/term sheet process. As I understood them, they are:

1. Information on any background checks that were done on the teams, specifically money owed to the District of Columbia by an individual who is employed by Banneker Ventures.

2. Financial proposals for the projects from each proposer and, in fact, each proposal, presumably as updated during the course of requests for clarification from WMATA, in interviews and in updates from teams.

3. Financial statements for each team member, including individuals within firms.

4. The process and timing for including Metropolis as a member of the Banneker team after Donatelli dropped out.

(There was discussion of why the present value of the Banneker offer greatly exceeded the appraisal but no specific information was requested. There was also discussion of including a disclosure statement in future solicitations. Finally, there was a request for financial information on the proposal being recommended; this had been prepared but was not distributed).

On item 1 above, I have requested information from Banneker about the payment of money owed to the city and am told it will be sent today. On item 4 above, I can provide the letter requesting that Metropolis be included on the Banneker team.

However, I am seeking guidance on two issues.

Item 2. If we assemble packages on each proposal for each Board member, is there any information that should be withheld?

Item 3. The JDS requests financial statements for firms, and these were included in original proposals or supplements. Is it appropriate to ask each proposer for individuals' financial statements? I do not believe that those statements are germane to the selection process. I am also not sure under what circumstances such statements should be forwarded to Board members.

Steve,

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED

As we understand it, the Revised Term Sheet between Banneker and WMATA, which has been fully negotiated and agreed to by WMATA Staff and Banneker, has been removed from the March 25, 2010 Agenda of the Planning, Development and Real Estate Committee. Can you advise when the matter will be put back on the Agenda. I believe that at the January 28, 2010 meeting of the WMATA Board, the Board stated that the amended Term Sheet should be brought to the Board by March 31, 2010. Are you expecting that the item will be put back on Thursday's agenda or put on another agenda prior to March 31, 2010? As we discussed at our last meeting, within 60 days, HUD will be changing its guidelines to finance projects such as ours. The changes will have an adverse effect on our project if we do not finalize our deal (vis-à-vis the amended Term Sheet) with WMATA in the coming days. Our lender has advised us that if we don't file our pre-application with HUD by the end of April/early May, the new guidelines will go into effect and therefore, we will need several million more dollars in equity to finance this project, making this project difficult to do given the amount of money we are paying WMATA for the capitalized lease. As you recall, we have already lost $6M in low income housing tax credits that we were awarded last year because the term sheet/lease wasn't approved by WMATA's Board prior to December 31, 2009. In reviewing this project's timeline this morning, we noticed that it has been more than 2 years (Feb 28, 2008 to be exact), since we were first advised by WMATA that it had selected the Banneker-lead team to develop the Florida Avenue sites. Any further delays by WMATA's Board to approve the financial terms of the deal will greatly harm the deal.

Thank you in advance for attention to this matter.

Ms. Doggett,

The project is coming along great! We received our first two approvals (Preliminary and Project Plan approvals) from the Montgomery County Planning Commission this past fall (unanimous decision) and are awaiting Site Plan approval from the Commission next month. We expect to complete designs this spring, break ground in the fall and complete construction by fall of next year. Everyone in the County from County Executive Ike Leggett, County Councilwoman Valerie Ervin (Silver Spring), and others have been extremely supportive in assisting us with keeping the project on schedule from an approval standpoint. They have enjoyed working with Banneker and are happy to have our firm working with them in the County. Should you have any questions from a County standpoint, please feel free to contact the Executive at 240-777-2526 (direct #) or Councilwoman Ervin at 240-777-7960 (direct). Should you have any other questions that we could answer, we would be happy to do so.

Yes. We have our debt financing through Wachovia (for the acquisition) already in the deal (since 4/06) and more than $3.5M in equity through Fannie Mae, Four Points (formerly of West*Group) and Banneker also in the deal. We are currently in discussions with several financing sources to provide the construction loan which will be needed later in the year. Based on our conversations with these shops, they are confident that we will be able to close on these funds well in time to start construction in the fall.

Because of (1) the project's great location (2 blocks from the Silver Spring Metro Station, directly across the street from Safeway Grocery Store and 2 blocks from Whole Foods), (2) our development team's experience (Banneker, Four Points, Holland + Knight LLP, Sorg and Associates, and VIKA, Inc.), (3) boutique size (52 residential units), and (4) significant equity we already have in the deal, all of these shops believe that this project is financially viable and readily financeable.

For your WMATA site, we also have a plethora of financing sources that are interested in providing financing for the project. Victor MacFarlane, our equity partner, called me last week to express his firm's continued interest in providing the equity needed for the project as well as bringing his firm's debt partners to the project, should the debt opportunity be available.

Ms. Doggett,

Thank you for the email. We look forward to hearing from you later this week and getting you any additional information that you may need as you go about your decision making process. Since our presentation last week, we have had further conversations with a number of financial institutions that are excited about the possibility of providing the financing for the project. Upon receipt of further questions and/or requests for clarification from you, we expect to provide you with further proof of our ability to get the necessary financing for this project.

Again, we appreciate the opportunity to be considered for this joint venture development project.

Warmest regards,

Omar

Mark,

Thank you for the email with your thoughts on the basic WMATA Financial Terms. Below are our comments:

Capitalized Lease Payments
If we agree to all of the other terms, we could agree to pay the value of the capitalized lease payment of $1.98M that your appraiser put together.

Please explain why you indicated that the value of the land was absent any subsidies other than 4% tax credits. Based on our knowledge of projects that include 20% affordable housing, and as discussed with you all on several occasions, the value of the land would be zero if we had to do 20% affordable housing and then we would still need some subsidies to cover the gap. We can't think of one project in the District that includes 20% affordable housing that is paying anywhere close to what we would pay WMATA AND these projects would still need subsidies.

We would not be willing to pay WMATA any portion of any subsidies that we obtain for the project, let alone paying 80% of anything that we get. We've mentioned this many times before as we believe that no project could move forward with 20% affordable housing and pay $1.98M at closing for the land, without some public subsidies to help close the gap because of the inclusion of the affordable housing units.

Pre-Closing Payments
Okay with amounts but payments would be made quarterly.

Additional Density
This is confusing. The portion of the alley that will be closed is 1,025 SF. About ½ will be deeded to WMATA and ½ will be deeded to us as the purchasers of the adjacent parcels that are next to the alley. Since we are building a 5 story building, this would mean 512 SF x 5 stories = 2,560 SF would be attributable to WMATA land. Based on your calculations of the value of the land, this would mean that we would pay about $16 per SF or $42,000 in additional capitalized rent at Lease execution. We could agree to this increase over the $1.98M.

Annual Operating Income Participation
We would agree to 1.5% of Effective Gross Income but would not run our Debt Service Coverage at 1.25. We've never run our DSC at 1.25 as our project couldn't be financed at this rate. We are using a 1.11 DSC because HUD allows this.

Capital Event Participation
Any equity or member loans to receive a 20% return prior to WMATA receiving its 10% of net proceeds. Member loans or equity are indistinguishable. We could agree that equity or member loans not to exceed 40% of the development costs.

Term
Initial term is 60 years with an option for the Developer to extend for another 39 years. Any annual escalation after the initial term to be at 1%, not 3%.

After yesterday's meeting, we thought that we were much closer to resolving the financial issues with you all. However, based on the terms that you sent us this afternoon, it appears that you all want to continue to raise new issues and change old ones. We cannot send over a summary of open issues until we know where we are with the ones above.

We welcome meeting with you again on Friday to try to come to some agreement on these terms.

RE: Shaw-Howard/Florida Avenue Development Site

Dear Mr. Karim,

On March 25, 2010, the proposed extension of time for the Shaw-Howard/Florida Avenue Joint Development project was considered by Metro's Board of Directors. The chair of the Joint Development and Real Estate Committee moved to extend your team's exclusive negotiation period to July 30, 2010. The Board, however, voted unanimously to table the matter.

Under the Shaw-Howard/Florida Avenue Joint Development Term Sheet, your exclusive negotiation period for this project expired on March 31, 2010. At this time, Metro has no plans to revisit this matter either at the staff or Board level.

We thank you and your team for all of your efforts in promoting development in the District of Columbia.

Sincerely,

Steve,

As we understand it, the Revised Term Sheet between Banneker and WMATA, which has been fully negotiated and agreed to by WMATA Staff and Banneker, has been removed from the March 25, 2010 Agenda of the Planning, Development and Real Estate Committee. Can you advise when the matter will be put back on the Agenda. I believe that at the January 28, 2010 meeting of the WMATA Board, the Board stated that the amended Term Sheet should be brought to the Board by March 31, 2010. Are you expecting that the item will be put back on Thursday's agenda or put on another agenda prior to March 31, 2010? As we discussed at our last meeting, within 60 days, HUD will be changing its guidelines to finance projects such as ours. The changes will have an adverse effect on our project if we do not finalize our deal (vis-à-vis the amended Term Sheet) with WMATA in the coming days. Our lender has advised us that if we don't file our pre-application with HUD by the end of April/early May, the new guidelines will go into effect and therefore, we will need several million more dollars in equity to finance this project, making this project difficult to do given the amount of money we are paying WMATA for the capitalized lease. As you recall, we have already lost $6M in low income housing tax credits that we were awarded last year because the term sheet/lease wasn't approved by WMATA's Board prior to December 31, 2009. In reviewing this project's timeline this morning, we noticed that it has been more than 2 years (Feb 28, 2008 to be exact), since we were first advised by WMATA that it had selected the Banneker-lead team to develop the Florida Avenue sites. Any further delays by WMATA's Board to approve the financial terms of the deal will greatly harm the deal.

Thank you in advance for attention to this matter.

Steve,

As discussed with you and Roz earlier today, attached please find some more information on our firm including our firm's capability statement.

Additionally, answers to the two questions that were raised during your briefing with Mr. Graham yesterday are below:

1. Banneker removed the 2 adjacent parcels b/c of legal issues raised by WAMTA's General Counsel about a co-tenancy agreement that would have to be executed as part of the project. In removing the parcels, the Developer is now able to pay WMATA more money as part of the capitalized lease payment because more of its cash was freed up.
2. Banneker and Metropolis agreed that Metropolis would leave the partnership because Metropolis' principal became ill with brain cancer, which ultimately led to the company closing down. Banc of America CDC will be replaced because Mr. Graham wanted us to change our deal from a sale to a lease. Unfortunately, BoA was comfortable with a sale but not with a lease. Mr. Graham and I agreed that we would replace BoA at a suitable time and with a suitable replacement partner because of the change that Mr. Graham wanted.

I hope that this information is helpful.

Steve,

As discussed with you and Roz earlier today, attached please find some more information on our firm including our firm's capability statement.

Additionally, answers to the two questions that were raised during your briefing with Mr. Graham yesterday are below:

1. Banneker removed the 2 adjacent parcels b/c of legal issues raised by WAMTA's General Counsel about a co-tenancy agreement that would have to be executed as part of the project. In removing the parcels, the Developer is now able to pay WMATA more money as part of the capitalized lease payment because more of its cash was freed up.
2. Banneker and Metropolis agreed that Metropolis would leave the partnership because Metropolis' principal became ill with brain cancer, which ultimately led to the company closing down. Banc of America CDC will be replaced because Mr. Graham wanted us to change our deal from a sale to a lease. Unfortunately, BoA was comfortable with a sale but not with a lease. Mr. Graham and I agreed that we would replace BoA at a suitable time and with a suitable replacement partner because of the change that Mr. Graham wanted.

I hope that this information is helpful.

Omar,

We have reviewed your points below as well as the "blue line" you sent us and have the following to relate:

We will accept your comments on items 1, 2 and 4. On item 1, you are correct, in your e-mail about increasing your offer to $5.2 million indicated that you were including the value of Effective Gross Income (EGI) participation. On item 2, we have no problem with keying the deadline to lease closing. On item 4, which you newly raise, we can agree as we will value the land as if vacant in year 50 (per draft lease language) and have a 3% annual escalation per the term sheet. Just to be clear on item 4, we are talking about a total 75-year lease: a 50 year initial term and 25 year extension.

With respect to item 3, we hold to the language that we sent you and reiterate the reasoning that Josh gave you . The capital event exclusions that you had-- transfers among existing members and to wholly owned entities and transfer of interests in publicly traded entities-- could all be profitable events in which WMATA should participate. Hence, we cannot agree to excluding them. And, in a refinancing we are talking about getting only 2% of proceeds after original senior project mortgage debt, which debt according to your pro forma represents 70% of project cost. So given that we are getting no EGI, we do not think it reasonable to further water down the 2% refinancing proceeds that we participate in and cannot agree to do so.

We are available to discuss further if need be.

Roz

Attached please find our comments to the Term Sheet. All comments are consistent with our recent emails and meeting a few weeks ago. Three points of note:

1. Getting our investors to increase the capitalized lease from $2.8M to $5.2M required us to remove the EGI participation in order to made the deal work;
2. Getting to grade will be based on a certain number of days from Closing as oppose to execution of the JDA;
3. The terms that we previously negotiated on what triggers Capital Event participation (transfers, etc.) must remain the same; and
4. Since we decreased the lease from 99 years to 75 years, our investors require one option period of 25 years as oppose to several which the term sheet was unclear about.

Can we meet this week to finalize the document? We are available tomorrow after 10, Thursday after 12 and Friday except 1-2:30.

Thanks.

Omar and Tiwana,

The updated draft of the Term Sheet is attached hereto.

We have incorporated the lease execution and foundation completion dates in the second schedule that Tiwanna sent us (this shows 21, instead of 20 months as in the Nov term sheet, to get to lease closing and 7 months after that to get to foundation completion, the latter not having been addressed in the Nov term sheet).

We have eliminated exclusions from the capital events definition that seem to us to be the equivalent of profit making events in which WMATA should share, namely transfers among existing members and to wholly-owned entities and transfers of interests in publicly traded entities—all of which allow buyouts by partners, which are capital events. Given Metro's modest 2% stake in capital events, we cannot see that this is at issue.

We have clarified net capital event proceeds to exclude any payouts below the retirement of original senior mortgage debt. This again is to eliminate carve outs that further reduce Metro's limited 2% participation.

Please do not hesitate to contact me with any questions.

Subject: Followup on Florida Avenue

Good afternoon, Omar. Per our staff review this morning, we have the following comments/requests:

1. Parking feasibility- where will the 41 spaces go, precisely, and how will you be able to justify only 41 spaces for 153,000 gsf of residential and retail vis a vis zoning regulations and market?
2. What type of foundation system are you using to support the light gauge steel construction? The question, of course, relates to how you will span our tunnels.
3. We think that with a 20% IRR to the developer, the return on adjusted gross income from capital event refinancing proceeds should be 10% of adjusted gross proceeds. Also, exclusions from capital events should be limited to estate transfers and to inclusion of equity/debt partners where no profit to participants is involved. They should definitely not include transfers among partners.
4. From discussions with other developers and comments from time to time from our board members, we believe that a 70 year lease would be sufficient and are requesting a reduction from 99 years.
5. Please reaffirm that BACDC is still in the deal as a development/financial partner.
6. On the cost credit for your consideration of a sale vs. lease this past Sept/Oct, please provide certification that Mr. Catoe or Mr. Graham offered that adjustment. Secondly, please be aware that from what you sent us previously, we can validate at best $30,000 if you still want to include this item in a term sheet.
7. We still need a development guaranty from a third party rated at least AA.
8. Please attach an updated schedule. We will include language in our agreement, per Board request, that if a foundation to street level is not provided by a date x , the project will revert to WMATA.
9. I want to reiterate the need for the pro formas and elevations/plans and, also, itemized sources of funds for development which I did not ask for yesterday.

Items 8 and 9 are important to get ASAP because the project has changed.

On a happy note, congratulations on your new son. Great news!

Roz,

In response to #3 below, based on our conversation on Friday, there must be some misunderstanding re WMATA's participation in Capital Events. During the last negotiations, we agreed to accept wmata's offer of 2% participation before our investors receive a 20% IRR. However, if wmata wants a larger participation as we previously agreed, we would have to go back to the equity receiving a 20% IRR before wmata participation. Please let us know which option wmata wants to go with.

Thanks.

Subject: Followup on Florida Avenue

Good afternoon, Omar. Per our staff review this morning, we have the following comments/requests:

1. Parking feasibility- where will the 41 spaces go, precisely, and how will you be able to justify only 41 spaces for 153,000 gsf of residential and retail vis a vis zoning regulations and market?
2. What type of foundation system are you using to support the light-gauge steel construction? The question, of course, relates to how you will span our tunnels.
3. We think that with a 20% IRR to the developer, the return on adjusted gross income from capital event refinancing proceeds should be 10% of adjusted gross proceeds. Also, exclusions from capital events should be limited to estate transfers and to inclusion of equity/debt partners where no profit to participants is involved. They should definitely not include transfers among partners.
4. From discussions with other developers and comments from time to time from our board members, we believe that a 70 year lease would be sufficient and are requesting a reduction from 99 years.
5. Please reaffirm that BACDC is still in the deal as a development/financial partner.
6. On the cost credit for your consideration of a sale vs. lease this past Sept/Oct, please provide certification that Mr. Catoe or Mr. Graham offered that adjustment. Are you going to be updating the Term Sheet to reflect the current status of the project (no alley closing, new SF, lease term, etc)? If so, can you forward your draft to us so we can review prior to Roz having to send it to the GM, Board, etc.

Thanks.

Roz,

Below please find the email that we sent to Nat and Steve on November 4, 2009 detailing the expenses that we incurred as a result of the change from a lease to a sale and now back to a lease. The total expenses are $115,308.76. As agreed with Messrs. Graham and Catoe, we will reduce the amount owed to WMATA by the $100k. For ease of the transaction, we will reduce the security deposit due at execution of the JDA (originally $250k) by this amount.

The 18 mons is for zoning, wmata reviews and design time. The financing is separate from this and is included in the 6 mons from mos 19-24 where drawings are complete and we go through permitting which takes 4 mos. This is very short. Eric stated that the zoning and drawings takes 18-20 mos and the permitting, completion of the drawings and closing on our loan should take another 6 mos. This is consistent with our schedule as well. The longest times on the schedule is for wmata reviews with Tariq confirmed with us just yesterday was 30 business days for each review. If wmata agrees to shorten its review time, we could save about 2-3 mons in the schedule and close with wmata in 21 mos which would be great.

As for the reverter clause, what have you seen for getting up to ground level? If its for any reversion, we should put some cushion in the schedule. We will add 90 days to it just in case something happens, such as snow, etc. Since we are building over a tunnel, seems prudent. We will send a revised schedule showing the additional 90 days.

Subject: RE: Jazz Schedule

Omar, this schedule shows a closing on a ground lease on 8/17/12 some 24.5 months after the execution of the jda on 7/30/10. This is considerably more than the 18 months we talked about on Tuesday and the 600 days in the current term sheet for a less complicated project (we don't have to deal with the adjacent property) and seems too long to me. Can you explain why? It looks like arranging financing is what is extending the date. Can't that be done conterminously with construction reviews/permitting?

In the reverter clause, i.e., the site going back to WMATA if foundations are not finished to street level by a date certain, the date I would use in your schedule, subject to Tariq's concurrence, is item 72, garage construction/grade complete 3/1/13, 6.5 months after lease execution, which seems reasonable to me.

Per our discussion last week, Jim Hamilton is working with us to try to determine the different costs to the developer for insurance with higher limits.

We had a conference call today with AON. The AON rep wanted to know who the developer's GC will be on this project because the experience/skills of the GC will greatly determine the cost of the CGL policies. Do we know who Banneker is planning to use?

Roz,

When do you need responses for these items? As you know, bc of the birth of my child, I will be out for a few days and we will need to coordinate with the GC, our legal counsel and investor re 2, 3, 8 and 9. The balance of the responses are below:

1. The location of the spaces haven't been finalized yet as we are considering either having (a) 1 level of parking under each of the larger bldgs which we proposed in our initial submittal, or (b) use a mechanical system at level G1 of one bldg which would accommodate the 41 spaces. Based on the 153,000 sf, zoning would require 55 spaces. However, we met with OP and they expressed their interest in having us build less parking spaces for the project, even less than what zoning requires. This could be accomplished either through the BZA or Zoning Commission through a PUD, which they fully support.

4. 70 yrs is fine.

5. Yes. However, as previously discussed, bc Graham wanted us to do a lease vs a sale, he and I, and then Catoe and the staff, agreed that we would replace BACDC in the future as they were comfortable with a sale but not a lease.

6. Graham agreed to the adjustment and Catoe was fine with it. We will review what we sent you re the adjustment amount.

7. Ok. Our GC will provide a bond from an insurer of at least AA similar to what you've seen on other wmata projects.

Good afternoon, Omar. Per our staff review this morning, we have the following comments/requests:

1. Parking feasibility- where will the 41 spaces go, precisely, and how will you be able to justify only 41 spaces for 153,000 gsf of residential and retail vis a vis zoning regulations and market?
2. What type of foundation system are you using to support the light gauge steel construction? The question, of course, relates to how you will span our tunnels.
3. We think that with a 20% IRR to the developer, the return on adjusted gross income from capital event refinancing proceeds should be 10% of adjusted gross proceeds. Also, exclusions from capital events should be limited to estate transfers and to inclusion of equity/debt partners where no profit to participants is involved. They should definitely not include transfers among partners.
4. From discussions with other developers and comments from time to time from our board members, we believe that a 70 year lease would be sufficient and are requesting a reduction from 99 years.
5. Please reaffirm that BACDC is still in the deal as a development/financial partner.
6. On the cost credit for your consideration of a sale vs. lease this past Sept/Oct, please provide certification that Mr. Catoe or Mr. Graham offered that adjustment. Secondly, please be aware that from what you sent us previously, we can validate at best $30,000 if you still want to include this item in a term sheet.
7. We still need a development guaranty from a third party rated at least AA.
8. Please attach an updated schedule. We will include language in our agreement, per Board request, that if a foundation to street level is not provided by a date x , the project will revert to WMATA.
9. I want to reiterate the need for the pro formas and elevations/plans and, also, itemized sources of funds for development which I did not ask for yesterday.

Items 8 and 9 are important to get ASAP because the project has changed.

On a happy note, congratulations on your new son. Great news!

I look forward to your response.

Roz and Steve,

Thanks for the congratulations on the birth of my son earlier today. Means a lot to me. I understand that Steve will be on the Hill tomorrow and therefore won't be able to meet. As such, we were thinking that it might be more productive to reschedule the mtg for a time when he would be present. Would Mon, Tues or Wed work? If so, we will make ourselves available anytime, except 12-1 on Tues. Please let us know if this works. Thanks.

In response to your first question, by the middle of next week, let's say midday Wednesday. In fact, I have just been informed that the meeting I referred to in yesterday's e-mail was moved forward to the week of March 8. But assuming that there will be some back and forth questions, I think that it would be best to get your material midweek next week. Let me know if that presents any problems.

Roz,

When do you need responses for these items? As you know, bc of the birth of my child, I will be out for a few days and we will need to coordinate with the GC, our legal counsel and investor re 2, 3, 8 and 9. The balance of the responses are below:

1. The location of the spaces haven't been finalized yet as we are considering either having (a) 1 level of parking under each of the larger bldgs which we proposed in our initial submittal, or (b) use a mechanical system at level G1 of one bldg which would accommodate the 41 spaces. Based on the 153,000 sf, zoning would require 55 spaces. However, we met with OP and they expressed their interest in having us build less parking spaces for the project, even less than what zoning requires. This could be accomplished either through the BZA or Zoning Commission through a PUD, which they fully support.

4. 70 yrs is fine.

5. Yes. However, as previously discussed, bc Graham wanted us to do a lease vs a sale, he and I, and then Catoe and the staff, agreed that we would replace BACDC in the future as they were comfortable with a sale but not a lease.

6. Graham agreed to the adjustment and Catoe was fine with it. We will review what we sent you re the adjustment amount.

7. Ok. Our GC will provide a bond from an insurer of at least AA similar to what you've seen on other wmata projects.

Roz,

We should be able to get the remainder of the info to you by then.

Btw, how will the info be presented to the Board, specifically the financial terms, lease time, etc? If you will be putting together a document showing a summary of the initial offer as you calculated it with the updated offer, can you forward it to us prior to your sending it to the Board so we can be on the same page. As you know, we have issue with showing a NPV that wmata calculated to be our initial offer which we believe is higher than what we actually submitted as the Board will be looking at that number in comparison to the actual number that we are submitting in the capitalized lease structure.

Thanks in advance.

5. Please reaffirm that BACDC is still in the deal as a development/financial partner.
6. On the cost credit for your consideration of a sale vs. lease this past Sept/Oct, please provide certification that Mr. Catoe or Mr. Graham offered that adjustment. Secondly, please be aware that from what you sent us previously, we can validate at best $30,000 if you still want to include this item in a term sheet.
7. We still need a development guaranty from a third party rated at least AA.
8. Please attach an updated schedule. We will include language in our agreement, per Board request, that if a foundation to street level is not provided by a date x , the project will revert to WMATA.
9. I want to reiterate the need for the pro formas and elevations/plans and, also, itemized sources of funds for development which I did not ask for yesterday.

Items 8 and 9 are important to get ASAP because the project has changed.

On a happy note, congratulations on your new son. Great news!

I look forward to your response.

Here is what I propose to send. Any comments/suggestions?

Good afternoon, Omar. Per our staff review this morning, we have the following comments/requests:

1. Parking feasibility- where will the 41 spaces go, precisely, and how will you be able to justify only 41 spaces for 153,000 gsf of residential and retail vis a vis zoning regulations and market?
2. What type of foundation system are you using to support the light gauge steel construction? The question, of course, relates to how you will span our tunnels.
3. We think that with a 20% IRR to the developer, the return on adjusted gross income from capital event refinancing proceeds should be 10% of adjusted gross proceeds. Also, exclusions from capital events should be limited to estate transfers and to inclusion of equity/debt partners where no profit to participants is involved. They should definitely not include transfers among partners.
4. From discussions with other developers and comments from time to time from our board members, we believe that a 70 year lease would be sufficient and are requesting a reduction from 99 years.
5. Please reaffirm that BACDC is still in the deal as a development/financial partner.
6. On the cost credit for your consideration of a sale vs. lease this past Sept/Oct, please provide certification that Mr. Catoe or Mr. Graham offered that adjustment. 9. I want to reiterate the need for the pro formas and elevations/plans and, also, itemized sources of funds for development which I did not ask for yesterday.

Items 8 and 9 are important to get ASAP because of the senior level review scheduled for Monday.

I look forward to your response.

Thanks for forwarding. Are we meeting anytime before Friday to discuss?

The exclusion of the adjacent parcels alleviates a major legal risk from WMATA's perspective.

Here are some outstanding issues that should be discussed before the meeting with the Developer:

1. Cap Event / Participation rent payments – WMATA should review/fix the formulas for these payments as they are described in the last term sheet.

2. Indemnification – WMATA should have a coherent strategy before discussing this issue with the Developer. Indemnification was a "non-negotiable" requirement of the JDS. The Developer has previously indicated that they are obtaining financing which would limit their indemnification to "surplus cash." While the Developer will likely argue that their insurance will provide WMATA all of the protection that we need, that may not be true. There are unique risks because the Developer is building over the tunnel. A $10M policy may not cover the repair of the damage.

   Additionally, the indemnification provisions offer protections that WMATA does not get from insurance. For example, environmental liability protection, payments due under the lease, payments that Developer fails to make related to the property (ex. mechanic's liens or government violations), or damages/lawsuits that might be outside of the scope of our insurance coverage.

3. Additional Costs Credit – Are we still providing this credit? Was this ever verified with either J. Graham or J. Catoe?

4. Guaranty – Are we accepting a guaranty from Banneker? What should it cover?

5. Project schedule – At the meeting without Omar, in response to J. Graham's concerns about the Developer just sitting on the property without building (i.e., the reversion issue), John Hagner came up with an alternative route to getting this project built on time. He suggested that we attach a project schedule to the lease. If the Developer does not meet any of the project schedule milestones then it is a default of the lease. J. Hagner said he had to verify this with his client before he could officially offer this to us. This should be included in the term sheet.

Roz,

Per our call this morning, Banneker, our develop partner and investors for The Jazz @ Florida Avenue project (collectively, the "Developer") are prepared to increase our offer to WMATA as follows:

1. Make a capitalized lease payment of $5.2M at Closing. This is a 130% increase in value over WMATA's appraised value of $2.2M, and a 70% increase in value over our previous base offer of $3.03M, which includes the NPV of the capitalized lease plus the NPV of the EGI payments. This base offer is inclusive of the projected $2.8M loss in land value (as calculated by WMATA's appraiser Richard Harps) due to the 8% IZ requirement and the additional hard and soft costs incurred by the Project as a result of building over the WMATA tunnel.

2. Because of some of the concerns raised by WMATA staff, we would are prepared to move forward with developing the Project solely on the WMATA parcels (28,347 SF). We will forgo our purchase of the adjacent 9th Street parcels, thereby relieving any potential complications that would arise with the necessity of a Co-Tenancy Agreement, also allowing us to free up capital that would have been used toward purchasing those parcels, and instead use these funds to pay WMATA more funds at Closing. We will also not pursue an alley closing.

3. We will build the project at 4.5 FAR (as of right if not for the mandatory IZ rules that went into effect after our selection) plus the 20% bonus (0.9 FAR) that we would get because of the IZ units, bringing the total FAR to 5.4 FAR. The Project will consist of 153,000 GSF, with 137 residential units (with 12 IZ units), 14,000 SF and 41 parking spaces. Developer would pay WMATA an agreed upon rate of $ per FAR for any SF that it builds above the 153,000 SF.

4. The initial term of the lease will be for 50 years, with a 49 year option and resets to market value every 10 years after the initial 50 year term.

5. All other terms will remain consistent (i.e., participation in Capital Events, etc.).

A $5.2M upfront, non-contingent payment to WMATA is significantly higher than the recent appraisal completed by WMATA and close to our initial offer to WMATA in 2007, excluding the imposition of the IZ units and market conditions. Based on our analysis of our initial offer, the NPV of the offer, using reasonable interest rate assumptions, would have been about $11M, which is no where close to the $14M that WMATA staff informed us that this is what they calculated our offer to be. If this is the case, assuming that the market conditions brought the value down by 20% (which is conservative), this would bring the offer from $11M to $8.8M. Because we have to build IZ units, which force us to go from a stick build construction type to a light gauge steel product, and at the same time loose money on all of the IZ units as they do not support themselves without a subsidy, which the District does not provide for IZ units, this causes the value of the offer to go from $8.8M to the $5.2M that we are now offering, excluding WMATA's other participation rights in the Project.

As we have discussed previously, to date, the Developer has incurred over $1M since being selected by WMATA. We continue to remain hopeful that the exhaustive amount of money and time spent by Developer and WMATA in bringing this Project will produce a TOD project that all parties can be proud of. We look forward to seeing you on Friday at 2:30 and finalizing this last term of the deal so that we can get the JDA and Lease complete and presented to the Board at the next possible Board meeting. Should you have any questions prior to Friday, please feel free to contact us.

Warmest regards, I remain

Sincerely,

Omar

UPON REVIEW QUESTION MAY NOT BE SO MUCH WHERE THE SPACES WILL GO BUT WHAT HAPPENED TO THE 60 SPACES FROM BEFORE, THEN YOUR QUESTION OF HOW WILL WORK.

WITH QUESTION ON IRR WOULD CAVEAT THAT WITH PARTICIPATION RAMPED DOWN FROM 10%+ TO 2% THOUGHT UNDERSTANDING WAS THAT WMATA WOULD GET PREFERRED RETURNS PARALLEL TO EQUITY AFTER A MINIMUM THRESHOLD RETURN TO EQUITY, NOT THE ENTIRE AMOUNT.

Steve,

As a result of a third appraiser's review of the M & B Appraisal Group's appraisal, WMATA is prepared to convey various easement rights on WMATA's 7th & S Streets property at the Shaw-Howard University Metrorail station to Broadcast Partners, LLC for a price of $672,000. This price reflects WMATA's effort to reach a mutually agreeable price which is defensible using an acceptable appraisal methodology. We feel this price demonstrates our sincere willingness to reach an agreement and facilitate the development of your project. This price is a substantial reduction from our initial asking price of $1.8 million.

If you concur with the $672,000 price, please contact us and we will prepare the appropriate conveyance documents to close this transaction as soon as possible.

Comments/changes before we send.

This is very simple. We could add caveats that this deal is only for Broadcast Partners, time period to respond and close, no assignments or include this in a more comprehensive sale agreement and simply let them respond to the price.

Hi Roz,

I am meeting with Carol/Bruce today at 11am. I will give you an update as soon as I am done.

Barring any major changes, I am hoping to have drafts for Mr. Karim early this afternoon.

I am also putting together a list of "clarifications" regarding treatment of the tunnel, our tax-exempt status, etc. The idea is to clear up any confusion on issues unique to WMATA (and to take these issues off of the bargaining table). Do you have anything that you think should be added to this list?

Thanks,

I hope thing are going well and wanted to check on how much progress has been made on the Radio One project since Neil Last met with Emeka (has been over 30 days now)? I also wanted to follow up with you both on the request that Neil Albert had as a Board Member (when he met with Emeka) regarding the original Appraisal which was done by WMATA. In addition, I would also like to request the new review appraisal which was commissioned by WMATA. It is my understanding that WMATA has received a review appraisal and is seeking addendums to the same. I would appreciate if you could please send us the following appraisals by COB tomorrow:

- Original Appraisal (Summer 2008) and

- New Review Appraisal (one already received without the additional addendums requested by WMATA - November 2008)

We would also like to when do WMATA expect to receive the revised Review Appraisal with the additional addendums? And would like to get a copy of the same.

Steve,

As a follow-up to our recent meeting regarding the sale of various easements on WMATA's 7th & S Streets property at the Shaw-Howard University Metrorail station, our current asking price is $864,000.
Again, our position is that as a result of WMATA's conveyance of the underground and air rights easements required for your development project, WMATA's property will be encumbered to the extent that WMATA will be left with an uneconomic remnant and the fair market value of the property should be the value before the conveyance. Therefore, the price of the property should reflect its current value before any adjacent development.

If you agree with this price, please contact me and we will prepare the appropriate conveyance documents for this transaction as soon as possible.

in case Joel Washington has not already sent this...

yes, we did get a response from FTA
essentially we cannot reduce the rent to that below the next highest offer, irrespective of whether it included affordable housing while this can allow for some reduction in rent, it cannot achieve the targets you were looking for however, our consultant thinks that by reasonably changing some pro forma assumptions we can reach a midpoint that can serve us both otherwise, other subsidy would be required if you would like to get together to discuss this, say next Tuedsday, I can try to arrange

Would it be possible for us to meet on Wednesday (anytime) or Friday (anytime after 2pm). Thank you for your understanding.

In answer to your question about MEAD 100176 and power point for PGP Marriott parking in the WMATA garage, I have done the MEAD (the BAIS is a derivative-- to use a dishononored word, now-- of the MEAD)

The attached calendar indicates that the briefings with Nat and Jack Requa are on Tuesday Oct 21 so the power point draft can be done probably on Monday the 20th-- early

I have asked Joel which committee this item would go to, I am thinking Ops and not PDRE but have asked Joel to confirm.

I don't know if Sid has any updates about briefing dates and times.....

I have talked to Nat about the need to schedule Marriott/Prince George's Plaza for November. The issue is either: a policy to allow the hotel to have 46 nonexclusive spaces in our garage or the Board to grant an exception to Use Regulations to allow same. Nat assigned Sean Kennedy to work with me on this, and Sean has taken my file so he is on it.

All,

PLJD currently has no items scheduled for the PD&RE Cmte after 10/08 (see attached copy of the BAR).

Joel and Roz,

I've cleaned this up from a PowerPoint perspective, but the drawings on slides 3 and 4 don't make sense to me and don't seem to agree with each other.

Please check the wording on each slide as well as the graphics and tell if this is good to go.
Once you have approved it, I'll send it to Michelle.

As to corrections:

Greenbelt- I made the changes you suggested (did not, however, do a table).

Shaw Howard-
1.I think the text is ok though you may want to edit. There are different font sizes. I think Bob used both arial 18 and 20. Is there a standard? I think the greenbelt presentation uses arial 16.
2.Slide 9 is extraneous. I left it only because of the graphic but, if we don't use it, it gets deleted; I think it will be 3.On slides 3 and 4 I need help; I tried Anabela but she could not seem to figure out what Bob did. I can't reduce the images. I need to add a north arrow. The outlines are no longer where Bob put them. AND the lettering he put in is too small.

They have approved our ROE, but they are going to have an added clause for the License(s). I am guessing we won't like it.

That leads me to another pressing matter that I was hoping you could help me resolve in the JDA.

What requirements must the developer achieve before they can enter into the Lease and Construction agreement?

In my "woodshed" version of the JDA, I had the following:

1. Proof of proper single purpose development entity; 2. Proof of sufficient construction financing; 3. Proof developer has obtained all required approvals and permits, including _____ 4. Proof all required insurance, bonds, and guaranties are executed and in effect

Are these correct? Is there anything that I am missing?

Please let me know what you think so that we are on the same page.

Thanks,

Hi Rosalyn,

I just spoke to Devorah Lewin from DLA Piper regarding the Shaw-Howard project. She informed me of the following:

1. The developer's lender "needs" them to get the Right of Entry signed by Friday.

2. The developer wants to begin construction as soon as the JDA is signed. Therefore they were hoping to have the license(s) terminated.

Please let me know when you will be free to discuss the above (and the security deposit, as mentioned in my previous email).

The developer agreed to the payments in the term sheet so we have no intention of negotiating the price down.

Again, we did a lease because we want to get the land back at the end of the term. All developers want the option to purchase

Josh,

Following up on our brief conversation from the week before last (I apologize, BTW, for the delay), I just wanted to give you a heads up about the fundamental tax issues we are thinking about in terms of the Florida Avenue project.

At bottom, the issues are (i) whether Developer will be treated as the lessee of the land for federal tax purposes and (ii) who will be the owner of the improvements for federal tax purposes?

Long term land leases are typically structured so that the lessor retains title for tax purposes of the underlying land (consistent with the form of the transaction) and the lessee never relinquishes title to the improvements. It is quite possible that WMATA has done multiple deals as I have described above and that the Florida Avenue project is intended to be treated consistently. We would like to know whether or not WMATA has considered this issue, and if it has, what is the intended tax characterization from WMATA's perspective?

If WMATA has not considered the issue, the most important factors to consider are:

(i) Is the lease stream for the land at market rates? To the extent that the Developer can be viewed as overpaying for the land the lease can be reconstrued for federal tax purposes as a sale, and the payments under the lease could be reconstrued as seller take back financing.

(ii) Is the land subject to a below market option in Developer's favor at term? Again, if Developer is able to procure title at term for a below market price, this could cause the transaction to be recast as a sale with take back financing.

(iii) What happens with the improvements at term? This will obviously be an important economic issue, but its resolution could have tax consequences as well. If the building reverts to the lessor at termination of the lease (without market consideration) then it is possible that the improvements could be viewed as belonging to WMATA from the inception.

Please let us know if you have considered these issues, and any conclusions you may have drawn. We are certainly happy to discuss any of this further with you.

Thanks,

Paul

Hi Rosalyn,

Did you get a copy of the redacted flea market lease for the Shaw-Howard transaction?

The developer's attorney has asked for a copy so that they can assess any liability concerns with the ROE. As you are probably aware, I have worked with Anabela and Keysia Thom (our PARP expert) to come up with a redacted copy that will provide the flea market lease info but also protect our commercial advantage interests.

I got an "OK" from Keysia and Anabela. If you are OK with this, then I will send to Guy Flynn.

Please let me know.

Joel,

Per your request, please find attached a PDF copy of the appraisal for the District owned site. I want to emphasize again that this is a fee simple appraisal (not an Air Rights/TDR appraisal) for Parcel 33 (District owned site) and DOES NOT discount for any special construction cost which will have to be factored when building right over the WMATA Escalator parcel. Feel free to call me should you have any questions. I will see you tomorrow.

Joel,

Per your request please find attached the Summary of the Appraisal Report which was commissioned May 2007 and Land Disposition Agreement Extension for the project. The LDA had to be extended since they were unable to meet the closing conditions including settlement with WMATA the first time around. Again, I just want to reiterate the importance of getting this project to closing in next two months so the Shaw and LeDroit Park community can finally see their favorite project break ground. The community at large has been waiting for this for a long time and collectively we should help meet that goal sooner. Please share these documents with Nat (and other people in your office) since he was keen on seeing the LDA expiration date. Also I wanted to ask you if you could share the Appraisal which was commissioned by WMATA for this site and I promise it will not be shared with anyone.

Have a nice weekend.

Hi Rosalyn,

Guy Flynn, the attorney for the developer, called me yesterday. We briefly discussed the form of the agreement going forward. He agreed that the simplified JDA with the attached ground lease was acceptable.

He also asked about how we will be treating the tax issues relating to depreciation of the improvements and the implications of the long-term lease. Is this something that you have addressed in these negotiations? How would you like to handle this issue?

Hi Rosalyn,

Do you know if the Developer has completed any/all of the Environmental Due Diligence for this property?

If so, do we have any info on the status? Do we have a copy of the Phase I?

Did/will they do anything more than a Phase I?

Please let me know whenever you get a chance.

Roz/Phillip,

As you may know we have hired a new real estate attorney, Josh Montague. Today is his first day in the office. Bruce has re-assigned the following matters to him.

05-286 - Western Bus Garage Proposal

08-087 - Grosvenor Station - Parcel F

I will bring Josh by today or tomorrow to introduce him. (Note, as of this email, I do not find him in the groupwise directory.... I'll ask Sherry/Susan about fixing that).

Roz: if you would still like to get the first draft of Fl. Ave out the door this week, let me know what comments you have and I'll work with Josh to get it done.

Rosalyn,

We have executed the Term Sheet and will bring an original to the meeting along with the $100k Option Fee. Just wanted to make sure we put it on the Agenda to get the signed doc and fee to you all.

As for the ROE Permit, can you resend the document that you sent earlier in MS Word format. We don't have Word Perfect on our systems. Also, does the document reflect our comments sent over a few weeks ago? Not sure if you got them. We believe you may have still been out of town. Finally, would we be receiving a draft of the JDA and Lease tomorrow?

Will someone from your design/engineering department be present to answer general questions about design/engineering issues that may be raised? Also, will you have a draft of the JDA and lease to provide us or do you want to send it prior to the meeting? Finally, have you all had an opportunity to review our comments to the ROE permit?

Omar, this agenda looks fine. We have expected that you will be providing the executed Term Sheet and Option Fee tomorrow rather than discussing them! So, I hope that we are in agreement on that item.
Also, I have attached a draft Right of Entry Permit with information for the Florida Avenue site, as well as recent "boilerplate" modifications, incorporated – for your review prior to tomorrow's meeting. Of course, we could not execute this agreement prior to receiving the executed term sheet and the option fee.
Looking forward to seeing you tomorrow, Rosalyn

Hi Joel,
I hope you are having a nice summer. Thanks so much for returning the letter of credit to us relating to the Shaw-Howard/ Florida Avenue project. In order to cancel the letter of credit, Wachovia Bank will need a letter from WMATA, as beneficiary, directing them to do so. I've drafted a letter you can use below. Would you take a look at this letter and if it looks acceptable, sign it and return it to me. Then, I can mail your letter to them with the original letter of credit and officially have them cancel it. Thanks in advance for your help with this! Ms. Doggett,

Welcome back. Hope you had an enjoyable vacation. Wanted to touch basis to schedule a kick-off meeting for the Howard-Shaw/Florida Ave project. Figure there are a couple of items we need to discuss/take care of, including:

- Executing the Term Sheet and posting the Option Fee;
- Discussing, finalizing and executing the Right of Entry Permit (particularly interested in getting clarification on the insurance requirements);
- Discussing a timetable for negotiating and getting the Development Agreement and Lease before the Board for approval;
- Discussing any issues that we should be aware of from Metro (fees, engineering issues, etc) as the project moves forward;
- Having your design team meet with our architect/engineers/Metro consultants (would like to bring Torti Gallas and the engineers to the kick-off mtg to get things started).

In addition to the above issues, of course any other things you all want to discuss would be great as well. Just want to capture as much as possible of the things that need to happen between now and when we break ground.

Would it be possible to schedule this kick-off meeting next week, say Thurs or Fri?

Thank you in advance.

Angela-

The Board wanted further information on the selection process we used. (Carol, is that ok?)

There were two stages of the proposal. Nine firms originally expressed interest. On the basis of these submissions, six were invited to submit further proposals. In the second round, we had four bidders, which turned into three when two bidders combined forces.

Roz, correct?

Carol, can/should we share the bidder info before the Board item is presented to the Board or not? To me it seems innocuous and if anything is to our advantage...

Thanks,

Nat

Also, wants to know how many people applied for it.

Ros/Bob,

Please see the email below and the attachments hereto.

I also received a voicemail message regarding the structure of the transaction, and whether it will be an easement or a sale with an easement reservation.

We need to get our engineers working on the WMATA reservations and easements as soon as possible. When willl this begin?

Thanks,

Kermit

Kermit,

As you may recall from our conversation last week, we promised to check with our client as to whether he was comfortable with us sharing the easement area legal descriptions with you. Because he is, please find them attached.

As I mentioned in my voicemail, we hope to discuss with you further the structure of the easement area purchase. I will be out of town tomorrow through next Wednesday but Christian is available to discuss in the meantime. He can be reached at 202-663-9146 or at christian.buerger@pillsburylaw.com.

Thanks Kermit,

Liz

Michele, I think that we have made the changes asked for:

POWER POINT:
-page 1, "and" is now in lower case
-response to comment about benefits: the benefit is to a constituent jurisdiction that helped fund the Metro system and can use the tax revenue to keep on subsidizing the system

BAIS
-eliminated reference to Confidential Statement; we will bring it to Executive Session -in order to be a team player, we will go with capitalized "Streets;" however, in the plural the correct usage is "streets," i.e., there is no proper name called 14th and U Streets; in this context, the use of streets is generic, only, which is why the correct usage is "streets."

I hope that this covers it (okay, it more than covers it!). Please let me know if more is needed. Thanks.

It is accurate except on Community Involvement slide

It needs to be clear that the "Board" authorized a solicitation for the site in Aug 2006 (Nat can say that we were unable actually to issue a request for Expressions of Interest until the spring because we had to settle litigation)

"Developers" (plural) presented to ANC 1B. Not just Banneker but one other as well. The third did not because of a mixup. Jim Graham was there so he ought to know.

Omar, please find below a draft term sheet for the Project for which Banneker Ventures has been tentatively selected as developer.

Upon your review, please call me as to next steps within the tight time frame in which we would like to execute a mutually satisfactory document.

You will note that the base rent is initally higher than what you proposed. This is as a result of FTA oversight, which I can explain to you as we discuss what I have inserted. The base rent does not contemplate affordable housing. Again, this is something that we can discuss.

Please also note that, in the interest of saving time, our General Counsel has not completed its review of the term sheet and that any final negotiated docuument will be subject to review and approval by our General Counsel.

I look forward to hearing from you. Please do call if you have any questions at the outset.

Attached is a term sheet for the project.

One area may cause the developer some heartburn. I have put in a base rent that is quite a bit higher than what the developer proposed. The developer proposed $500,000 as the initial base rent number in 2011. I used $525,000 (our appraiser's number for Aug '07) escalated by 3 ½ years to closing on the lease to come up with an initial base rent of $580,000.

The developer proposed 20% affordable housing at half the rent of market rate ($1.50 vs. $3.00/ sf). I asked Malcolm Marshall to ask our appraiser if a lower discounted rental rate can be justified based on a clause we would have to put in the term sheet that 20% of the housing would be affodable by households making less than 60% of the area median income (or something to that effect). However, the appraiser called us back and said 20% affordable housing did not justify a discount-- some of their comparables included affordable housing.

In any event, the inclusion of affordable housing is a policy call, not something that the city currently requires. It is something that the developer thought would help with local community acceptance. So another question is whether the new jd guidelines (goal #5) justify our discounting the rent for affordable housing.

Overall, the project yields an npv that is far higher than our appraiser's current assessment of market value. However, I am now sensitive to FTA's parsing our appraisals and looking at initial rental values.

In any event, I am going to go with the higher number based on the conversation with Malcolm's appraiser.

Joel, I am quite concerned that this one can cause us trouble. We have not drafted a lease. Kermit is not anywhere close to having the time to do it. Our appraisal is due in at the end of March/early April, right Malcolm? Then we will be accused of holding up this very important deal-- they talk about wanting to break ground in April; I don't know if there are other constraints; there probably are-- despite the time that Four Points has consumed.

I think that we ought to talk about workload. Kermit, I hope you don't mind my writing this without talking to you first (I just phoned).

Mark / Rosalyn,

Please let us know if the modifications address all your concerns.

Rosalyn - could you please give me a call regarding the contract / lease agreement for the easement rights? I'm very concerned about timing given that it is now March and we have not seen a draft agreement.

Thanks,

Steve

Here are our comments on the individual easement descriptions

>>> Ed Medina 2/21/2008 2:54 PM >>>
My comments are as follows:

1. 119 Square Feet Easement Area Within WMATA Elevator Parcel:
The west or east limit (5.5') added to the tie-in/offset distance of 10' must be 15' (5.5' + 10' = 15.5'), please verify.

2. 155 Square Feet Easement Area Within WMATA Elevator Parcel:
The upper limit at elevation 97.20' will encroach/overlap by 2.2' into the 480 square feet Air-Rights Easement with lower limit at elevation 95.00'. Please clarify/verify.

3. 362 Square Feet Air-Rights Easement Above WMATA Shaw-Howard University Station:
Why do you call this Air-Rights Easement, the 3 feet high easement (elevation 80' to elevation 83') is below the ground?

4. 923 Square Feet Air-Rights Easement Above WMATA Shaw-Howard University Station:
Why do you call this Air-Rights Easement, the 1 foot high easement (elevation 80' to elevation 81') is below the ground?

5. 101 Square Feet Easement For Construction of Below-Grade Garage Walls:
This easement is not just for the construction of the walls, this easement is also required for the future maintenance of the walls (WMATA will not own the garage walls), therefore the easement must be called "Permanent Below-Grade Garage Walls Easement".
The 101 square feet easement must be broken down into three different areas because of upper limits limitations:
Area 1 = 2'x15' = 30 square feet (lower limit at elevation 55' and upper limit at elevation 81.00'). This area is within the 480 Square Feet WMATA Fee-Simple Elevator Parcel Area.
Area 2 = 2'x26.59' = 53.18 square feet (lower limit at elevation 55' and upper limit at elevation 72'). This area is within the 1,693 Square Feet WMATA Permanent Underground Easement (upper limit at elevation 72'). Any easement above elevation 72' is outside WMATA's Permanent Underground Easement.
Area 3 = 2'x9' = 18 square feet (lower limit at elevation 55' and upper limit at elevation 81.00'). This area is within the 923 Square Feet WMATA Permanent Underground Easement (upper limit at elevation 81.00').

Rosalyn,

I hope all is well. After our last conversation before the holiday I inadvertently thought I sent you the below response in regards to some of the major points of our conversation that I wanted to touch on further.

We continue to be excited about the opportunity to create a world-class mixed-use project along Florida Avenue. This project has the personal attention of Jim Clark (Chairman of the board and CEO) and other senior Clark executives. They, as I do, consider this a great opportunity to create a dynamic destination project with an exciting mix of retailers and distinctive architecture in a historic and emerging neighborhood. We feel our retail mix will strike the right balance between local and national retailers which will create the ultimate walking and shopping experience.

Our team has been in further consultation with our zoning attorney, Allison Prince, at Pillsbury Winthrop Shaw Pittman LLP in regards to the alley closing. Given their recent analysis of the alley system, they are confident that at a minimum, our FAR would not change given the options available to us.

Most importantly, our financial offer to WMATA is not contingent on the closing of the alley. This is because the two lots under our control adjacent to the WMATA parcel at 9th & U allow us to maximize the 4.5 FAR given the combined development footprint.

We would love to sit down with you again to further discuss our proposal at your convenience. Thank you again and please let me know if you have any additional questions.

Best wishes,

Moddie Turay

Subject: Fwd: U Street- Modification on Reserved Developmental Rights

Joel, please see the attachments which I recommend signing. There is a companion e-mail to follow.

Background
When we sold our property at the 13th and U St. (U St-Cardozo-AAWM) Metro entrance to Marvin Jawer 5 years ago for $1.160 million, he and we recognized that he had not developed the property to its full zoning envelope. He developed approximately 44,000 sf (4 stories) of an allowable envelope that I estimate at @56,439 sf under current C-2A Arts Overlay zoning. WMATA retained the development rights over 44,000 sf.

Mr. Jawer recently proposed that we relinquish these rights for a payment of $33,300. He stated that the reason for this is that he cannot get optimum refinancing with this impingement on his title.

In turn, we proposed $175,000 to which he has agreed. We based the $175,000 payment on the most recent appraisal that we had for the the Shaw Howard properties several blocks away, $57/FAR sf x 12,439 sf (the remaining envelope) which I escalated over 30 years (an arbitrarily chosen life of the building that Jawer has built) at 4%/year and discounted at 9% to reflect the uncertainty of when and whether the newly constructed Jawer building would be demolished.

The payment amounts to approximately $14/FAR sf for the remaining FAR under current zoning. We could sell these rights today as TDR's (transfers of development rights). Mr. Jawer sent information from two zoning attorneys about TDR's which indicates that should we wish to sell our development rights today, the likely value is less than $5, confirmed by independent sources. He also stated, without confirmation, that TDR's in downtown are being sold for $10-$12.

Evaluation
We are in no hurry to sell our development rights. We could retain them. We have no idea whether values in this area would lead to redevelopment of the building, perhaps combined with an adjoining property, in the near term or not even in 30 years. There is recent activity at 14th and U where some one and two story buildings are proposed to be replaced by 90' high buildings (likely to be lowered by HPRB). We know that in other cases where we have held leased property for over thirty years (Bethesda, 1101 Connecticut) our stake has risen significantly.

Here, however, we have sold the property, not leased it, and retained the excess development rights. The future value is uncertain and we have no further ownership interest in the property (we do have similar arrangements for sale properties at Navy Yard East, where we retain excess development rights for 25 years, and, I think, at Wheaton).

Recommendation
The question is whether it is in WMATA's interest to retain these rights or not. In my judgment, given the fact that we have disposed of our ownership interest and may yet realize some additional revenue in the future if a taller building is erected and requires support within our retained easement areas, we should take advantage today of the additional revenue that can be achieved.

>>> "Richard F. Levin" <levin@gyfb.com> 12/29/2007 11:59 AM >>> Greetings.

I hope the Holiday was special for both of you.

I was asked to put together a simple agreement to address the payment of $175,000 to WMATA in return for a relinquishment by WMATA of the developmental rights previously reserved in the deed.

I attach the proposed Agreement and the proposed Declaration.

Look forward to getting this wrapped up early in the New Year.

Hello all. Attached is an email from one of our engineers discussing a shutdown of the elevators at Shaw Howard station due to a development project. Given that shutting down an elevator takes that station out of service to anyone with a disability, my recommendation is that the decision to do so not be made by an engineer. My view is that the decision should be made by WMATA's leadership. My suggestion is that justification to take the station out of service to people with disabilities be made by the engineering group involved - and then reviewed and approved or disapproved at the leadership level. Taking a station out of service should not be treated as a routine event. Glenn

Hello all. Attached is an email from one of our engineers discussing a shutdown of the elevators at Shaw Howard station due to a development project. Given that shutting down an elevator takes that station out of service to anyone with a disability, my recommendation is that the decision to do so not be made by an engineer. My view is that the decision should be made by WMATA's leadership. My suggestion is that justification to take the station out of service to people with disabilities be made by the engineering group involved - and then reviewed and approved or disapproved at the leadership level. Taking a station out of service should not be treated as a routine event. Glenn

Subject: Fwd: Re: Fwd: Shaw Howard/Radio One

Nat, this all started because Shee Fells wanted to know what guidance she should offer the Radio One developers about elevator closures, if any. Her intent was to warn them that this is not a matter to be taken lightly. Rayann Otto and Glenn Millis were copied on the internal communications so that they would be in the loop.

Tariq and I met with the Radio One developer (Steve Cassell) on Thursday at the Wilson Building. Steve's comments there were that he does not expect long-term closures of any kind – only a few days at most. Tariq made the point that a few days here and there was also not good for customer service/ADA needs. Steve won't know what his tentative construction schedule is for another month or two, but I think that he understood the need for minimum disruption. When we receive the tentative schedule/development plan and see the implications, we will of course continue to get guidance from ACCS, as you have noted that we should.

>>> Nat Bottigheimer 12/23/2007 12:46 PM >>>
Joel--

Could you get with Tariq and/or Tom Robinson and/or Mark Pohl or whoever is possible and respond to Christian's question? It seems to me that since we don't have a development plan for the Radio One site it's not an immediate issue...the question is one of anticipating needs and, organizationally, of reaching a decision about whether or not we can develop the property if there is any kind of disruption at all, and/or what kinds of mitigations are acceptable, etc. For example, if we included ADA access improvements in the construction, is that a mitigation for taking the elevator out of service? If we replaced the elevator with a higher-speed one, or a second, redundant one?

We certainly would need to know in advance of reaching a development agreement what our program of required improvements to the station area would be as a part of station area development....ACCS should be part of this determination.

Thanks,

Nat

Mark,

Per your request I am outlining the proposal that we discussed over the phone to address the issues regarding WMATA's facility located on the District owned land at the northeast intersection of 7th and S Street, NW, Washington, DC (also know as Howard-Shaw Metro Station).

Since, neither WMATA nor DMPED has adequate information that confirms WMATA's claim that they have fee simple ownership of that the portion of Lot 845 in Square 441 where WMATA currently has their escalator and elevator. And as stated earlier, our office is in the middle of disposing lot 854 in square 441 to Broadcast Center One Partner who is proposing to build mixed-use development on that site which will also relocate the Radio One, Inc. and TV One, Inc. offices back in the District.

We are currently in the middle of getting the appropriate Council approval for the disposition of lot 854 and we would like to address the WMATA situation simultaneously. Achieving a resolution on the problem at hand will not only help move the project as scheduled (with ground breaking in April 2008) but will also help clear the air on WMATA's interest on that site.

I would like to reiterate the proposal whereby the District would grant permanent surface easement to WMATA. The surface easement option helps meet number of different goals including the following:

- It does not change the way WMATA have been using the site for their access facility in any form an fashion,

- It helps us avoid going through tedious sub-division process of sub-dividing the site and which may eventually lead to project missing the April groundbreaking and

- It also helps address the payment issues for the Urban Renewal property and especially in the light of WMATA's claim where they state that they have already paid the District for the fee simple ownership of that portion of the site.

District would offer WMATA a permanent surface easement (with stipulated upper and lower limit on the easement for the WMATA access facilities on lot 854) at no cost to WMATA. It will be District's sole responsibility to negotiate, offer and receive payment for any easements the Development Team seeks on the site for the development of the project. WMATA will have no stake in any payments that the District would receive from the developers for those easements.

As you may have seen from the Council Hearing scheduled on November 15, 2007, for this project most of the Councilmembers are in support of the project and everyone wants to see the project have ground breaking as scheduled. In the light of all that, I would appreciate if you could state WMATA's position on the proposal which is outlined above in next few days. I also wanted to schedule a three way discussion between DMPED, WMATA and Broadcast Center One partners to get clarification on the various easements that would be required for the project. Let me know what works for you and your colleagues. I am available to meet any time after 3.00 pm next week on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Do we have a deed for the elevator?

It appears he is talking about negotiating easements in areas where we already have easements. Need clarification.

It is not appropriate for the District to take economic benefit for land that we believe that we paid for. However, if we cannot document it, then it appears that we are going to lose the argument.

Ros,

Happy Friday! I think you stated something about needing our comments on the BAFO submissions for the three proposals this morning or today. In the interest of time, given a crowded schedule today, I am forwarding some of DMPED's observations and concerns directly to you and including OP staff so that they can incorporate the following into the memo they are preparing on our joint behalf:

A. The LaKritz Adler proposal substantially exceeds the others in content, preparedness, and potential economic and community impact. The projected number of jobs, new daytime and nighttime customers, ridership counts, and construction period and post construction tax benefits are carefully quantified and represent significant public returns. Additionally, the proposals detailed understanding of the subsurface construction needs above a metro tunnel give DMPED a greater confidence that the team may be able to pull the project off without a public subsidy as indicated in their proposal. We will be continuously mindful of this assertion. Their proposal is bolstered by their contract for the adjacent 8th Street NW parcel and its inclusion in their proposal.
LaKritz should, however, be held to a strict "do or die" performance schedule in which specific milestones must be reached (within reason) by specific dates or the terms renegotiated or penalties begin to apply.
The District is interest strongly in seeing development finally happen on these strategically located parcels. As for the discussion about transfer of the arts uses to other locations, DMPED strongly advises that this transfer not happen as the District is interested in filling in "the gap" between the Howard Theatre and the Lincoln Theatre with not just retail but other arts, entertainment and cultural uses that help to enliven the attractiveness of the area as a destination for a diverse cross section of stakeholders. LaKritz, as with any other selected, should also be required to enter into a First Source Agreement with the Department of Employment Services (DOES) to ensure that District residents are offered positions as a priority throughout all phases of the development cycle and a Certified Business Enterprise Agreement
(CBE) with the Department of Small and Local Business Development
(DSLBD) to ensure sufficient participation and monitoring of local enterprise participation.
Architecturally, the District is not interested in a "K Street - MidTown" aesthetic. While CORE is a reputable firm, the portfolio samples have left a great deal to be desired aesthetically. LaKritz should significantly augment its team with local architectural designers with a more eclectic and exciting design portfolio that could be expanded at this high visibility location. The District is happy to recommend several from which LaKritz might select.

B. If LaKritz does not become the front runner in this, the Banneker - Donatelli proposal is the second strongest. There is, however, a stronger preference for office uses instead of housing on these sites given the volume of housing that has been and is yet to be produced in this neighborhood. Their partnership with Donatelli builds some degree of confidence about their understanding of above Metro construction, but it was not fully elaborated upon to substantiate that the project manager-Banneker-does. This is not insurmountable, but it would have helped to under their knowledge level more. It does raise some concerns about potential public subsidies which may be requested to cover the layered costs of affordable housing, cultural uses, structured parking and local businesses above a metro tunnel. No request have, however, been made to date.

C. The Moddie Toray proposal, frankly, fails to inspire and lacks relevant information at the level of the above two. I recommend against this particular proposal for these sites.

Their partnership with Donatelli builds some degree of confidence about their understanding of above Metro construction, but it was not fully elaborated upon to substantiate that the project manager-Banneker-does. This is not insurmountable, but it would have helped to under their knowledge level more. It does raise some concerns about potential public subsidies which may be requested to cover the layered costs of affordable housing, cultural uses, structured parking and local businesses above a metro tunnel. No request have, however, been made to date.

C. The Moddie Toray proposal, frankly, fails to inspire and lacks relevant information at the level of the above two. I recommend against this particular proposal for these sites.

Ketan, fyi this is a copy of a the easement request sent to Elisa Hill in March. (Ms. Johnston who was subsequently assigned the project is leaving this week to work for US Navy real estate.)

I hope that this is helpful. We do not have a current appraisal for the site but have appraisals for nearby property on Florida Avenue a bit further from the Metro station.

Steve,

Thank you for calling today. An appraisal of your desired interests in WMATA's property at the Shaw-Howard Metro Station appears premature. We would like to review your forthcoming letter that outlines the desired easements prior to any appraisal. Our review will smooth the sales/lease process and hopefully reduce negotiation time.

Additionally the District of Columbia owes WMATA a deed for some of the property (agreed to and paid for by WMATA). Until the deed is recorded we can not transfer title or assign easements.

I look forward to receiving your letter and associated exhibits at your earliest convenience.

The attachments from Kasondra who was assigned the project after Elisa left do indicate that Four Points wants, in addition to some foundation easements-- I did not check on surface- all of the air rights for the entire footprint of both the elevator and escalator parcels from floors 2-7. Or at least that is what they asked for.

Mark, perhaps it would help Art to know that the one DEED is for the elevator.
Also, the last letter from Mr. Washington of DC is pretty difficult to interpret and relate to the easements/deeds in question; I know I would need interpretation; not sure about Art.

Art,

Attached are copies of the letter with attachmenst that was sent to D.C. RLA. The bottom line is that WMATA should receive a fee simple deed from the District for the station entrance parcel (Encl 4) as we paid a total of $242,700 in 1991 for all the required real estate interests.

Joel,

Attached for SAAM's consideration is another way of displaying the joint development projects for the 11/14/07 FTA Quarterly Review Meeting.

The projects are still sorted into three categories:

Projects under construction
Projects in pre-development
Projects for which proposals have been received

Previously, within each category, the projects were simply listed alphabetically and therefore were all over the landscape.
Now, the projects are sorted first by jurisdiction (DC, MD, or VA) and then alphabetically.

Previously, informal names for the stations were used; e.g., College Park.
Now, the correct names are used: College Park - University of Maryland.

The bullets should now be grammatically parallel, and per SECT none should end in a bullet.

If SAAM likes the format, the next step would be for the facts to be updated and proofread.

Something to consider.

Sid

The pdf of air rights and easement rights (I assume the easement rights are temporary and for construction only) sound like the requests made over the past two years from time to time. Elisa had always taken the position that Four Points needed to lease (but could not buy) all the air rights over and around the escalator and elevator as we would otherwise be left only with remnants.

>>> Kasondra K. Johnston 10/10/2007 10:11 AM >>>
All,

I have not received the attached letter as of this morning, however Steve Cassell called yesterday evening with an update from Four Points meeting with the Deputy Mayor's Office. The District has tied the sale of District land to Four Points to WMATA's easements/permits. I have spoken with Roz, Mark and Kermit but need to meet with Tom and Tariq regarding prior conversations with Four Points.

Attached are the easements Four Points think they need for your review. We need to determine the impacts to our real estate and the value of Four Points' request. Four Points will furnish an appraisal for our review after we determine the interests WMATA wants/needs them to acquire.

Of, course they want to settle with the District and WMATA by the end of the year and have an agreement in place by November 1, 2007. This probably unrealistic however, I need to tell Four Points why it is unrealistic and have a strategy for moving forward.

Ms. Johnston,

Please see attached letter and PDFs of the requested easement rights at the Shaw-Howard Metro Station.

Steve,

Thank you for calling today. An appraisal of your desired interests in WMATA's property at the Shaw-Howard Metro Station appears premature. We would like to review your forthcoming letter that outlines the desired easements prior to any appraisal. Our review will smooth the sales/lease process and hopefully reduce negotiation time.

Additionally the District of Columbia owes WMATA a deed for some of the property (agreed to and paid for by WMATA). Until the deed is recorded we can not transfer title or assign easements.

I look forward to receiving your letter and associated exhibits at your earliest convenience.

At your convenience, glad to discuss.

Joel signed letters on August 24 asking for full proposals, due Friday October 5, from six teams:
Metropolis
Banneker
LakritzAdler
Donatelli
Symmetry
Moddie Turay

Marc Biondi, per Carol's instructions, reviewed/edited the submission requirements before they went out.

Joel also signed letters on August 24 informing three teams that we would not be asking further information from them:
Trammel Crow Co.
P.N. Hoffman
SED

One of the P.N. Hoffman partners, Mike Sussman who runs the flea market on one of the FL Ave sites, called to request that we reinstate the proposal for the smallest site so Central Lock and Hardware, a client of his, could buy it. I said I would discuss because I did not want to dismiss out of hand. But I should.

Malcolm has just received a draft appraisal for the site, which I am to review.

I doubt that much progress will be made on this in my absence. Marc did not want to review/approve the submission requirements on his own, without Carol delegating the review and recommendation on approval to him, so we have to wait for her.

However, each of the attachments is in t:doggett/shaw-howard (though Maria may have the letters, also in her own file). And they are in a yellow folder on my desk along with the "rejection" letters. If the letters can go out next week, the 'send date' will need revision.

Thanks in advance. And have a semi-cool week.

Carol, I hope that you had an enjoyable vacation. In your absence, and because I will not be here next week, I delivered to Marc Biondi a hard copy of full proposal instructions for 6 of 9 teams from whom we received initial proposals for our three sites on Florida Avenue. (We are not asking for full proposals for the other teams, which had inappropriate uses or very low financial offers to WMATA or both.)

In the spirit of the JD Task Force, I tried to slim down the requirements a bit by eliminating references to WMATA replacement facilities and a compact hearing, neither of which are needed. We also had complex instructions for calculating future WMATA ridership in the 2006 solicitation; subject to Nat's concurrence, Joel and I thought that staff can do this so we are not asking the developer to do it.

If you can review these early in the week, then Joel can probably have Maria Wallace send out the submission requirements (JDS) with with attachments and a cover letter, perhaps with Heidi/Elisa oversight.

I have attached a sample cover letter to a proposer, the Shaw Howard submission requirements, a compare version to 2006, and the attachments.

NARRATIVE

Improvements to the Joint Development Process and Revenue-Generating Elements

In FY 2006, the Board recognized that Joint Development needed a better planning framework and provided resources and direction toward that end. Joint Development has collaborated with BPPD to establish complementary work programs that integrate the local jurisdictions master plan and zoning requirements with WMATA facilities replacement and station access guidelines to provide potential partners a more accurate and complete description of the development potential of the sites offered in solicitations.

The General Manager has established a Joint Development Task Force which will begin soon to review the Joint Development Work Program, guidelines and business operations and make recommendations for improving the program. That work should be completed by December 2006-January 2007.

The properties selected for this yearâ€™s solicitation package were done so based on near term marketability, private sector interest and the support of the local jurisdictions for their development. A consultant was used to analyze the market, zoning, site constraints and other factors that predict a siteâ€™s market and development potential. Based on selection standards developed by staff in Joint Development with their consultant, all available sites were ranked and categorized by level of private sector interest, amount of required public intervention and stakeholder support and/or other constraints. The lists of potential sites were sent to the local jurisdictions for comments. Comments from local government representatives (elected representatives and staff) were also sought. This process resulted in the list of sites presented in the FY 2007 Work Program.

Changes to the property selection and developer solicitation processes are already underway for next yearâ€™s offering. These changes make the process more transparent; solicit more input from the local community prior to finalizing the solicitation package in order that the communityâ€™s vision for the properties can be clearly conveyed to potential developers; in conjunction with BPPD, Joint Development takes a more active role in local planning exercises for areas involving station properties and in local zoning and development legislation that may affect WMATA properties values and/or use.

The FY 2007 Work Program reflects the requirements of the Revised Joint Development Policies and Guidelines, approved and adopted by the Board on February 21, 2002. The annual work program describes the joint development activities which will be undertaken in the upcoming fiscal year.

The sites to be offered for development in FY 2007 are classified as Level 1 (significant private sector interest; no public intervention required) or Level 2 (private sector interest but stakeholder or other constraints; or stakeholder support but weak private sector interest).

Sites Recommended for Solicitation by Jurisdictions

The following sites which have been approved by the local jurisdictions will be offered for development in FY 2007:

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA (3 sites)

Navy Yard Chiller Plant
Navy Yard East Entrance
Shaw-Howard University (3 parcels)

MARYLAND â€“ PRINCE GEORGEâ€™S COUNTY (1 site)

Capitol Heights

VIRGINIA â€“ FAIRFAX COUNTY (1 site)

Backlick Road

VIRGINIA â€“ CITY OF ALEXANDRIA (1 site)

Royal Street Bus Garage

A solicitation for the Shaw-Howard University parcels may be released mid-year after the litigation affecting these parcels is resolved. The timing of the Royal Street Bus Garage solicitation will be determined in collaboration with the Mayor of the City of Alexandria. Additional prospective sites in Arlington County, Virginia, the City of Alexandria, Virginia, the City of Rockville, Maryland, Montgomery County, Maryland and Prince Georgeâ€™s County, Maryland are undergoing additional study and planning efforts by the respective jurisdictions and will not be offered in FY 2007.

FINANCIAL IMPACT

Discounted cash value to WMATA for projects that were closed and for which term sheets and agreements were executed in FY 2006 is approximately $80 million over the term of the agreements. The total value of the development projects is estimated to exceed $775 million. Project revenues for FY 2006 are expected to exceed the budget projection of $9.6 million. Consistent with the FY 2007 Budget, the Joint Development Program is projected to generate $20.7 million in sales, guaranteed ground rent and connection fees in FY 2007.

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED WMATA-INV 013011

RECOMMENDATION

Staff recommends that the Real Estate Committee and the Board approve the FY 2007 Joint Development Work Program. Upon approval, a solicitation document will be widely disseminated in an effort to generate transit oriented development proposals for the offered sites.

I spoke to Deborah Crain today to alert her to making sure that Gorove Slade addresses the need for shuttle buses (van, really) at the station. The two people (Tom Rooney and Mary Pat Rowan) who mentioned the shuttle buses from the big new developments (that they are testifying against now at the Council) will try to say that the station must be left open in order to accommodate future needs. This is TAKOMA strategy #55.

I got a message from Doug indicating that a fax had been received from Phil Feola inquiring as to the status of the request by the developer of Radio One headquarters to acquire one or both of these properties. As far as I recall, the ball is in the developer's court. We have never received a formal written proposal from them in our required format to my knowledge. We told them what the process was for an unsolicited proposal from an adjacent property owner at our last meeting. We need a proposal that includes a financial offer for the parcels. One issue of concern to me is the fact that according to the last plan that the developer showed us, the developer would acquire only one of the parcels (elevator shaft) and not the other (escalator entrance) . That's unacceptable. They need the escalator entrance parcel to extend the plaza for the building where they plan to stage community activities, concerts, shows on jumbotron screens, etc. and they need to pay us for it. Roz, if you have any updated info on this project, please let Kathy, Doug, Gary know.

Re: projects that have 60 year ground leases, I believe the leased portion of the Morgan Boulevard project will be on a 60-year ground lease. All of LCOR's leases at White Flint are on 55 year ground leases with an option to extend for an additional 40 years. Ask Dan for the lease term for the Wheaton Triangle project.

August 24 is fine with me. I think it might take more than one hour, but hopefully not. We can have different shots, hats, etc., to mix up same people and won't use all the pictures in the same booklet anyway. However, once we decide on a date, I can invite a few others. There is construction at Columbia Heights but not at the Tivoli and Parc Triangle projects which have been completed.

>>> Larry M. Levine 08/03/06 9:51 AM >>>

My Thursday nights in August have just filled up quickly... Right now, my choices are Aug 24 (I will of be off Aug 21-23) or Aug 31. I also have a few possible Tuesdays.

I have a few questions:

If you want to do photograph these 3 places- BusBoys and Poets U Strest area), Columbia Heights and 7th street outside Gallery Place, my guess is that we could do all three in about an hour. If there are distant crowd shots (not focusing on individuals), there may be no problem. However, if you want close-ups of people, and you are only bringing three people, won't it look a bit odd to have the same three people in all of the photos?

Also, isn't there still a lot of construction at Columbia Heights?

It's always better to have as many questions as possible answered before going on a photo shoot.

Larry

>>> Rosalyn Doggett 08/02/06 4:31 PM >>>
How about next Thursday, August 10? Kathy, Phillip and I will go out with you so that if you need faces, we will provide the close up ones.

>>> Larry M. Levine 08/02/06 10:34 AM >>>
A Thursday night- depending on which Thursday would probably work. The Saturday morning- probably not- but I can put you in touch with a photographer who has worked for us in the past, and you can discuss costs with her.

Larry

>>> Rosalyn Doggett 08/02/06 10:27 AM >>>
Yes, the deadline for this current JDS has passed. However, we are expecting to have a mid-year solicitation for Royal Street and Shaw Howard, and I thought it would be good to get pictures of summer crowds during August. Sorry for the confusion.

So, if you would rather do a Thursday evening, and Gary L. will give you comp time, that's fine. Am I correct in assuming that if we wanted pictures of the Farmer's Market at Court House on a Saturday morning, that would also be a time when you do not work?

>>> Larry M. Levine 08/02/06 10:07 AM >>>
Other nights are possible, depending upon my schedule I would have to know in advance, and get the OK to work comp time to cover this.

I'm a bit confused- I thought that your deadline for photos was last week- that's why I went out when it was well into the 90's to get the photos you neeed for the project.

What is the deadline?

Larry

>>> Rosalyn Doggett 08/02/06 9:03 AM >>>
Larry, is it Friday night or any night?

Some time in August-- if you are not going on vacation-- I would like to round up a small group of people and go on a Friday evening to those places where we missed getting crowds:

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED WMATA-INV 013022

1. BusBoys and Poets
2. Columbia Heights
3. 7th street outside Gallery Place

All these places are beehives of activity around 6 or 7 (we could NOT get into Clyde's for dinner at 5:45 last week without an hour's wait-- so we went to Tosca instead so we could see Mongolian Ping Pong at 7:10 at the E St. Cinema; I just didn't want you to think we are typical "early bird" diners!)

Is this something that you can do? We can top it off with a cocktail.....

Barry, there is some miscommunication, and I think a meeting to clear it up with you and Ellen might be useful. Kathy Mitchell, who left the voice mail and is the new manager of joint development, is just focusing on DC terminology so might have not hit every nail on the head, but these are the issues that we see:

1. The Western Bus Garage site goes back to 44th St and over to the alley behind Harrison St. The southwest part of that site is now in a conservation area on the Policy Map, and we did suggest a Regional Center designation which would not preclude housing but could allow regional retail, a reasonable fit on the total site. I think that you are now suggesting Main Street, the implications of which are unclear in terms of density on the Future Land Use Map because it is hard to read the Future Land Use map colors when there are stripes over a base color.

2. The Future Land Use Map-- to which I have not yet applied a magnifying glass!-- appears to show the southwest part of the site (location of existing obsolete garage) as moderate, not even medium, density. This would seemingly not give enough density to WMATA to support the cost of redeveloping the garage and seems too low anyway given that the area is on the doorstep of a Metro Station, so we would like to see a higher designation if my initial read is correct. We are also interested in a designation that makes it clear that the Future Land Use Map contemplates a continued bus garage on the site, maybe a public utility striping.

3. We sent a letter to Ellen on June 22 covering these points and more. I am attaching the electronic version to this e-mail.

As I said at the beginning, I think that it would be useful to have a short meeting to go over our concerns and your thinking. I would suggest the week of July 10-- toward the end of the week if that is convenient for all of you. I can do Wednesday, the 12th, in the afternoon or any time Thursday or Friday. Please suggest some times to Kathy, as I will be away next week.

Thanks for the prompt reply to Kathy's voice message.

>>> "Miller, Barry (OP)" <Barry.Miller@dc.gov> 06/29/06 4:38 PM >>>
Roz-

I'm responding to the voice mail I received earlier regarding the map designations for the WMATA bus garage site. Based on the message, there may be a miscommunication about the different maps that accompany the Comprehensive Plan.

The map recently posted to the website is the Future Land Use Map, which indicates uses and densities. This map does not show regional centers, neighborhood centers, etc. Rather, it identifies commercial areas, residential areas, institutional areas, etc.

The map that was addressed by WMATA in its written comments on the Draft Plan is the "Policy Map", which is a separate map. The Policy Map shows areas where major land use changes are envisioned, along with business districts (including regional centers, Neighborhood Main Streets, Multi-neighborhood centers, and neighborhood centers) and conservation areas.

WMATA requested that the Western Bus Garage be part of the Friendship Heights Regional Center rather than in the Conservation Area. This request is under consideration. Given that regional centers are intended to be major retail/office hubs and employment centers, we believe that the "Neighborhood Main Street" designation is more applicable. The Neighborhood Main Street designation is applied to areas where ground floor retail and upper story housing is envisioned; it applies to much of the Wisconsin Avenue corridor, as well as areas like Georgia Avenue and H Street NE. In any event, the bus garage will not appear as part of the Conservation area on the Policy Map.

On Tuesday night, the Housing Finance Agency Board selected a development team which includes Trammell Crow, CSG Urban, Hagans Development and FGLA (Fred Greene) to purchase and redevelop the HFA headquarters site at 815 Florida Avenue NW. The proposed project will be mixed use with mixed income residential above a retail / destination use ground level.

The redevelopment of this site is a critical implementation step of the "DUKE: Development Framework for a Cultural Destination District within Washington, DC's Greater Shaw / U Street."

Trammell Crow and Hagans Development have also partnered with Howard University to develop Howard Town Center Phase I at Georgia Avenue and V Street NW. The District and Howard are working on a land swap agreement to facilitate HTC Phase I. The project will produce 322 apartment units, approximately 70,000 SF retail and 450 parking spaces. The retail component of this project will include a new neighborhood grocery store.

Good afternoon, Omar

It is time for me to start preparing materials for our upcoming March Board meeting. Can you let me know today whether you will be forwarding revised lease terms per Steve Goldin's e-mail of a few weeks ago—and, if so when—or whether your offer will remain unchanged.

Thanks much,

At this morning's meeting of the Metro Board Real Estate Committee, they indicated their dissatisfaction with the proposed purchase price. Please advise if that is your last and final offer or if you are willing to negotiate further. I should add that the Committee also made clear that they were seeking more than incremental movement in the purchase price.

Roz,

Thanks for your email. What Steve and I spoke about was how you and Marshall I believe came up with the $14M figure. Since our team never offered wmata $14M to lease the sites (we offered an annual lease with some escalations and share in capital events), can you send us your calculations on how you or your team or advisors came up with this. This is critical as we evaluate our response to Steve's request to us following yesterday's Board meeting.

Thank you.

Good morning, Omar. Steve asked me to let you know that when we present projects to our Board, we calculate the present value of a) the stream of fixed dollar payments to WMATA provided in a developer's offer b) plus the residual value of the land to WMATA at the end of the lease term. I hope that this provides you with the information that you need. If I can be of further help, please call me in the next hour after which I will be out of the office.

Steve,

This is very unfortunate as we thought both WMATA staff and our team had come to terms both a few months ago and more recently when we increased our price by about 40% at what we thought was the direction of the Board. We will consult our counsel and hopefully get back with you by end of next week.

Steve,

Thanks for your email. 100% of the revenue shown on our 9/30/09 financial statements, including the $1.7M in accounts receiveables, have been realized and received by Banneker. We did not show any long-term receiveables/anticipated revenues for the park and recreation center work for any period that we had not completed work for under the contract with DC Housing Enterprises, which the DC Council unlawfully cancelled, and for which we are considering all of our legal options.

As of date, Banneker's financial status is stronger than it has ever been, and with our current cash on hand, coupled with our experienced staff, current and anticipated work load, and team of experts working on the Jazz, we are extremely confident that we will be able to complete this project in a timely manner and bring significant short and long term financial resources to WMATA, which based on the news accounts we've read, is needed at this time. Moreover, since a majority of the equity needed for the project is coming from other sources besides Banneker (private equity, HUD-insured loan, TIF, PILOT, etc), this further reduces any risk that any WMATA Board member may have about our ability to financially perform. In fact, unlike many other developers who can't get a construction or perm loan these days, since we have our lender and other sources lined up, the Board should consider this project as strong as, if not stronger, than any Joint Development Project that WMATA currently has in the pre-development stages and should feel confident about moving forward with us.

Please let me know if you have any further questions.

My best,

Omar

I know that someone on the Board is likely to inquire as to where on the financial statements you submitted, ending 9/30/09, the anticipated revenue from the DC contracts is located. I'm assuming that the recent newspaper articles, which appeared post 9/30, means that some of the revenue shown on the statements will not be realized. Please advise

The term sheet is on the agenda for the Jan 14, 2010 Planning Development & Real Estate Committee meeting, Executive Session, along with a request to extend time to negotiate an agreement. I will not know the Board's response until then.

Tuesday is fine for providing that information.

Thanks again
R.

Ms. Doggett,

Thank you for your email. Our accountants should be able to provide us with our 3Q08 statements by next week. Would COB next Tuesday be okay to provide you all the statements and sources and uses? Can you provide information as to where we are with the Term Sheet? What was the Board's response to the information that you provided them following our last meeting? As we've discussed, these delays have and continue to cause us significant delays in our schedule.

Thank you in advance.

Steve,

We are trying to figure out a way to provide the Board with comfort in a deal that we work out with the Staff to move this project forward. As such, based on the memo that you all sent to the Board on 11/6/09, as well as conversations that Staff is having with the Board about the initial NPV that Staff told the Board that we had agreed to pay them in early 2008 versus the current NPV that we agreed to pay most recently ($3.03M - $4.28M from the 11/6/09 memo), prior to today's noon meeting, can you send us a quick breakdown of how the Staff came up with the NPV and land appraisal presented to the Board last year and compare it with the NPV and appraisal that the Staff presented to the Board on 11/5/09. We believe that the NPV that we offered for the land in 07 and 08 is $7-8.5M, depending on the discount rate used. If the new land value based on the independent appraisals that WMATA obtained is now $2.2M, our current offer of $3.03M - $4.28M would be consistent with the old land value (lets say $4M), and old NPV, say $7.5M. Thus, the new offer would be consistent with the new appraisal. Moreover, since we were selected, IZ rules were put into place, which further reduces the value of the land. Thus, any old NPV that we offered (lets say $7.5M), would even be reduced because of the IZ rules now in effect. When we meet later today, we are prepared to discuss providing WMATA with some increase in the capitalized lease payment; however, in order to do so, we need to have an understanding of what NPV WMATA told the Board we offered initially as the Board is using this old value to compare it with the new value. However, as you and the other staff have been well aware since we initially submitted our offer in 2007, because we are using FHA-insured financing, we will not be allowed to re-set the amount paid to WMATA during the term of the loan period because FHA does not allow it. WMATA staff is well aware of these rules as it has done many Joint Development projects that were FHA-insured.

Thank you in advance.

Importance: High

Steve,

Below are our responses to your email from last Thursday:

1. WMATA: The initial capitalized lease payment was deemed insufficient and must be increased.

   Developer Response:
   A. The capitalized lease payment was determined by WMATA's independent third-party appraisers based on their opinion of fair market value after considering the development restrictions/requirements to be imposed by the District and the additional costs of constructing on top of the tunnel.
   B. The determination of the fair market capitalized rent did not consider the additional consideration WMATA will receive from Participating Rent at 1.5% of effective gross receipts or Premium Rent at 2% of gross capital proceeds after repayment of debt. The appraiser specifically noted that in the appraisal because such rent is in addition to the fair market value appraisal.
   C. Based on the Additional Density which we expect to build on the Total Project (WMATA's land and the adjoining land in Square 393) and the formula for increasing the capitalized base rent payment in the Term Sheet for WMATA's land, the final, capitalized lease payment (as determined by WMATA in the 11/6/09 memo to the Board) is expected to be between $3.03M and $4.28M, which is between 50% and 100% of the land appraised value as determined by WMATA's independent appraiser.

   If you are available to meet tomorrow to discuss what the staff and Board has in mind about paying more than 50% to 100% more than the appraised value of the land, I will make myself available.

2. The lack of a payment "reset" for the first 60 years was deemed unacceptable. The Board wants to see earlier resets and we propose a reset every ten years as a starting point for discussion.

   A. As you recall, the list below summarizes the initial/renal terms for 11 other WMATA joint development projects as provided to us by Nat a few weeks ago:

Ballston	60+39
Bethesda	50+49
Dupont Circle	50+49
Dunn Loring	20+(4) 10
Farragut	50+49
Friendship Heights	30+multiple 30
1400 Eye	50+49
Metro Center	58+41
Prince Georges Plaza	59+40
Van Ness	50+49
White Flint	55+20+20

   Based on zoning information, the Dunn Loring Station project included the fee purchase of a majority of the site and a ground lease of a small portion of the site next to the WMATA Garage where a private garage and 30,000 square feet of retail were jointly being developed. Without the fee purchase of the much larger parcel where 672 condominium units and 20,000 square feet of commercial development will occur, no developer would have accepted the rent adjustment on the leased parcel after 20 years. Therefore, to present Dunn Loring as solely a "2+(4) 10" ground lease is not accurate. Also, to our knowledge, the Dunn Loring project has not gone forward because the developer cannot get financing and should not be considered an existing project until it is successfully financed on the terms WMATA presented.

   We don't have any information on the Friendship Heights Station ground lease. If it does not include a high percentage of residential rental units with a good percentage of affordable units, we respectfully believe it is not comparable to the Shaw/Florida Ave. project.

   B. It is currently not possible to finance a mixed-use, retail and multifamily project with affordable units with any currently available loan program that does not involve the U.S. Government (HUD/FHA) or the GSE's (Fannie Mae, Freddie Mac) and some sort of government financial support for the affordable units. All of these lending programs are fixed-rate with long maturities. The FHA 220 loan program which has a loan term of 40 years after converting to a permanent loan is the only currently available loan program available for the planned improvements. FHA will not permit a rent increase to have priority over its loan payments and will limit the Percentage Rent ahead of its loan payments to one percent of effective gross rent.

C. The proposal that we submitted since day one showed that we intended to obtain HUD financing, which requires a fixed term of the length of the loan (40 years) plus at least 10 years, making a lease term at least 50 years. WMATA has done several deals that were HUD insured and knows HUD's requirements about not re-setting during the term of the "insured period", which is 50 years at a minimum.

We would consider shortening the fixed term to 50 years and then proposing market adjustments every twenty years if the deal was a 50 year lease with a 49 year option (similar to Bethesda, Dupont, Farragut, 1400 Eye, etc.). However, any term less than 60 years, which WMATA's RFP stated the minimum lease term would be, would make the deal less valuable, and thus, would certainly impact our ability to pay more under a capitalized lease structure discussed in #1 above. However, we remain committed to working with the Staff and Board to come to financial terms that make sense for all parties involved.

Please let me know if you are available to meet tomorrow to hopefully come to an agreement on these issues.

Have a good evening.

The Board took no action today after discussing the matter. Following the meeting, staff has been directed to submit a memo to the Board on Wednesday 11/25/09, addressing these issues in order for the Board to reconsider the approval of a term sheet for the lease on 11/30/09:

1) The initial capitalized lease payment was deemed insufficient and must be increased.
2) The lack of a payment "reset" for the first 60 years was deemed unacceptable. The Board wants to see earlier resets and we propose a reset every ten years as a starting point for discussion.

Subject: RE: Shaw-Howard/Florida Avenue Term Sheet Answers to Board Questions

Nat,

Thanks for your comments. If there is anything that we can do to help provide the Board with answers and clarity on the deal, including the value that WMATA would receive, please let us know.

As for Q3 below, the request was really to re-iterate that the Developer has agreed to pay what wmata's independent appraisal came back at. As for Q11, should staff include both appraisals in the package to the Board? We think it would be a good idea to do so, particularly as Board members have requested additional informaiton.

As discussed yesterday, prior to the staff sending the Board the information, can you forward the info to us in case we can provide further clarity on the information being sent. We can review it very quickly and can get you any comments w/n an hour of you all sending the info to us.

As for moving forward, since you and Carol will be out of the office for the first few days next week, can we have a quick call today (anytime other than 12-2) about what we can do in the interim while the Board reviews the additional information being sent to them? As discussed with Carol yesterday, the four documents that need to be negotiated for the December meeting are:

1. JDA
2. Lease
3. CCRs
4. Co-tenancy agreement

Carol also indicated that she has committed significant resources to get the papers documented over the next few weeks, including assigning an attorney to work on each individual document. This is extremely helpful.

As for 1, we provided full comments to the draft you sent already and await comments from staff.

As for 2, we think using a document that both wmata and the Developer's counsel has worked on would be the best starting point to get us to the finish line in the next 3-4 weeks. However, if you want us to use the draft lease that was sent over to us a while ago, we can do that. The drawback is that our counsel will probably mark it up so much so as to make it similar to the other deal that you all worked on. It will be save all parties involved a TON OF MONEY and TON OF TIME to start with the already negotiated lease as at least a basis for getting this done. We can even use a marked-up version of it that you send to us as a basis. Thoughts?

As for 3, what would be your timetable for sending the CCRs to us? If we get them in a week, John Hagner can spend a week reviewing and providing any comments. We could then turn them around to you all and spend the next week finalizing them.

As for 4, John can get staff the co-tenancy agreement in a week we believe.

Thanks for your entire team working to get this thing done.

Importance: High

Mark,

Per my conversation with Nat earlier today, please advise if we can provide you with any additional information to help answer the questions that the Board raised today, including: the value of % of the anticipated Effective Gross Income for the first 60 years. Few more questions:

1. What was provided to Board members for other deals in the past? CONFIDENTIAL TERM SHEET THAT WAS PROVIDED YESTERDAY IS STANDARD; ADDITIONAL INFORMATION IN RESPONSE TO SPECIFIC BOARD MEMBER QUESTIONS IS NOT UNUSUAL
2. Should the summary to the Board that you intend to send to the Board tomorrow provide the appraised value of the property based on the lease transaction of 60 years? IT SHOULD PROVIDE THE FULL EXPECTED VALUE OF THE TRANSACTION OVER ITS TERM
3. Should it state that the Developer has agreed to pay this value? THIS QUESTION WORRIES ME. WHY WOULDN'T IT STATE THAT THE DEVELOPER AGREES TO PAY THIS VALUE?
4. Should it include an estimate of what the Developer anticipates paying WMATA for the additional density that we anticipate building on the WMATA sites? YES, IT SHOULD
5. Should it include an estimate of what the Developer anticipates paying WMATA for the additional density that we anticipate building on the portion of the alley that will be given to WMATA after it is closed? YES
6. Should it state that the Developer is not requesting any subsidies from WMATA, including Transit Infrastructure Investment Funds (TIFF)? Think this is critical since some Developers near WMATA sites have requested and WMATA has granted subsidies. NO, BUT THAT COULD BE A POINT THAT A SUPPORTIVE BOARD MEMBER MIGHT WANT TO MAKE. HOWEVER, NO-ONE BUT A DC BOARD MEMBER WILL CARE ABOUT THIS, SINCE EACH JURISDICTION IS ALLOCATED ITS OWN TIIF FUNDS. THE THING THAT MD AND VA BOARD MEMBERS CARE ABOUT MOST IS THAT THE OTHER JURISDICTIONS USE THEIR DEVELOPMENT DEALS TO GENERATE THE MOST POSSIBLE VALUE INTO THE TIIF AS A WHOLE. THEY'RE MORE CONCERNED ABOUT GENERATING REVENUE TO THE TIIF THAN THEY ARE ABOUT HOW DC USES ITS TIIF MONEY.
7. Should it include examples of how this deal is extremely similar to other deals that WMATA has and is currently working on? THAT WOULD BE HELPFUL TO INCLUDE IN A COVER MEMO TRANSMITTING THE INFORMATION
8. Should it state that the Developer will provide a minimum of 8% IZ units which is more than what the Developer originally agreed to in 2008? THAT INFORMATION IS CLEAR FROM THE TERMS SHEET, BUT IT WOULD BE APPROPRIATE FOR A SUPPORTIVE BOARD MEMBER TO EMPHASIZE THAT POINT.
9. Should it state that the Developer anticipates closing on the project by the end of next year, which is almost one year sooner than the original term sheet? THE BOARD MEMBERS ARE MORE INTERESTED IN THE DATES THAT ARE SET AS LIMITS. THEY'RE GENERALLY NOT INTERESTED IN STATEMENTS ABOUT INTENT, WILLINGNESS, ETC. THEY DON'T BELIEVE SUCH STATEMENTS HAVE MUCH VALUE.
10. Should it state that the Developer has continued to remain push forward with the project in spite of the collapse of the debt and equity markets NO, THOUGH A SUPPORTIVE COULD MAKE THAT POINT
11. Should the staff provide copies of the actual Term Sheet that was finalized yesterday, both appraisals, drawings of the project, etc? THE BOARD MEMBERS DID RECEIVE THE FINAL TERM SHEET, AND ELEMENTS OF IT WERE REVIEWED. WE WILL RESEND.

Can we schedule a quick call tomorrow to discuss when you all will send the Board answers to their questions as well as when the Board will re-convene to consider approval of the Term Sheet again.

As discussed with WMATA staff over the past several months, it is critical that we get the Term Sheet, JDA and Lease finalized as our financing will be jeopardized should delays continue beyond a few more weeks.

Thank you in advance.

Omar

Josh,

In preparation of tomorrow's Board meeting, attached are the following:

1. Amended and Restated Term Sheet revised in accordance with the discussions since Monday, which finalizes our understanding; and
2. "Redline" of the Amended and Restated Term Sheet against the version that we provided to WMATA on November 2, 2009 at 6:20p.

The revised language on Capital Events was taken from the term sheet for Rhode Island Ave., and the concept of adjusting the base rent for additional density stops after the first 60 years because the re-appraisal will be based on the Leased Property as if vacant, thereby assuming the maximum density has been constructed on the land.

Please contact me with any questions or comments.

Importance: High

Nat,

Thanks for the information. We appreciate it. As previously discussed, the conversation that Mr. Graham and I had was to go from a sale to a 99 year flat lease. In the worst economy in more than 50 years, as a Joint Development Deal, having terms that would allow WMATA's development partner to secure as flexible financing on an on-going basis would be the most beneficial use to all parties involved, including WMATA as a participant in annual cash flow as well as Capital Events. A 60 year base lease would reduce the value of the deal since we are using HUD financing which is a 40 year term plus a requirement that any lease have at least 10 years beyond the loan term. Thus, under a 60 year lease, we would be prohibited from re-financing the project in just 10 years from now, which is a great detriment to the project. As a compromise, we would be prepared to enter into a 75 yr + 24 year option. Would this be acceptable to you?

Omar

Importance: High

Steve,

Thank you for reaching out this evening. Per your request, this email serves as a recap of our discussion:

Agreed to Items:

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED WMATA-INV 013076

1. Co-tenancy Agreement – John Hagner and the Developers spoke this evening and we are in agreement with the terms of the conversation that John had with Carol this afternoon. John will send over an updated Term Sheet tomorrow by noon with these changes, along with the ones below as well.
2. $100,000 Expense Credit from going to Lease from Sale – The Developer will provide further back-up for our legal bills with the days and amount of time on the bills being shown but not the confidential description of the work as this is attorney-client privilege.

Open Issues:

3. Guarantee – Developer proposes $1.5M.
4. Capital Event Participation – Developer proposes that WMATA receive 1.5% of gross proceeds; this is a change from the 20% IRR that Developer was to receive previously before WMATA would begin sharing in the proceeds.
5. Term of Lease – Developer proposes 99 year straight lease as this is what was agreed to between the Developer and Mr. Graham in order to go from a sale to a lease. Discussions to be held with Mr. Graham in the morning to finalize term.

We look forward to finalizing these few issues by noon or 1pm (ET) tomorrow.

Have a great night.

Importance: High

Malcolm,

Are you avail for a quick call with Pat Kerr of Integra Realty Resources (IRR) later this morning to discuss IRR updating their appraisal to a 99-year lease vs the 60-year lease with an option that they based on the initial appraisal on? If so, would 9:30 or 11:30 work? IRR can provide the update by this afternoon; it's a quick calculation for them. Alternatively, we are okay with you simply calling them to request the update so long as we can get it this afternoon. We're hoping that we can meet with Steve and Roz this afternoon to come to an agreement on the outstanding issues of the Term Sheet and the updated appraisal would help us do this. By getting the updated appraisal today, we should be able to finalize all of the terms of the Term Sheet by COB today so that the Term Sheet or summary of the Term Sheet can go to the Board this week.

Thanks in advance.

Steve,

Thank you for the updated Term Sheet. We have reviewed it and will provide comments to you by noon on Monday, incorporating Carol O'Keefee's discussions with John Hagner yesterday. We hope that the comments will sufficiently incorporate the understandings b/t WMATA and the Developer. In order to meet Thursday's Board meeting deadline, can we meet on Monday afternoon to finalize any outstanding items of the Term Sheet? If so, would 3-4:30 work?

Several items that we would particularly like to wrap up is the value of the 99-year lease and the guaranty. The appraisal has the lease at 60 years, but under our agreement with Mr. Graham and Mr. Catoe to change the deal from a sale to a lease, the lease would be a straight 99 year term. As such, can you reach out to the appraiser and have them adjust the term to 99 years. Based on the calculations that the appraiser showed on the last 2 pages of the appraisal, we can rather easily calculate the value of the lease for 99 years. As such, we would be prepared to accept the value of the 99 year lease assuming it is similar to what we believe it to be based on NPV calculations out to 99 years. As for the guarantee, I believe Carol was going to discuss the conversation that she had with John Hagner yesterday and appraise us of her thoughts. We hope that we can get the results of the discussion prior to Monday's proposed meeting time of 3:00. Would this be possible?

Thank you in advance and we look forward to wrapping this up next week.

Have a great weekend.

Carol,

As a follow-up to your conversation with John, can you select a time that we can meet in person to finalize the business terms of the Term Sheet, including the discussion on the guarantee and co-tenancy agreement. The Developer never agreed that the co-tenancy agreement wouldn't be used. Who mentioned this to you? Accepting the co-tenancy agreement was an indispensable part of changing from a sale to a lease and this was agreed to by Mr. Graham and Mr. Catoe last week. We will make ourselves available whatever time you select tomorrow.

I have spoken with John at length today and we will resume tomorrow. I'm not sure what you mean by saying that the co-tenancy agreement is not an issue; I was not told that it would not be used; there really isn't much other option given the physical reality of this project, unless under a default situation you are prepared to vacate and wall-off the part of the structure that is on WMATA property.

Roz and Steve,

We believe that some schedule would be appropriate to get all of the items mentioned in your email complete. Can you work with us to commit to some dates on the following open items?

- Joint Development Agreement. We have provided comprehensive (not provisional) comments to the JDA almost 2 months ago when we were initially going down the lease route and await WMATA's comments. Please advise when we will receive these comments.

- Lease. To save time AND even more money, we requested almost 2 months ago that we use the lease for the RI Avenue deal since WMATA Staff and the Board has signed off on it and the counsel for the Developer for that deal and this deal is the same (John Hagner). Mr. Graham agreed that if we changed from a sale to a lease, WMATA staff would get this thing done in 2 weeks. If we don't use some type of form that WMATA and the Developer has already worked with (RI deal), then this would clearly kill any timing to get the deal finalized in the time promised by Mr. Graham. Steve and Carol, please confirm that we are going to use the RI form. If so, as soon as the Term Sheet is finalized b/t the staff and the Developer, John is willing to update it to reflect the terms of this deal and get it to you asap.

- CCRs. As soon as the Term Sheet is complete, we will turn around comments to the CCRs within a few days.

- Right of Entry Agreement. Josh has our comments from August 2008.

- Guaranty. Our counsel has a call in to Carol O'Keeffe today about the guaranty and is awaiting her call which based on an email that I read, she was going to make this afternoon. Carol, any word on the call?

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED

- Co-tenancy agreement. Mr. Graham and Mr. Catoe agreed that the co-tenancy would no longer be an issue. To save time and more money, can our counsel and Carol have a quick call to discuss this to ensure that everyone is on the same page with what needs to be the agreement before we spend a ton of money on having John draft something. Carol, are you available this afternoon or tomorrow to discuss this with John?

- Metes and Bounds Survey and full ALTA Title Report. As Roz indicated, this does not have to be provided prior to the Term Sheet or JDA being approved. An ALTA survey costs additional money and until the Term Sheet and JDA are approved, we cannot authorize the surveyor to spend even more money to do this. However, we commit to getting it done in plenty of time prior to the closing on the lease.

Two final questions:

- Which of the above items, if any, are necessary for the Term Sheet to go to the Board next week?
- Which Board meeting are we planning to submit the JDA and Lease at?
- Think we can get verbal results of the appraisal tomorrow so that we can look at the Term Sheet knowing what the financial terms from the appraisal will be?

A Joint Development Agreement with the following exhibits needs to be taken to the Board:
1. Lease
2. Covenants, Conditions and Restrictions (CCR's)
3. Right of Entry Agreement
4. Guaranty
5. Co-tenancy agreement
6. Metes and Bounds Survey and full ALTA Title Report from developer (we can delay this until the Closing on the lease and continue to use the property outline and lot descriptions for purposes of the JDA; the metes and bounds survey would be the basis for descriptions of WMATA reserved areas: tunnels, etc. in the lease)

Status: The developer has the JDA plus items 1-4 drafted by WMATA. The developer is in the process of drafting a co-tenancy agreement, which would not have been necessary under a sale. The other items, with a sales agreement instead of a lease, would be needed under either type of disposition.

Our counsel and Banneker's have agreed that once we have agreed to a Term Sheet, they will mark up the JDA and items 1-4 (note: Banneker has previously provided provisional comments to the JDA, but not the other documents). We are uncertain of the timing by Banneker's counsel to send us the initial draft of item 5.

Banneker's counsel would like to draft a new lease based on the Rhode Island Ave lease, instead of working with the lease draft we sent to Banneker. However, our counsel does not agree because that is a different situation. So that is an impasse currently.

To be followed by a more complete response later this afternoon from Roz. Before closing, we would need

A final lease agreement - this has been partially negotiated, but stalled when we went to sale approach. This would include terms related to composition of team and their strength

CCRs - I think Omar has these from us, we but don't have a response

Survey - We need this from Omar; we would have needed this to close for a sale, too.

Roz and Steve,

We believe that some schedule would be appropriate to get all of the items mentioned in your email complete. Can you work with us to commit to some dates on the following open items?

- Joint Development Agreement. We have provided comprehensive (not provisional) comments to the JDA almost 2 months ago when we were initially going down the lease route and await WMATA's comments. Please advise when we will receive these comments.

- Lease. To save time AND even more money, we requested almost 2 months ago that we use the lease for the RI Avenue deal since WMATA Staff and the Board has signed off on it and the counsel for the Developer for that deal and this deal is the same (John Hagner). Mr. Graham agreed that if we changed from a sale to a lease, WMATA staff would get this thing done in 2 weeks. If we don't use some type of form that WMATA and the Developer has already worked with (RI deal), then this would clearly kill any timing to get the deal finalized in the time promised by Mr. Graham. Steve and Carol, please confirm that we are going to use the RI form. If so, as soon as the Term Sheet is finalized b/t the staff and the Developer, John is willing to update it to reflect the terms of this deal and get it to you asap.

- CCRs. As soon as the Term Sheet is complete, we will turn around comments to the CCRs within a few days.

- Right of Entry Agreement. Josh has our comments from August 2008.

- Guaranty. Our counsel has a call in to Carol O'Keeffe today about the guaranty and is awaiting her call which based on an email that I read, she was going to make this afternoon. Carol, any word on the call?

- Co-tenancy agreement. Mr. Graham and Mr. Catoe agreed that the co-tenancy would no longer be an issue. To save time and more money, can our counsel and Carol have a quick call to discuss this to ensure that everyone is on the same page with what needs to be the agreement before we spend a ton of money on having John draft something. Carol, are you available this afternoon or tomorrow to discuss this with John?

- Metes and Bounds Survey and full ALTA Title Report. As Roz indicated, this does not have to be provided prior to the Term Sheet or JDA being approved. An ALTA survey costs additional money and until the Term Sheet and JDA are approved, we cannot authorize the surveyor to spend even more money to do this. However, we commit to getting it done in plenty of time prior to the closing on the lease.

Two final questions:

- Which of the above items, if any, are necessary for the Term Sheet to go to the Board next week?
- Which Board meeting are we planning to submit the JDA and Lease at?
- Think we can get verbal results of the appraisal tomorrow so that we can look at the Term Sheet knowing what the financial terms from the appraisal will be?

A Joint Development Agreement with the following exhibits needs to be taken to the Board:
1. Lease
2. Covenants, Conditions and Restrictions (CCR's)
3. Right of Entry Agreement
4. Guaranty
5. Co-tenancy agreement
6. Metes and Bounds Survey and full ALTA Title Report from developer (we can delay this until the Closing on the lease and continue to use the property outline and lot descriptions for purposes of the JDA; the metes and bounds survey would be the basis for descriptions of WMATA reserved areas: tunnels, etc. in the lease)

Status: The developer has the JDA plus items 1-4 drafted by WMATA. The developer is in the process of drafting a co-tenancy agreement, which would not have been necessary under a sale. The other items, with a sales agreement instead of a lease, would be needed under either type of disposition.

Our counsel and Banneker's have agreed that once we have agreed to a Term Sheet, they will mark up the JDA and items 1-4 (note: Banneker has previously provided provisional comments to the JDA, but not the other documents). We are uncertain of the timing by Banneker's counsel to send us the initial draft of item 5.

Banneker's counsel would like to draft a new lease based on the Rhode Island Ave lease, instead of working with the lease draft we sent to Banneker. However, our counsel does not agree because that is a different situation. So that is an impasse currently.

To All:

As per direction from our Board, we are proceeding with preparing a term sheet for the lease of our property. The matter is to be taken up by the full Board in a special meeting in two weeks.

The lease will be as it was when a lease was first discussed (prior to my arrival): a capitalized payment at closing, an annual % participation in net operating income and a % participation upon various capital events (refinance, sale, etc). My understanding is that the participations had been 1.5% and 10% respectively.

By way of this e-mail, I am asking the following actions to be taken:

Omar: Please advise whether you as the developer are in agreement

Maurice: Please advise whether Bank of America CDC is in agreement

Jonathon: Please confirm that Chairman Graham is in agreement

Yohance: Please Confirm that Mr. Albert is in agreement

Roz/Malcolm: Please call Richard Harps and explain that we need the updated appraisal in hand by 10/30. Please initiate a new BAIS.

Josh/John: Please revise the term sheet to reflect the lease and discuss the co-tenancy agreement

Steve,

We are in agreement with your email with a few caveats, delineated below:

- Based on the initial format of the lease portion of the old appraisal which capitalized the EGI payments, to reduce wmata's financial exposure, we may go that route depending on where the appraisal comes in at.

- If Malcolm can get at least a verbal of the appraisal with the lease version by tomorrow or Monday, this would allow us to stay on schedule as the term sheet and lease are greatly dependent on the financial terms of the deal.

- In agreeing to go the lease route, Mr. Graham and I agreed that we may replace BOACDC with another partner. We will let you know who the new partner will be by the end of next week, if we replace BOACDC.

- The provision dealing with the reversion should be removed from all documents. Carol and I discussed this today as no financier will finance the project with this provision in it.

- Since there are no WMATA facilities to replace (parking lot, chillers, garage, etc), the language requiring a completion guarantee from a guarantor with a financial statement of the value of the cost of the project is no moment and thus should be removed. Instead, we could agree to have comply with the insurance requirements in the indemnification section. Since our design calls for us building about 10 feet above the tunnel, Carol's concerns about the tunnel is greatly mitigated as we are not going close to the tunnel in comparison to the Ellington and other projects where the underground garage is inches from the top of the tunnel. We could also require the Developer or General Contractor to post a completion or payment and performance bond naming WMATA as an insured.

Can we meet early next week to discuss where things stand?

Steve, thanks for moving this along.

Josh: Per Omar's instruction, I changed the review period in Section 8.1 back to 30 days. I also revised your insert in Section 9.8 to more precisely follow our discussions on the guarantor's liability if certain insurance coverages were not maintained. Finally, I agreed with your edits to Section 11, but added a provision that if the FHA lender has higher scopes and limits, then the Developer will provide the higher requirement.

Attached are a revised Term Sheet and a "redline" showing all changes from the version you distributed with your e-mail at 6:05p tonight. Thank you for your help in getting this done. I hope we can agree the Term Sheet is now final and all declare victory.

Josh,

We are fine with all of the changes except for the change in time to review the designs. This provision has been in all of our documents for the past 18 months and our schedule is closely tied to it. We already agreed to extend the time it could take to finalize the Definitive Agreement to December. Any additional extensions would delay our construction start and completion date, which would cause us to loose our tax credits. As discussed previously, we have to complete 10% of construction by October 2010 and 100% of construction by December 31, 2011. Since we will have to present WMATA with at least 3 separate reviews, adding another 45 days (15 more for each review), would certainly cause us to miss our deadline, and thus ensure that we loose the tax credits.

John, please review the final provision (para 11) in particular as this is also a new change.

Omar,

Attached is the revised Term Sheet with the following changes:

- Section 8.1 – the WMATA response time was extended from 30 days to 45 days. Our review staff expressed the need for more time to review. This extended time allotment will provide them with the time they need to review while allowing you to manage your schedule more accurately.
- Section 9.5 – a cosmetic change to correct the name of the WMATA Adjacent Construction Manual.
- Section 9.8 – Guaranty changes per our telephone conversation today.
- Section 11- Insurance changes per our telephone conversation today.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

There is an additional provision that you and John agreed to stating that if construction is not commenced by the third anniversary of the Definitive Agreement, then the Adjacent Construction Design Standards would be updated to include all revisions to the Design Manual since the Definitive Agreement.

Steve, et. al,

I just received a call from our counsel, John Hagner, at Womble Carlyle. John informed me that Josh Montague called him to discuss a few issues from the Term Sheet. We will agree with you on the following:

(a) the guarantee including the provision that we will pay for additional density if we build beyond what is in the Term Sheet or Definitive Agreement; and
(b) Adjacent Construction Design Standards will be as of the date of the Definitive Agreement.

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED

However, BoA cannot agree to guarantee other liabilities (indemnifications) as they are open-ended and the bank can't provide that type of guarantee. Moreover, this request is beyond what WMATA has required of other developers.

If WMATA agrees to the last issue, we it looks like we have agreed to the terms of the Term Sheet. Please advise of your position.

Josh, in the future, please call me should you have any questions about any outstanding issues.

Thank you in advance.

We will need to put a provision in the Definitive Agreement that the Developer's insurance is primary to any insurance maintained by WMATA. But this does not need to go into the Term Sheet.

Josh: Per Omar's instruction, I changed the review period in Section 8.1 back to 30 days. I also revised your insert in Section 9.8 to more precisely follow our discussions on the guarantor's liability if certain insurance coverages were not maintained. Finally, I agreed with your edits to Section 11, but added a provision that if the FHA lender has higher scopes and limits, then the Developer will provide the higher requirement.

Attached are a revised Term Sheet and a "redline" showing all changes from the version you distributed with your e-mail at 6:05p tonight. Thank you for your help in getting this done. I hope we can agree the Term Sheet is now final and all declare victory.

Josh,

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED

We are fine with all of the changes except for the change in time to review the designs. This provision has been in all of our documents for the past 18 months and our schedule is closely tied to it. We already agreed to extend the time it could take to finalize the Definitive Agreement to December. Any additional extensions would delay our construction start and completion date, which would cause us to loose our tax credits. As discussed previously, we have to complete 10% of construction by October 2010 and 100% of construction by December 31, 2011. Since we will have to present WMATA with at least 3 separate reviews, adding another 45 days (15 more for each review), would certainly cause us to miss our deadline, and thus ensure that we loose the tax credits.

John, please review the final provision (para 11) in particular as this is also a new change.

Omar,

Attached is the revised Term Sheet with the following changes:

- Section 8.1 – the WMATA response time was extended from 30 days to 45 days. Our review staff expressed the need for more time to review. This extended time allotment will provide them with the time they need to review while allowing you to manage your schedule more accurately.
- Section 9.5 – a cosmetic change to correct the name of the WMATA Adjacent Construction Manual.
- Section 9.8 – Guaranty changes per our telephone conversation today.
- Section 11- Insurance changes per our telephone conversation today.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Josh,

Attached are the revised Term Sheet and a redline of the 2 changes in Section 9.5 and 9.8 that you discussed yesterday with John Hagner and mentioned in my email. There is an additional provision that you and John agreed to stating that if construction is not commenced by the third anniversary of the Definitive Agreement, then the Adjacent Construction Design Standards would be updated to include all revisions to the Design Manual since the Definitive Agreement.

Please let me know if all of the issues have been addressed and if the Term Sheet is finalized at this point.

Thank you in advance.

Steve, et. al,

I just received a call from our counsel, John Hagner, at Womble Carlyle. John informed me that Josh Montague called him to discuss a few issues from the Term Sheet. We will agree with you on the following:

(a) the guarantee including the provision that we will pay for additional density if we build beyond what is in the Term Sheet or Definitive Agreement; and
(b) Adjacent Construction Design Standards will be as of the date of the Definitive Agreement.

However, BoA cannot agree to guarantee other liabilities (indemnifications) as they are open-ended and the bank can't provide that type of guarantee. Moreover, this request is beyond what WMATA has required of other developers.

If WMATA agrees to the last issue, we it looks like we have agreed to the terms of the Term Sheet. Please advise of your position.

Josh, in the future, please call me should you have any questions about any outstanding issues.

Thank you in advance.

Last Friday, we discussed both parties reconvening on Monday to hash through the remaining issues on the term sheet. Specifically, the questions concerning design review/approval.

I believe the intention was to get this tied up by COB, today. Can I get an update on where we are on this?

Josh,

1. I am awaiting Maurice to get back into the office to answer this question. However, I cannot imagine that a bank would allow an open-ended indemnification to be put on its books. Further, I can speak for the partnership in stating that we will not be pushed into including additional liabilities that WMATA does not require developers of other projects, and as such, we (BOACDC or BV) would not agree to taking on this non-standard additional indemnification.

2. Yes, under the HUD guidelines, the indemnifications provided by the Jazz will be limited to surplus cash? The restrictions that HUD requires for this type of project are standard practice for HUD deals which WMATA has signed off on previously. Since WMATA will be getting its cash in full up front, we do not see any issues that WMATA should be concerned about.

Omar,

Can we get some clarification on two of the issues relating to the indemnifications:

1. Does BOACDC's status as a wholly owned subsidiary of a bank legally prevent it from taking on the indemnification requested? Are there any other legal reasons why BOACDC would be prohibited from agreeing to this?

2. Will the indemnifications provided by the Jazz @ Florida Avenue, LLC (the Developer) under the Definitive Agreement be limited by its lender to "surplus cash"? Will the lender put any other restrictions on these indemnifications?

Please let me know as soon as you get a chance.

Steve, et. al,

I just received a call from our counsel, John Hagner, at Womble Carlyle. John informed me that Josh Montague called him to discuss a few issues from the Term Sheet. We will agree with you on the following:

(a) the guarantee including the provision that we will pay for additional density if we build beyond what is in the Term Sheet or Definitive Agreement; and
(b) Adjacent Construction Design Standards will be as of the date of the Definitive Agreement.

However, BoA cannot agree to guarantee other liabilities (indemnifications) as they are open-ended and the bank can't provide that type of guarantee. Moreover, this request is beyond what WMATA has required of other developers.

If WMATA agrees to the last issue, we it looks like we have agreed to the terms of the Term Sheet. Please advise of your position.

Josh, in the future, please call me should you have any questions about any outstanding issues.

Thank you in advance.

Omar

Gents –

Last Friday, we discussed both parties reconvening on Monday to hash through the remaining issues on the term sheet. Specifically, the questions concerning design review/approval.

I believe the intention was to get this tied up by COB, today. Can I get an update on where we are on this?

Thanks,

Yohance

Josh and Roz,

Attached please find the revised Term Sheet. The only change made to the document was the deletion of Section 9.8 (e). BACDC cannot agree to guaranteeing the "terms of the Definitive Agreement", as this leaves them open to many more items than simply completing the Project or putting the site back in original condition if work ceases during the excavation phase or any other items that will be in the CCRs. Our Counsel believes that the current language that is in the Term Sheet is more than sufficient. With the exclusion of subsection (e), we have no other issues.

We believe this concludes our negotiations of the Term Sheet and we are prepared to sign the Term Sheet upon the Board's Approval. Please confirm that the Term Sheet will be submitted for Board consideration at the October 22nd meeting. When you have finished cleaning up the document, can you please send us the final version that will be approved and that we hope when approved, we can execute following the Board meeting.

Thanks for everyone's hard work.

Tom,
Would you please let me know what projects are scheduled at or near WMATA Stations and Facilities that will impact landscape services.

To All,
Yesterday I met with vendors to discuss landscape renovations at PG Plaza and Arlington Cemetery. During the discussions Landscape Supervisor Duane Wilson mention that at one time there was a building planned to cover the rest of the open part of the station. Does anyone know if that is going to happen anytime soon? What current planning is for PG Plaza? We don't want to spend money then have it all removed in a couple years.

Ed,

It is possible that the construction will impact the existing planting terraces but the developer will be responsible for its protection and replacement if necessary. Another issue is to consider the resultant building and garage shadows and whether the existing planting will survive reduction of sun light.

Mark and Tariq,

We had anticipated renovating the landscape plantings at Shaw-Howard. The crew had removed existing plantings last fall. When they went back to prep for planting construction was underway.

Can either of you advise us of construction and development at Shaw-Howard?

Can you give me a summary of planned construction work or development at other stations and facilities?

Thanks,
Ed

Tom,
Would you please let me know what projects are scheduled at or near WMATA Stations and Facilities that will impact landscape services.

To All,
Yesterday I met with vendors to discuss landscape renovations at PG Plaza and Arlington Cemetery. During the discussions Landscape Supervisor Duane Wilson mention that at one time there was a building planned to cover the rest of the open part of the station. Does anyone know if that is going to happen anytime soon? What current planning is for PG Plaza? We don't want to spend money then have it all removed in a couple years.

- Easement descriptions are being finalized.

Rhode Island Ave-Brentwood Station

- Transaction closed on March 18, 2010. As part of compensation, Metro received lump-sum payment of $7,000,000 which was placed in TIIF account
- Interim parking agreement was negotiated with no on-site parking during construction phase (14 months), and provides 200 off-site spaces once the District of Columbia Department of Transportation completes construction of a pedestrian bridge over the CSX freight tracks. The interim lot will have enhanced security features that meet Metro Transit Police approval
- Construction of the 215-space Metro garage and first residential building has commenced with Metro garage completion is anticipated in June 2011 and residential buildings in June 2010.

B. Projects in Pre-Development

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Navy Yard Station (East Entrance)

- Metro will sell its 5,600 square foot site on the northwest corner of New Jersey Avenue and M Streets, SE, to Donohoe Development, which will combine the Metro site with its adjacent site to build a 211,000 square foot office building with ground floor retail
- The Sale and Development Agreement was executed in December 2007, and the developer has obtained development approvals but no tenant
- Only minor changes to Metro facilities will be required (e.g., modifying a vent shaft and paving), and no public hearing will be required
- The elevator and escalators at the site are expected to be kept in operation during construction
- In September the Board approved a one-year extension to December 2011 for a closing on the project
- The developer has recently indicated it wants to purchase the site by the end of March 2011, and closing documents are being prepared

Takoma Station

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED WMATA-INV 013128

- Metro Board approved the Compact Hearing Staff Report and amended the Adopted Regional System Plan for Takoma Station on November 8, 2007
- Metro has also approved two amendments to the Purchase and Sale Agreement which, among other things, guarantee Metro a minimum of $2,500,000 from the transaction
- FTA approved the project on March 24, 2009
- Project is delayed due to current market conditions

WHY DC SHINES

BECO Management's Living Room is just one offering that improves tenant quality of life. Learn more here, and see the ad at right.

Yesterday, we were on hand at the Lincoln Theatre on U Street as United Negro College Fund president Michael Lomax officially announced why his 66-year-old organization (in NY the first 49 years, in Fairfax the last 17) is coming to DC: The city's become the "marquee site for education reform," he says. "We've been in the suburbs way too long."

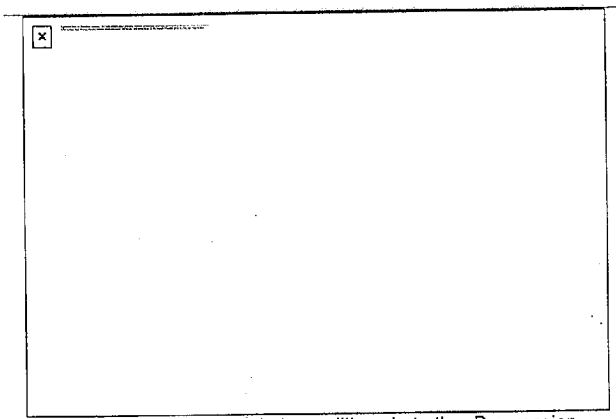
We snapped DC Mayor Vince Gray showing his approval to Lomax and other speakers who echoed the theme that DC is where it's at in this era of activist policymaking, suggesting why office assets here are making a big comeback along with the economy. UNCF is using industrial revenue bonds to buy 50k SF of a 320k SF mixed-use project called Progression Place (so named because it will be at 7th and T, next to the Howard Theatre which was known for the progression jazz of Duke Ellington, Ella Fitzgerald, Sammy Davis, Otis Redding, Lena Horne, Lionel Hampton, and many others).

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED



No, these are not The Batchelor auditions but other Progression Place players joining Michael and the mayor on stage: developer John Gerber of Four Points, Eagle Bank vice chair Bob Pincus, DC Council chair Kwame Brown, and developer Bill Jarvis. The project will include 100k SF of Class-A LEED-certified office, 20k SF of street-level retail, 205 apartments (of which 51 will be affordable and workforce), and a 5k SF "college knowledge center" offering help with school applications and standardized test prep.

Ellis Development CEO Chip Ellis is also part of the development team. Looking on: Rep. Eleanor Holmes Norton, who lauded UNCF's move by saying education has meant freedom for many African-Americans here and that it's significant the office will be in Shaw, which she called the most historic of DC's neighborhoods. The mayor says education is what "levels the playing field."

Eagle Bank's Bob Pincus talked of providing $13M of construction financing. Architects are Eric Colbert and Devereaux & Purnell, contractors are Davis and Gilford, construction started in December, and move-in is expected in 18 months.

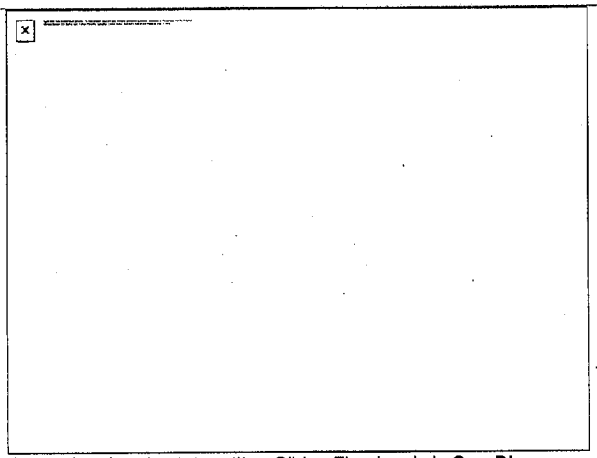
MONEY MONEY MONEY

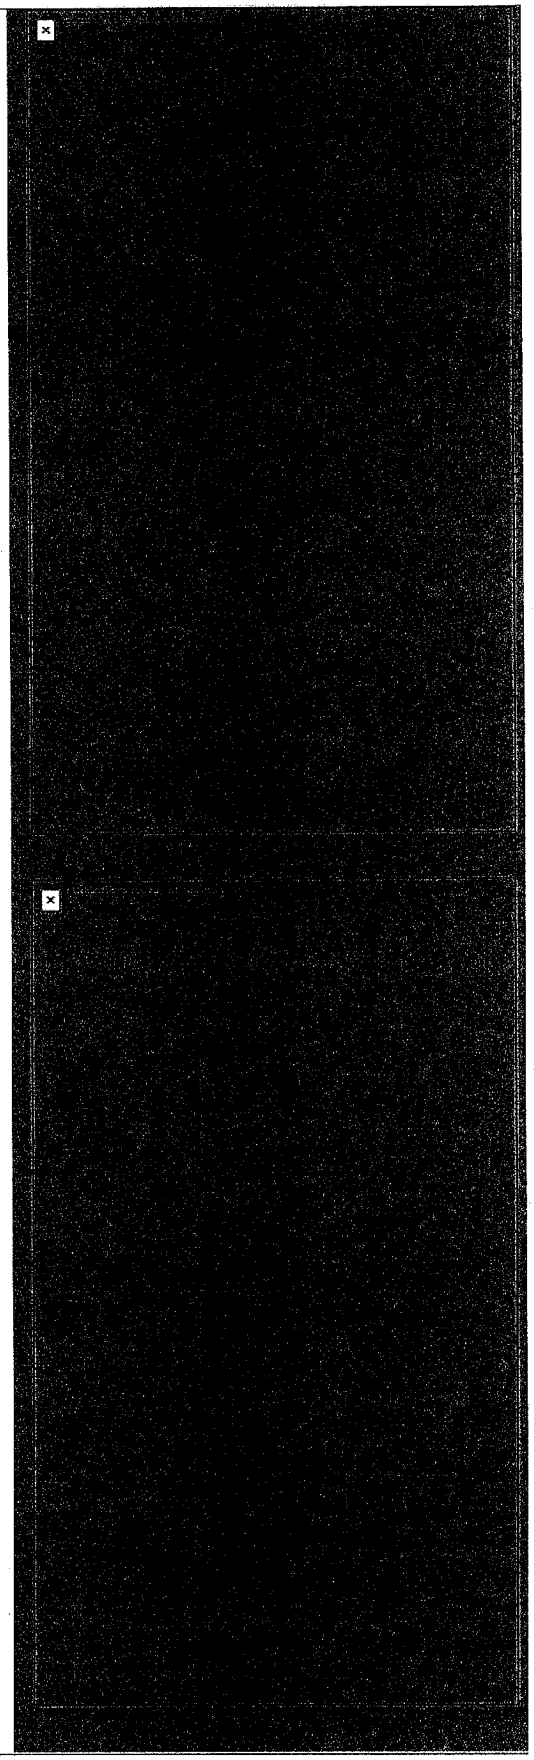
FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED WMATA-INV 013134



Our national real estate editor, Sibley Fleming, is in San Diego today covering the annual Mortgage Bankers Association finance and multifamily convention. She snapped these panelists saying that fundamentals are improving, assets are becoming more financeable, and real estate is looking good as a global investment again: MBA chairman Michael Berman (CEO of CWCapital), KeyBank Real Estate Capital EVP E.J. Burke, Cohen Financial CEO Jack Cohen, Morgan Stanley managing director Timothy Gallagher, Principal Real Estate Investors CEO Patrick Halter, and PNC Real Estate/Midland Loan Services EVP Diana Reid. Tim says during the boom, Morgan Stanley made casino and construction loans, which it shouldn't have, and the "spotlight on us right now is so much brighter than it's ever been."

We're about halfway through distressed loan workouts and de-levering, Diana says, and the process is slow—asset by asset, borrower by borrower, situation by situation. The good news: The flow into special servicing is now equal to the outflow. As FDIC bank closings pick up, it's part of the sign that we're working our way through. E.J. says there's a perception there is tons more bad debt, but the top 25 banks' higher-quality loans make up 85% of the market, while the remaining 7,750 small banks that typically did the riskier deals (eg, construction loans) make up 15% of the market.

SUPER SCHMOOZE SNEAK PEEK: PING PONG DIM SUM



FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED WMATA-INV 013135

Among the 25 restaurants serving at our Super Schmooze III at the National Building Museum tomorrow (Wed) evening: Ping Pong Dim Sum! The best way to describe dim sum, says sales and marketing manageer Myca Ferrer, is to call it Chinese tapas: individual servings of dishes meant to be shared. A lot of it's steamed, hence the steam mural in the background. The 7th and Eye St. NW location is the first in the US, but another is coming this summer just off Dupont Circle, and over 20 more will open in the States in the next five years. More on Ping Pong here.

We snapped chief mixologist Sheara Rivera with a few offerings: steamed lobster dumplings and a lemongrass and lime cocktail. On the bar, there's a ginger and limoncello caipirinha, non-alcoholic hot flowering tea, and fish rolls (we didn't let any of it go to waste). Myca tells us two great times for dim sum are Sunday brunch (11am to 4pm, $45/person for unlimited food and mimosas), and Yum Cha, the 4 to 7pm, seven-day-a- week happy hour featuring "secret" dim sum specials. Want to do a taste test before you head over? See Ping Pong at Bisnow's Super Schmooze III this Wednesday at the National Building Museum. Sign up now!

I was just about to send you a letter also. Probably should have checked with you before drafting. Since it is already done, my version is attached. I think that they are both fine for our purposes here.

One question about the deposit for you. In the Term Sheet, in Section 6.5, we promise to return the deposit plus interest upon receipt of C of O. But, in Section 7.7 – which concerns failure to reach a definitive agreement, we promise to return the deposit in the flat amount of $100,000 (no mention is made of interest).

I am not aware if this was done on purpose, if this violates our normal protocol, or even how much money we are talking here. But, just wanted to make sure that you were aware of this distinction.

Board Action/Information Summary

TITLE:

New Amended Term Sheet Shaw-Howard/FL Av JD Site

PURPOSE:

Obtain Board action on an amended term sheet and additional time to negotiate a joint development agreement and lease for the Shaw-Howard/Florida Avenue joint development site to be brought to the Board not later than July 30, 2010.

DESCRIPTION:

In January 2010, the Board approved an extension to March 31, 2010 to bring an amended term sheet, with an improved financial offer, for the Shaw-Howard U station/Florida Avenue joint development site. Metro`s site consists of three separate parcels totaling 28,376 sf located between 7th and 9th streets NW in Washington, DC

The project presented in January had these features:

- A proposed development of 100,000 sf on Metro property consisting of ground floor retail along Florida Avenue and four stories of stick-built residential apartments above the retail space. Eight percent of the housing would be affordable under the District of Columbia`s mandatory Inclusionary Zoning regulations.

- Combining the Metro parcels between 8th and 9th streets with developer-controlled property on 9th Street to allow potentially greater density on Metro`s land. If any density increase were granted by the District of Columbia, Metro would receive an increase in rent representing Metro`s share of the combined properties.

- A 99-year ground lease with provisions for rent adjustment.

- A development team led by Banneker Ventures, LLC, with Banc of America Community Development Corporation (BACDC) as its development and financing partner.

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED

- A financial offer that the Board did not find satisfactory.

Having reviewed its options during the extension period, Banneker Ventures now proposes the following project:

- A proposed development of 153,000 sf with ground floor retail along Florida Avenue and four stories of stick built housing on the smallest parcel and six stories of light steel-gauge-construction housing on the larger two parcels. The project would still include 8% affordable housing. The higher amount of development is made possible by taking advantage of the light steel-gauge construction method so that bonus density allowed for affordable housing can be realized. If yet additional density were achieved, Metro would receive additional rent.

- A 75-year ground lease of the site with provisions for periodic rent adjustment.

- A development only on Metro parcels. The funds budgeted for acquisition of the adjacent non-Metro property would be used instead to pay ground rent to Metro.

- The development team led by Banneker currently retains BACDC as its development and financing partner. However, Banneker has indicated that BACDC is uncomfortable with a lease. Consequently, subsequent to term sheet approval, Banneker will seek another experienced development partner to be approved by Metro. BACDC is the third development partner that Banneker has proposed.

- A significantly improved financial offer.

- A provision in the joint development agreement and lease that, if foundations to street level are not fully completed within 7 months of the lease closing, Metro can default the developer and terminate the lease.

Metro facilities on the site consist of two underground rail tunnels and a vent shaft opening to 8th Street. These facilities would be reserved in perpetuity for Metro.

Staff is requesting that the Board act on the amended term sheet and a time extension to July 30, 2010 to bring to the Board a joint development agreement and lease for the site that conform to the amended term sheet.

FUNDING IMPACT:

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED WMATA-INV 013148

The revenue to Metro is significantly improved from that presented in January 2010 and is commensurate with the 2008 appraised value at developer selection.

Revenue from the project will be deposited into the Transit Infrastructure Investment Fund (TIIF).

This memorandum is in response to your request for an update on the subject issue. As you are aware, in January 2010, staff presented Banneker Ventures' proposed terms for the disposition of Metro properties along Florida Avenue. At that time, the Board requested Banneker to return with an improved offer.

In response, Banneker has updated its proposal, and attached with this memo is a detailed comparison of the terms proposed in 2008, in January 2010, and the present March 2010 proposal. As you requested, I am providing you this memo summarizing Banneker's new proposed terms so that you can transmit these materials to Board members.

In several significant ways Banneker has improved its offer:

- The value of the offer is higher, a $5.2 million capitalized lease payment at closing versus a $2.8 million proposal in January. It results from the Developer's being able to take advantage of the density bonus for affordable housing through a construction technique not previously envisioned and eliminating costs of acquiring adjacent land.
- Development will occur only on Metro parcels which greatly simplifies implementation. In January the Developer had proposed combining Metro's parcels with those under Developer control and constructing a building straddling both parcels; this compromised Metro's control of its own land in the event of a Developer default. Now that issue has been eliminated.
- A 75-year lease term is proposed instead of the 99-year term put forth in January, allowing Metro, if it wants, to recapture the site at an earlier point in time.
- As requested by the Board, there is a provision that allows Metro to recapture the site should the Developer not proceed in a timely manner. Metro can default the Developer and then terminate the lease if the foundation/garage level of the development is not completed within 28 months of execution of a joint development agreement.

Washington
Metropolitan Area
Transit Authority

As with all Board term sheet approvals, any material changes in project details, terms, development principals, etc. would be brought before the Board for review as part of action related to a final Joint Development Agreement. If the Board approves the terms summarized above, staff will return to the Board for approval of a Joint Development Agreement in the June/July timeframe.

Overall, the current offer is commensurate with Metro's appraisal at the time of Developer selection in 2008.

Per our meeting today, this is a reminder that we should inform the developer of the following:

1. There will be no more negotiating of the terms after the board approves the Term Sheet; and

2. The Developer must work off of the Florida Ave Lease draft that was sent to them by WMATA on 7/24/09. We cannot work off of the Rhode Island Ave Lease for reasons previously provided to John Hagner and Omar Karim.

Have a good weekend,

Josh

Nat,

Thanks for your thoughts. We appreciate them. For purposes of tomorrow, we accept the Term Sheet as sent to us this evening.

Following approval of the Term Sheet, we will give more thought to this particular issue to help come up with a way to meet your goals. Should we be able to come up with an agreeable solution prior to finalizing the JDA and Lease, we could include the solution in these docs. Alternatively, there is probably even more time bt approval of these docs and execution of the Lease prior to Closing to come up with solutions. In either case, we promise to provide you and your team with some solutions to address the concerns of all parties.

Thanks for working so hard on this. Finalizing the JDA and Lease should now be a piece of cake.

John--

I heard a problem and I didn't hear a solution. Also, for the reasons laid out below, I don't understand at all your concept that we're making an above market imposition on the Developer.

Here are our premises:

It's our land.

Long-term real estate values in the DC region have grown faster than 3%. A location on U Street in between U Street and Shaw/Howard stations has growth potential and value stability unlike the vast majority of property in the region, and its long-term appreciation value is significant.

Agreeing to a lease that is based on an escalation rate less than the the property's probable long-term appreciation rate is selling ourselves short. Marking to market each decade and then holding constant for each 10-year period while property values and lease-rates available to building owners appreciate is leaving significant value on the table each year in a decade.

Without going to a spreadsheet, if we were simply to mark to market each decade, in year one of any given decade we'd get 4% less than the rental income available to a building owner on average. The next year we'd get 8% less than full value, the next year 12% less than full value, each year the same until the last year of the decade, when we'd be getting 42% below full value. That's a lot of value to leave on the table by marking to market each decade and holding constant for 10 years. Having a 3% escalation rate each year through the decade is intended to keep the rent to us, the land-owner, comparable but slightly below the long-term average increase in value until the next reset. The language we've provided is intended to keep us at rent levels close to market value for each year of the remaining 39 years of the lease without giving away the game, as your proposals would appear to have us do.

Other premises:

FOIA CONFIDENTIAL TREATMENT REQUESTED WMATA-INV 013162

At Twinbrook, we negotiated a lease with JBG with precisely the terms we proposed.

Long-term leases are finance-able at terms less than 99 years.

If you have a concern about lender certainty and project finance-ability, as you suggest you do, we are open to proposals that do not systematically erode Metro's ability to realize the value of its land over the period 60-99. We're open to a capitalization of future rent at year 60 for the period 60-99, and we're open to rent levels re-set every decade to be constant for the decade, but if rent levels are reset to be constant for a decade for the purpose of certainty, then they should be set above market for the first five years of the decade with the expectation that they'd be below market the second half. Maybe you have other thoughts.

Until we hear a counter that protects our value in a market-rate setting from years 60-99, the proposal we've made is our final proposal.

Respectfully,

Nat

Carol and Josh: Let me share my response to the final change mandated by WMATA. The effects of this change are as follows:

1. WMATA will charge more than the Fair Rental Value of the Lease Property after the 61st lease year. If the Monthly Lease Payments are based on Fair Rental Value, then the 3% escalation either has to be considered in setting the Monthly Lease Payments or the escalation is an above-market imposition on the DEVELOPER. When the Fair Rental Value is determined by the three appraisers, their determination is for a period of years. WMATA is not recognizing that fact and holding the Monthly Lease Payments to the Fair Rental Value during the time period determined by the three appraisers.

2. Resetting the Monthly Lease Payments to Fair Rental Value every ten years makes the Lease un-financeable after the 60th lease year. No institutional lender will make a loan longer than ten years under these circumstances, which eliminates all the Federal and GSE (Government Sponsored Entities, i.e., Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac) as lenders. To be precise, the lender will only make a loan that self-amortizes in ten years because no institutional lender will take the risk of an unlimited base rent increase while their loan is still unpaid. I'm sharing this from actual experience of litigating an almost identical issue for almost five years in the District of Columbia where the tenant under a long-term ground lease which had periodic repricing to full market rent could not refinance the leasehold estate on a permanent loan basis. This meant the tenant could not refinance the leasehold estate to pay for the needed renovation of the building and the substantial tenant improvements and lease brokerage fees to prepare for a full-building tenant. As you would expect, the tenant sued the landlord to modify the ground lease. I can't share anymore because the litigation settled under a strict confidentiality agreement. However, the "lesson learned" from this experience is that ground leases with short-term periodic repricing of the ground rent can't be refinanced on the long-term basis needed for major renovations and improvements.

I respectfully believe the last change vitiates the benefit of a lease over 60 years.

1. Amended and Restated Term Sheet revised in accordance with the discussions since Monday, which finalizes our understanding; and
2. "Redline...#157; of the Amended and Restated Term Sheet against the version that we provided to WMATA on November 2, 2009 at 6:20p.

The revised language on Capital Events was taken from the term sheet for Rhode Island Ave., and the concept of adjusting the base rent for additional density stops after the first 60 years because the re-appraisal will be based on the Leased Property as if vacant, thereby assuming the maximum density has been constructed on the land.

Omar, once again the term sheet was sent out to the Board on Friday for its consideration on Thursday November 16.

Please note the two points below in Josh Montague's e-mail, which we will adhere to. If you want further explanation, which does not appear necessary to us because we have already given you reasons, do feel free to give me a call.
Many thanks,

Per our meeting today, this is a reminder that we should inform the developer of the following:

1. There will be no more negotiating of the terms after the board approves the Term Sheet; and

2. The Developer must work off of the Florida Ave Lease draft that was sent to them by WMATA on 7/24/09. We cannot work off of the Rhode Island Ave Lease for reasons previously provided to John Hagner and Omar Karim.

Have a good weekend,

Josh

Nat,

Thanks for your thoughts. We appreciate them. For purposes of tomorrow, we accept the Term Sheet as sent to us this evening.

Following approval of the Term Sheet, we will give more thought to this particular issue to help come up with a way to meet your goals. Should we be able to come up with an agreeable solution prior to finalizing the JDA and Lease, we could include the solution in these docs. Alternatively, there is probably even more time bt approval of these docs and execution of the Lease prior to Closing to come up with solutions. In either case, we promise to provide you and your team with some solutions to address the concerns of all parties.

Thanks for working so hard on this. Finalizing the JDA and Lease should now be a piece of cake.

John--

I heard a problem and I didn't hear a solution. Also, for the reasons laid out below, I don't understand at all your concept that we're making an above market imposition on the Developer.

Here are our premises:

It's our land.

Long-term real estate values in the DC region have grown faster than 3%. A location on U Street in between U Street and Shaw/Howard stations has growth potential and value stability unlike the vast majority of property in the region, and its long-term appreciation value is significant.

Agreeing to a lease that is based on an escalation rate less than the the property's probable long-term appreciation rate is selling ourselves short. Marking to market each decade and then holding constant for each 10-year period while property values and lease-rates available to building owners appreciate is leaving significant value on the table each year in a decade.

Without going to a spreadsheet, if we were simply to mark to market each decade, in year one of any given decade we'd get 4% less than the rental income available to a building owner on average. The next year we'd get 8% less than full value, the next year 12% less than full value, each year the same until the last year of the decade, when we'd be getting 42% below full value. That's a lot of value to leave on the table by marking to market each decade and holding constant for 10 years. Having a 3% escalation rate each year through the decade is intended to keep the rent to us, the land-owner, comparable but slightly below the long-term average increase in value until the next reset. The language we've provided is intended to keep us at rent levels close to market value for each year of the remaining 39 years of the lease without giving away the game, as your proposals would appear to have us do.

Other premises:

At Twinbrook, we negotiated a lease with JBG with precisely the terms we proposed.

Long-term leases are finance-able at terms less than 99 years.

If you have a concern about lender certainty and project finance-ability, as you suggest you do, we are open to proposals that do not systematically erode Metro's ability to realize the value of its land over the period 60-99. We're open to a capitalization of future rent at year 60 for the period 60-99, and we're open to rent levels re-set every decade to be constant for the decade, but if rent levels are reset to be constant for a decade for the purpose of certainty, then they should be set above market for the first five years of the decade with the expectation that they'd be below market the second half. Maybe you have other thoughts.

Until we hear a counter that protects our value in a market-rate setting from years 60-99, the proposal we've made is our final proposal.

Respectfully,

Nat

Carol and Josh: Let me share my response to the final change mandated by WMATA. The effects of this change are as follows:

1. WMATA will charge more than the Fair Rental Value of the Lease Property after the 61st lease year. If the Monthly Lease Payments are based on Fair Rental Value, then the 3% escalation either has to be considered in setting the Monthly Lease Payments or the escalation is an above-market imposition on the DEVELOPER. When the Fair Rental Value is determined by the three appraisers, their determination is for a period of years. WMATA is not recognizing that fact and holding the Monthly Lease Payments to the Fair Rental Value during the time period determined by the three appraisers.

2. Resetting the Monthly Lease Payments to Fair Rental Value every ten years makes the Lease un-financeable after the 60th lease year. No institutional lender will make a loan longer than ten years under these circumstances, which eliminates all the Federal and GSE (Government Sponsored Entities, i.e., Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac) as lenders. To be precise, the lender will only make a loan that self-amortizes in ten years because no institutional lender will take the risk of an unlimited base rent increase while their loan is still unpaid. I'm sharing this from actual experience of litigating an almost identical issue for almost five years in the District of Columbia where the tenant under a long-term ground lease which had periodic repricing to full market rent could not refinance the leasehold estate on a permanent loan basis. This meant the tenant could not refinance the leasehold estate to pay for the needed renovation of the building and the substantial tenant improvements and lease brokerage fees to prepare for a full-building tenant. As you would expect, the tenant sued the landlord to modify the ground lease. I can't share anymore because the litigation settled under a strict confidentiality agreement. However, the "lesson learned" from this experience is that ground leases with short-term periodic repricing of the ground rent can't be refinanced on the long-term basis needed for major renovations and improvements.

I respectfully believe the last change vitiates the benefit of a lease over 60 years.

Carol,

The subject item (copy of BAIS 100527 used for 1/14/10 PDRE Cmte attached) was scheduled to go to the Executive Session of the PDRE Committee on 3/11/10. As you are aware, that committee has been reconfigured into two committees: (1) Policy, Program Development, and Intergovernmental Relations Committee and (2) Joint Development and Real Estate Committee. This MEAD would come under the latter, which will first meet on 3/25/10.

The Procedures for WMATA Board of Directors 2010 state, "Committees shall not meet in executive session." Accordingly, if it is appropriate for this item to be considered in Executive Session, it would go the Board Executive Session, which will meet on 3/25/10 immediately after the Joint Development and Real Estate Committee meets.

Given the nature and history of this item, does COUN feel this item should go to the Joint Development and Real Estate Committee, which is now wholly a public session, or to the Board Executive Session?

Absent COUN's having a different view, PLJD would be comfortable taking this item to the Joint Development and Real Estate Committee.

Of interest is Jim Graham's view of public versus executive consideration. He is the first Chair of the Joint Development and Real Estate Committee. When told by SECT that most of the joint development and real estate items that had gone to the PDRE Committee had gone to the Executive Session and therefore now would go to the Board Executive Session rather than to the Joint Development and Real Estate Committee, he said that going forward the default decision should

The MEAD Title in the system is "Amended Term Sheet for Shaw-Howard/FL Ave JD Site." This title is on the BOARD version, the edit version and the printed versions of the MEAD.

SECT has checked their records and is saying that the MEAD in question, MEAD# 100527, is the exact one that was presented to the BOARD on Jan. 28, 2010 and therefore was approved by Ms. Sequeira-Castillo in the MEAD system, afterwards.

SECT would like to know if you have a specific concern or question regarding this MEAD.

Subject: RE: PARP Request #11-0124 (FL AV)

Today, I gave Keysia Thom an estimate of my time to go through records, e-mails and organize (13 hours) for the items in the Holland & Knight letter
I also let her know of others who worked on this project through the time that Banneker was informed of an indefinite tabling:
PLJD- Nat, Steve, Malcolm M., Mark M
JDAC- Robinson, Bushnaq
GOVR- Lawson
COUN- Biondi, Montague

There are probably others

I also told Keysia to check with Carol, as we had been looking into whether Holland & Knight had a conflict

The Wonder Bread Factory - One Night Only!!!

In April 1971, citizen activists joined together to form Don't Tear It Town to save the Old Post Office on Pennsylvania Avenue. The building was slated for demolition, and only its 310' tall tower, was to be saved.
40 years later, DCPL will celebrate accomplishments such as the Old Post Office and numerous others at its 40th Anniversary Celebration at the Wonder Bread Factory. Situated south of the Howard Theater and adjacent to the site of the United Negro College Fund headquarters, both under construction, the Shaw neighborhood is burgeoning with redevelopment.

Vacant for decades, the Wonder Bread Factory holds limitless possibilities! Join us for cocktails and dancing as we celebrate how historic preservation builds strong cities 12 ways and envision what this long-vacant building can be in the future.

We do not have current plans (they need to be revised from office to housing). However, the intent is NOT to build over the open track area. There is a possibility but I think not a likelihood of a pedestrian bridge from the garage to the housing.

In the open area on each side of the tracks on the west side of the PGP station, the developer is pursuing construction of a student housing high rise apartment building on the north side and a 600-car garage on the south side. They will need board approval of business terms (currently scheduled for March) and a form of lease (currently scheduled for Sept) and planning approvals and then building approvals from the County. They plan to start construction of the garage in 2013 and the student housing in 2014.

Tom,
Would you please let me know what projects are scheduled at or near WMATA Stations and Facilities that will impact landscape services.

To All,
Yesterday I met with vendors to discuss landscape renovations at PG Plaza and Arlington Cemetery. During the discussions Landscape Supervisor Duane Wilson mention that at one time there was a building planned to cover the rest of the open part of the station. Does anyone know if that is going to happen anytime soon? What current planning is for PG Plaza? We don't want to spend money then have it all removed in a couple years.

Due to market conditions and lack of demand for office space at the station site, developer is changing the use from a planned office building and garage project to a student housing.

The student housing and associated garage will be built on the same footprint of approved office building and garage (on both sides of station platform and tracks), and will be developed per the following schedule:

- April 1, 2013: Parking garage construction commencement
- April 1, 2014: Parking garage construction completion
- March 1, 2014: Student housing building construction commencement

Metro garage and DOES building are open and operating Developer for private portion of site still finalizing plans, construction documents and financing to best of our knowledge

Resolution still needed on several items, without, at present, a high level point of contact at DC Dept of Real Estate Services to help resolve

1. DDOT had Metro move a sign to garage, which we did, but DC now needs to grant us an easement for the sign
2. Access road to Metro garage (and DOES garage) needs upgrading to meet either DC ROW standards or Metro standards; at present it meets neither will likely result in increased maintenance costs
3. In DOES part of Metro garage, a contractor has installed equipment without notice or consultation with WMATA contrary to our operating agreement

"Jim, wanted to let you know and give you the heads up that Bill Meyers of the dc examiner contacted me on Friday afternoon and recounted out entire conversation from our meeting with me, Jim, you and your staff and the Williams. And while I know this meeting was off the record, he knew quite a bit and was calling for a confirmation because he was writing a story on it next week. Despite our legal and general concerns regarding your request that the Williams' withdraw from the wmata development contract--contracts they won oth fair and square and other contract information, in exchange for your support of the lottery contract, please know that no one from our team contacted the media as it would not be in our interest or your interests to publicize your unusual request at our meeting.
We have discussed this situation with our lawyers and are awaiting their thoughts on how to navigate these issues and potential issues raised by Bill.
Bill also confirmed for me that his source was from the District Building, but not from anyone in the meeting. That makes sense as he would not need a confirmation from you or us, had he got it directly from a meeting participant. In any event, my sense is that he will be contacting you next week regarding the same. To date, we have not provided any confirmation or comment on the story. You and your communications person may want to strategize on your response to Bill, as he express serious political and legal concerns, as our lawyers have, regarding the linking of the subject projects as well as your vote, your role as a legislator and your opposition to the same on both of these projects.
In the interim, please check with your staff as to whether they may have had conversations with third parties as to the text and substance of our meeting. We remain concerned about this apparent leak and its impact on our ability to work with you on resolving these matters and your ability to remain active on these matters as a legislator.
Please give me a call if you would like to further discuss. thanks."

Jim,

I think being honest with Graham is the right move as well. We have begun some preliminary talks with LaKritz, the developer he wants to see win the site.

If Graham wants to cut the deal with Lakritz for a "better project" we could do that. But I just can't give the project to anyone.

Other issues, I spoke with my father and he certainly did know about or pay for any racist posters. He couldn't speak for his partner Paul, but he's deceased. And no one would have thought he would have paid for them as well.

In speaking with Sinclair he denied putting the posters up. And paying for them to get done. He did have a newspaper at one time that he was the editor of called the GA Defender. And does recall some editorials that spoke about gentrification.

One other thing that should be mentioned to council member Graham is that we have tried to support him several times during his runs for city council and that he has accepted thousands of dollars that were bundled and hand delivered to him from Clubu and various entities that were in my control. Thousands.

So when he ask was I funding his enemies, the answer is no they funded you Mr. Graham.

Just a thought,

Warren

We should discuss with the councilmemeber, the fact that, even though I don't like it to prove to him that I'm "onboard" and "non-threatning" I would give him the wmata project.

The legal realities are that I can't do that. Banneker Ventures own 35% of the rights to develop the sites. Two other companies have much more to lose. If we tried to drop out they would sue us. We've got six figures of expenses as well as a six figure deposit being held by wmata.

Is this something Omar and I go in with Jim and Crystal to discuss with the councilmember? Our wmata board meeting where this gets voted on is this thursday.

Advice?

Good afternoon. Quick update?Crystal and I are meeting with Councilmember Jim Graham tomorrow at 11am. This will be our first meeting and also our most important meeting and we are going to get together tomorrow morning ahead of time to make sure we have all our facts straight and the message and discussion leads us to a point where he feels comfortable and he has ownership of the effort to obtain Council approval of the W2I contract.

As for others, we also have a meeting tomorrow at 4pm with Cheh (Ward 3). Kwame Brown told us that he is booked solid for the next three weeks. Catania is also too busy. I?ll keep you posted on the others.

All,

Please find attached the latest version of the FAQ and a new document Facts about the DC Lottery Bid. All of the information in the Fact Sheet is taken from the hearing transcript almost verbatim. It would be helpful if everyone could take the time over the next 3 days and closely review the material for accuracy. If you could use the track changes feature in Microsoft Word and make your edits onto the document it would be helpful to me.

Let me know which document may be better to leave with members following our lobby visits. I will ask Jim to weigh in on that as well. Remember, Jim and I can only be effective if we are armed with the facts, as we represent W2I.

Thanks,

Warren, I think we should be upfront with Graham about why this piece of his request cannot be accommodated. Its pretty clear that you are unable for very strict legal reasons to unilaterally make that decision. Is there a possibility that this project could be expanded to include someone of his liking? This Metro project is only one project in a long list of upcoming projects and if we were to have some idea of that list and work with Graham proactively going forward and perhaps on something specific that he wants, that would be very useful and valuable to him. Let me know what you think...we should have an idea of our position and what we can offer before we have the conversation with Graham or Calvin. Jim James E. Please find attached the latest version of the FAQ and a new document Facts about the DC Lottery Bid. All of the information in the Fact Sheet is taken from the hearing transcript almost verbatim. It would be helpful if everyone could take the time over the next 3 days and closely review the material for accuracy. If you could use the track changes feature in Microsoft Word and make your edits onto the document it would be helpful to me.

Let me know which document may be better to leave with members following our lobby visits. I will ask Jim to weigh in on that as well. Remember, Jim and I can only be effective if we are armed with the facts, as we represent W2I.

Thanks,

Crystal

Sinclair was observed putting the posters up.

I would rather not continue this on email.

I will check on the examiner. I know I did not speak to them.

The rejection of your application at Metro (which has not been approved) is necessitated not by any of this but by other factors relating to the application.

I typically answer emails before 9 AM on weekdays. If you email me after that, it is likely that you will hear from me the next weekday. If there is a need to communicate prior to that, you may wish to call me.

Councilmember Graham,

I know you are out of town, but hopefully you are checking email?

We looked into the questions you asked. As you know, Warren Williams spoke emphatically that he had absolutely no involvement in paying for, producing or promoting the racist posters that were painted of you. Warren spoke with his father who said he did not know about or pay for the posters. While he couldn't speak for his partner Paul who is deceased, no one believes he would have paid for them either.

Warren also spoke with Sinclair Skinner who denied putting the posters up or paying for them to be produced. He did have a newspaper at one time that he was the editor of called the Georgia Ave. Defender and does remember his editorials that were critical of you and which spoke about gentrification, but that was the extent of his actions.

The Williams family confirmed with me again that no family member ever made a contribution to the campaign of Chad Williams, who challenged your seat.

I realize that you have had doubts about these matters, but these are the answers which I have received and those who have been asked these questions stand by what they say emphatically.

As for Metro, there are a number of factors that make it impossible for us to even consider accommodating your request.

I wanted you to also be aware that our communications person, Crystal Wright, received a call from a reporter from the DC Examiner who was asking questions about our meeting and seemed to know a great deal about what was said. Since I don?t talk to reporters, I would suggest that you contact Crystal directly if you would like to know more about this. Please know that no one from our team contacted the media as it would not be in our interest or your interest to publicize what was discussed.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks,

Jim

Warren,
I'll see you tomorrow. From a business strategy standpoint, I suggest you do this:

1. Our Nupe is totally correct on the facts. However, only you can get him to see the fact that in the long run, you are the one that gets hurt in this (more delays in getting the deal moving); the city has to either spend extra money to do a contract under $1m; and the DC residents are hurt.
2. On the illegal point, it is not illegal according to current DC contracting rules. For example, there are no restrictions, that I can see, that would prevent your company from selling an equity stake or bringing on an equity party, etc., that would impact the current contract. He should have his legal team research this point.
3. Our Nupe could be the one that is viewed by the public as brining 'smart' resolution to this problem. It's not like the Council can say (and we can confirm this) that they conceived of this idea. The beauty here is that you (Warren) and our Nupe can say that you both turned to LONG-TIME friends and business colleagues to bring in additional expertise. You could also state that you approached me a year or two years ago. However, I was tied up with getting Walter Reed back on track given the Presidential level attention on the facility. I have one of the Top Lottery executives in the country that happens to be a black female; we have been a CBE company since 1997; we current have Millions of dollars in Federal contracts with respected agencies, such as, NIST (one of the most respected research federal agencies in the government), Dept of Defense (we rescued Walter Reed, which our DC Congress Rep was instrumental in brining to the National stage and a DC based company help Walter Reed receive it's highest JACHO hospital inspection score ever; we work with Dept of Commerce and Dept of Labor; and we are close to being 3 out of 290 minority companies to receive an actual contract from the Treasury Dept on TARP.

Again, I think it totally right for our Nupe to feel this way. However, the smarter play, especially for you, is to get this done now. I don't think there has to be any precedent setting. He can make it clear to the older guy that it is not. Rather than a compromise, our Nupe can play this as Barack would -put the best interest of the residents first; work with rivals; get this done.

I want to give this one last shot before I jump off this deal (still work with you on other stuff), because it is really taking a lot of time. Again, whatever you need me to do, let me know. /eb

Good afternoon. Quick update?Crystal and I are meeting with Councilmember Jim Graham tomorrow at 11am. This will be our first meeting and also our most important meeting and we are going to get together tomorrow morning ahead of time to make sure we have all our facts straight and the message and discussion leads us to a point where he feels comfortable and he has ownership of the effort to obtain Council approval of the W2I contract.

As for others, we also have a meeting tomorrow at 4pm with Cheh (Ward 3). Kwame Brown told us that he is booked solid for the next three weeks. Catania is also too busy. I?ll keep you posted on the others.

All,

Please find attached the latest version of the FAQ and a new document Facts about the DC Lottery Bid. All of the information in the Fact Sheet is taken from the hearing transcript almost verbatim. It would be helpful if everyone could take the time over the next 3 days and closely review the material for accuracy. If you could use the track changes feature in Microsoft Word and make your edits onto the document it would be helpful to me.

Let me know which document may be better to leave with members following our lobby visits. I will ask Jim to weigh in on that as well. Remember, Jim and I can only be effective if we are armed with the facts, as we represent W2I.

Thanks,

Crystal

He explained that Cheh's office hasn't really focused on the lottery contract issue because she's trying to get her energy bill passed. He said they were surprised when the legislation appeared so abruptly on the agenda because no one knew about it prior to that. At the start of our meeting he said he's heard from the LTE folks and that believes there has been lots of "vitriol" thrown around from both sides. Jonathan said he's interested in the facts and reminded me that he's a lawyer as are most of the staff members in Cheh's office. During our 30 minute discussion, we talked mostly about the qualifications of W2I to handle the contract and mostly asked questions around W2Tech's qualifications, which I believe I answered to his satisfaction even leaving him with Alake's resume and other support documents submitted around that question. I told him Alaka was running the company day to day and said she would be happy to join me in a follow up visit, which he was amenable to. He agreed with me when I remarked that this issue has flown far off course from the facts and that we would hope council members votes would be based on the facts not personalities. He and another staffer in the meeting both nodded their heads and smiled in agreement. Jonathan asked if we could send over the three ring binder today or Tuesday because he can't find Cheh's copy. He also asked questions below, which I promised to get him by Tuesday. 1. Jonathan asserts that when the RFP was first issued it had the terms of the contract be for 5 years with a 5 year renewal. He said the terms changed somewhere during the process because the final and best offer was for 6 six years with a 4 year renewal. Why did this occur? (If Payne should provide this answer then I can direct him to Payne's office but we should try to find out) 2. What would be the net loss of DC jobs if W2I takes over the contract? (mentioned that only the server would be operated in Idaho but I told him I would get specific numbers). 3. Does Intralot have experience in Keno/Rapid Draw in North America? 4. There was a protest letter sent by LTE to (the Lottery Board, he didn't specify). He said that the city then sent a response in writing and he would like to get a copy of this letter. He said that if the letter was sealed, he doesn't understand why it would be sealed from a legal point of view. Jim Link is in Cleveland with a dying family member, so we will try to schedule meetings for next week if any other requests come through. I am hoping to get him our responses by tomorrow morning. Warren, I think we should be upfront with Graham about why this piece of his request cannot be accommodated. Its pretty clear that you are unable for very strict legal reasons to unilaterally make that decision. Is there a possibility that this project could be expanded to include someone of his liking? This Metro project is only one project in a long list of upcoming projects and if we were to have some idea of that list and work with Graham proactively going forward and perhaps on something specific that he wants, that would be very useful and valuable to him. Let me know what you think...we should have an idea of our position and what we can offer before we have the conversation with Graham or Calvin. Jim James E.
